If Prohibition Went Only Negro Dismissed National City's Tale Remorseless With Cotton

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1930, King Features Synd., Inc.

THE PRESIDENT, according to Washington reports, agrees with Mr. Wickersham that all of the states should share in prohibition enforcement. Prohibition machinery should be made stronger, with state and national governments standing loyally behind it.

On the other side of the fence, the war against prohibition continues. An organization of young "crusaders," with headquarters in Cleveland, has vowed that prohibition shall go. There are many interesting names among the young crusaders, not dismayed, evidently, by the sad fate of some crusaders of old.

Suppose, "just for the sake of supposing," that anti-prohibition should win and prohibition be eliminated.

How would the bootleg crime army be absorbed?

At least 50,000 determined and desperate men are in that army. They have become hardened to quick shooting and accustomed to very "easy money."

What would they do if bootlegging, with its hundreds of millions of annual profit, vanished over night.

Does anyone think the army would peaceably disband, returning to dull hard work for small pay?

Hardly. For the first few years, when, if ever, prohibition takes wings, hire for your business and home extra watchmen. They will be needed.

The only negro student at West Point is dismissed "honorably" for deficiency in mathematics.

Sixty-three white men failed in examinations with him and were also dismissed.

Prejudice had nothing to do with it, although Lonso Souleigh Parkham, the negro cadet dismissed, is the 14th to enter the academy and the 11th to be dismissed at the end of six months.

It is no reflection on any race to say that capacity for intensive mental effort, such as West Point demands, can hardly be acquired in two or three generations.

A fast-running horse and a man thinking clearly go back through many specialized generations of running and thinking.

Why are Jewish boys and girls usually leaders in our public school classes? Because their ancestors were studying when ours were running over the British Isles, their stomachs painted blue with woad.

"Mark now how a plain tale shall put you down" is the substance of President Charles F. Mitchell's report on the National City Bank for 1929.

Earnings were more than twenty-six millions—five and a half millions more than in 1928.

Three millions went to a contingency reserve, $9,406,327 was added to undivided profits; stockholders got $13,510,000. Quite a business for one bank.

The number of shareholders was multiplied by three in the year, which ended with new high records in resources, deposits and invested capital.

Mr. Mitchell says he is optimistic about the future. He might be.

A Senate committee, investigating cotton exchanges, is told that a small group of big buyers, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth and Henry Ford among them, keep down the price of cotton, "their buyers remorselessly using every expedient to drive down the price of cotton fabrics."

The four firms mentioned use one-fifth of all cotton goods manufactured.

Buyers, naturally, buy as cheap as they can. But they must buy, they cannot confiscate.

Government, state and national, and cotton growers should find some way "remorselessly" to drive the price of cotton up.

Big buyers must have cotton, growers and their friends have the whip hand, but don't know how to use it.

From Portland to San Francisco, Air Mail Pilot Ralph Virden flew at an average speed of 201 miles an hour, breaking records, and climbing 12,000 feet up to get the desired "fast tail wind" to drive him along.

The postoffice has done more to develop American aviation than all other agencies combined.

President Hoover and Postmaster Brown, and the brave, brilliantly able mail pilots deserve the public's thanks.

LOMASNEY IS BALKED IN GAS FIGHT

Claims Fraud in Granting of Permit, but Injunction Halts Hearing

Thwarted by a court injunction from waging a fight against a gas station permit at Nashua and Minot sts., West End, Martin M. Lomasney, 'Mahatma' of Ward 3, bitterly assailed the street commissioners, the law department and individuals today at City Hall.

Standing on the floor of the commission's hearing room in City Hall annex, Lomasney cried, "swindlers," "the tunnel gang" and "robbers," and declared the former owner of the site had been defrauded of his property.

Gladys T. Besarick was granted the permit on December 16 for the gas station and Lomasney, through a hearing scheduled today, sought to have the grant rescinded.

HALTED BY INJUNCTION

Just before the hearing was scheduled, however, a temporary injunction against the hearing was secured from Judge Cox in Superior Court.

When Lomasney reached City Hall he learned of the injunction. Entering the street commissioners' private office, he demanded to be shown a written copy of the court order. When none was forthcom-

DILLON GIFT TO HARVARD $500,000

Will Speed Building of New Field House to Replace Fire-Swept Lockers

Work will begin at once on a new Harvard locker building to replace that destroyed by fire early today with a loss in excess of $100,000.

The new building, to be known as a field house, will be the gift of Clarence Dillon, '05, New York broker and father of a junior at the college.

Dillon's pledge, said to involve about $500,000, was made some time ago. After the fire today, Director William J. Bingham of Harvard athletics talked with Mr. Dillon on the phone and it was agreed that construction would start at once.

Two firemen were injured in the battle with the flames that scorched the home of Dennis Enright, veteran caretaker at the field, and threatened for a time to leap North Harvard st., Allston, and damage the buildings of the business school.

TWO FIREMEN HURT.

The injured men are Joseph Griffin of Ladder 11, cut on the hands by glass, and Hugh McLaughlin of Engine 26, struck by a hose nozzle. Neither required hospital attention.

Four university dormitories were blacked for a time because of basements flooded by water which

SAFE LOOTED AT HOME OF SIMON IN SALEM

G. O. P. Chairman and Police Mystified as to Time of Theft of Jewels

Mysterious theft of diamonds and jewelry, valued at $26,000, from the palatial home of Joseph L. Simon, chairman of the Salem Republican city committee, and personal friend of Calvin Coolidge, has been revealed.

The theft was accomplished some time between New Year's Day and January 13, and was reported to Salem police two days ago, but was kept secret during the preliminary investigation.

The gems, according to police, were removed from the safe in the Simon home on Lafayette st., in the exclusive residential district of Salem, by someone who was familiar with the combination.

Simon, according to his report, removed the gems from the safe several weeks ago and had them transported to a jeweler in Beverly to be cleaned. They were returned to him intact, he said, and again deposited them in the safe about January 1.

FINDS SAFE UNLOCKED

Two days ago, Simon said, he went to the safe to examine the gems, as some of them were to be worn by his wife and two daughters at a wedding celebration in Salem scheduled for last night.

He found the safe unlocked and the gems, all save one bracelet valued at $100 gone. The safe he said, bore no signs of having been forced.

According to Simon's description, the jewelry consisted mostly of unset diamonds, but included several necklaces and bracelets.

One of the most extensive investigations in the history of the Salem police department has been under way since the report of the theft under the direction of Lieut. Inspector Patrick Lehan. To date it has failed to uncover the slightest clue to the whereabouts of the gems or the manner in which they were stolen.

Today state detectives were expected to join in the investigation.

Simon, long a leader in North Shore Republican circles, is one of the wealthiest men in Salem. His business is real estate. During the sojourn of Calvin Coolidge in Washington, the Salem man was a guest at Presidential functions several times.

He took over the reins of the Republican City Committee in 1923 and proved one of the most successful leaders in the history of the body.

Deland, McDonnell Are Made Judges

Asst. Dist. Atty. William H. McDonnell and former Corporation Counsel Frank S. Deland were named special district court judges by Governor Allen today. McDonnell will sit in Charlestown and Deland in Roxbury.

Special Justice Joseph E. Donovan, who has been presiding on the circuit and in the Charlestown district, was named special justice in Boston.

He takes the place vacated by Judge Elijah Adlow's recent promotion. Deland will fill the post vacated by the death of Judge Blackett.

INSURANCE FOR JOBLESS URGED

For the protection of the home and the regulating of industry, adoption of a bill calling for the creation of an employment insurance commissionso was urged today by Alfred Baker Lewis, secretary of the Socialist Party, at a hearing before the legislative committee on insurance.

The Lewis bill would also incorporate an employer's mutual employment insurance company and set up a system of unemployment insurance payments. Weekly payments of a maximum of $2 a day would be paid for a limited number of weeks to men laid off by their employers.

The speaker argued that under such a system the buying power of the unemployed would be kept up and the money thus placed in circulation would tend to increase the amount of production and consequently relieve unemployment. In this way, he said, industry could be regularized, a result, he said, being sought for by President Hoover.

George F. James Elevated to a District Judgeship

Governor Allen today appointed Special Justice George F. James of Norwood to be justice of the district court of western Norfolk in place of the late Judge Orestes T. Doe.

Bishop's Condition Reported 'Hopeful'

Rt. Rev. Dr. Samuel G. Babcock, suffragan bishop of the Massachusetts diocese of the Episcopal Church, was reported "comfortable" at the Boston City Hospital.

Bishop Babcock, whose name is still on the danger list, was seriously injured when struck by an auto in the Back Bay Monday night.

Bishop Babcock's condition is regarded as very hopeful but it will be a day or two before the seriousness of the concussions can be determined, doctors said.

TERMS OF WET LIFERS CUT

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 15 (AP)—Governor Fred W. Green today wrote the final chapter in Michigan's famous "life for liquor law" when he commuted the life sentences of five prohibition violators.

The commutations bring the sentences of the five to a term of 7½ to 15 years to comply with the new amendment to the state criminal code.

The five affected are Frank Baker, Muskegon; Mrs. Etta Mae Miller, Lansing; Alonso Noyes, Ionia; Fred Palm, Lansing, and Tony Copisa, Schoolcraft county.

M'DONALD SEES SUCCESS

London, Jan. 15 (INS)—Great Britain has high hopes for immediate and eventual results from the forthcoming five-power naval arms conference, Premier Ramsay MacDonald revealed in a conference with representatives of the British and foreign press at the foreign office today.

While Britain is hopeful that the results of the London naval conference will pave the way by a successful conclusion for a general disarmament conference under the auspices of the League of Nations, the premier said, the Government also expects that the conference will produce an agreement which will be effective immediately.

In his conference with the press the premier said his government believed the results of the forthcoming conference could not be anything but beneficial.

He stated that if the agreement reached by the delegates of the five

Woman Witness Held in Troy Slaying

The arrest of a woman as a material witness, and further identification of James Threadgill, alleged slayer, as an armed burglar, today were features of the investigation of the murder of Patrolman James J. Troy.

Mrs. Nora Gordon, 21, of West 8th st., South Boston, mother of a sickly child, was taken into custody as a material witness and held in $500 by Judge Michael J. Murray in municipal court.

Patrolman Wendall McKinnon of Division 10 identified Threadgill as one of the men he found trying to break into a radio store a few days ago.

The other man McKinnon identified from photographs as Clarence LeCours, who hanged himself with his belt in South Boston police station after being arrested as a robbery suspect.

The policeman said that LeCours stuck a gun into his stomach and commanded him to throw up his hands. McKinnon complied and the two men fled.

The patrolman was trying the door in the rear of the store when he heard a noise in front. On investigating he found a screen ripped off and two men trying to enter. He said LeCours had a jimmy under his coat.

UNDER SPECIAL GUARD

While Charles st. jail officers stood guard over the cell of Threadgill to prevent him from following LeCours' example, in committing suicide, sorrowing East Boston residents gazed their last on the features of Officer Troy.

Hundreds of persons, including many children, flowed in a constant stream into the house at 118 Brook st., where death entered a few steps ahead of life. Mrs. Anna Miller Troy, widow of the murdered policeman, is about to become a mother for the fifth time.

The funeral of Officer Troy will be in his home, 118 Brook st., East Boston, tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock. A solemn high mass of requiem will be solemnized in the Sacred Heart Church at 9:00 o'clock

BLAST ROCKS APARTMENTS

Explosion of an oil burner rocked a three-story brick apartment house in Westbourne terr., Bronskline, today, throwing a woman and four children from their beds and seriously damaging the building.

No fire followed the blast of the boiler, which smashed windows in the cellar and first floor, carried away a cellar stairway, and tore out a section of the first floor apartment occupied by the family of Nathaniel A. Kelsey.

Kelsey was not at home. His wife and four children, asleep at the time, were hurled from their beds onto the floor but were not injured.

Plaster was shaken from the ceiling of the Kelsey apartment, a bathroom window was shattered and woodwork was torn out of a closet of one of the bedrooms where the children were sleeping.

A dense smoke that followed the explosion poured through the building, penetrating the second floor apartment occupied by the family of C. S. Jopp and the third floor occupied by Mr. Schmerzler.

The neighborhood, aroused by the blast, saw the smoke and believed the house was on fire.

An investigation of the cause was

Troy Fund to Be Aided by Theater Receipts

Friday's total receipts of the Park Theater will be donated to the fund being raised for the widow and four children of Patrolman "Jimmy" Troy.

This generous donation to the worthy cause was announced today by the Park Amusement Co., operators of the Washington st. playhouse. Proceeds of all performances from 9 a. m. to 11 p. m. will go to swell the benefit fund.

"Three little girls from school," each bearing a crisp $1 bill, made the first contribution today to the fund.

The first donors were Mary Cosia, Helen Carlo and Betty Ifanno, all pupils at the Sacred Heart Parochial School, East Boston, attended by Anna and James J. Jr., daughter and son of the slain policeman.

"We want to help Anna's mother," Mary informed Joseph W. Bennett, East Boston business man, who launched the drive for funds after a conference with Police Commissioner Wilson and Superintendent Crowley.

Bennett had known "Jimmy" Troy since the day he first donned a police uniform, but his first visit to the Troy home was one of condolence yesterday. He walked into the Troy home and found Mrs. Troy and the children at their noonday meal, bought with the

CONGRESS AT WORK ON HOOVER PLAN FOR BORDER PATROL ARMY

ANTI DRY LAW MEMBERS SEE HOPE

Modification Group Takes on New Life With Prospect of Hundred Votes

Washington, Jan. 15 (AP)—Steps necessary to muster a miniature army to patrol one of the longest boundaries any nation ever has attempted to guard claimed the attention today of the House immigration committee as it moved to carry out the Hoover prohibition enforcement reorganization program.

Taking the lead over other committees which must pass upon various phases of the program, Chairman Johnson summoned Commissioner Hull of the Immigration Bureau and other officials of the Labor Department for questioning.

Meanwhile, the prohibition situation held the intense interest of many members of the House and Senate as they continued the preparation of legislation to carry out different parts of the program and committee chairmen arranged to assemble their committees to begin consideration of the proposals that have been made.

MODIFICATION PLANS.

In the House a group of "wet" members returned to their discussion of the question at an informal conference. In recent years there has been an unofficial committee in the House known as that favoring modification of the prohibition law. It has been only more or less active, but it is known that some of its members now feel that it should announce a definite aim and work to that goal.

Some members of the committee have advocated that a particular phase of the prohibition issue be singled out and every effort be made to obtain a roll call vote on the proposal. These members contend that considerably more than 100 votes could be mustered in support of such a measure. They assert that in recent sessions only a handful of "wets" have voted on wet and dry questions and that there are many more votes in favor of modification among the 433 members that sweet people realize.

NEVER A RECORD VOTE

It is admitted in many quarters on the Capitol that such a record vote in the House would be of paramount interest. Many "wets" claim that since prohibition became effective there never has been an out and out roll call vote in the House on the question.

In the Senate today discussion continued informally over the constitutionality of the proposal to turn petty offenders over for trial by United States commissioners. Chairman Norris of the Senate judiciary committee has been wondering if this would not violate the constitutional guarantee of trial by jury.

Legislation to authorize commissioner trials has been pending before the committee for several years, but never reported for this reason.

NEW BILL FILED

A bill designed to accomplish the same end was before the House judiciary committee today, having been introduced yesterday by Representative McKeown, Democrat, Oklahoma. This committee was called in session for executive business, but it was thought that before adjourning it might set a date for consideration of the subject.

The session of the House immigration committee was watched with interest. Three members of it has jurisdiction over immigration measures, the House committee has control over legislation affecting the Coast Guard. The two committees probably must work together in drafting legislation to create the new border patrol force, as Secretary Mellon has recommended that this be placed under the supervision of the Coast Guard, which is a military arm of the Government.

The Williamson bill to authorize the transfer of the prohibition unit from the Treasury to the Justice Department will be taken up next week by the House expenditures committee.

5 Indicted in Woman Striker Killing

Gastonia, N. C., Jan. 15 (AP)—The Gaston County grand jury today returned true bills of indictment against five of 14 men held for it on charges of murder in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Ella May Wiggins, Bessemer City textile striker.

The men indicted were Horace Wheeler, Trey Jones, Lowry Davis, Fred Morrow and O. H. Lunsford.

poured from the ruins of the locker building through a tunnel built for heating pipes.

The halls flooded were Morris, Gellton, Chase and McCullough. Damage from the water was slight but janitors extinguished basement fires before they spread.

Students inconvenienced by the lack of heat included Allan Hoover, the President's son, who during the fire worked with others aiding the firemen carry valuable records from just inside the burning structure.

The locker building blaze proved not the usual "lark" for Harvard students, more than 1000 of whom in various stages of dress and undress, gathered to watch the flames.

There were too many treasured trophies "going up in smoke" and the building itself, for 28 years, had been the scene of preparation for Harvard teams going to battle on Soldiers Field.

There were few cheers from the student crowd, which included many Radcliffe girls, as the flames consumed silver cups, pennants, ribbons and trophies made priceless through their association with memory, and reduced to ashes the uniforms of all the university athletic teams with the exception of those of the hockey squad.

It was about an hour and a quarter from the first fire alarm and the time the fire was under control. Meantime, a second and third alarm were sounded, summoning more Boston and Cambridge apparatus. Destruction of the building included loss of a $25,000 emergency operating room recently built there.

The time of the first alarm was 12:32 a. m. and the "all out" was not rung until 8:20, making it nearly an eight-hour-day fire for the firemen. Lack of pressure handicapped the firefighters, but Chief Sennott believes the building could not have been saved, anyway.

The cause of the fire has not been determined and may never be definitely known. Enright, who with his wife and five children operated his home when it seemed doomed, made a round of inspection a few hours before discovery of the blaze and found everything as it should have been.

powers was in itself disappointing, but nevertheless had the effect of stopping competitive building. It would be a great asset and help indirectly of benefit to the world.

If on the other hand, no agreement at all was reached at the conference, the premier said, it would mean there would be at least another 10 or 20 years of competitive building.

British Ex-Navy Head Raps Disarmament

London, Jan. 15 (AP)—A meeting of the British Navy League today passed a resolution demanding that Great Britain be free to fix her own standard of naval needs and that in coming to the five-power conference she should permit no reduction in ships, tonnage or personnel that would in any way weaken the guaranty of imperial safety.

London, Jan. 15 (INS)—W. C. Bridgeman, formerly First Lord of the Admiralty in the cabinet of Stanley Baldwin, launched a strong attack against the disarmament plans of the government of Premier MacDonald, when he spoke before the Navy League today.

As chief speaker before the assembled leaders of British marine affairs, he put forth a resolution demanding that Britain should be left free to fix her own standard of naval needs.

He demanded that at the forthcoming five-power naval arms conference the British Government should not agree to any reduction of the number of ships, tonnage or personnel of the British navy.

He declared that no reductions which would in any way lower the standard of imperial safety now maintained by Great Britain should be agreed to.

He sharply criticized any disarmament plans based on the Kellogg pact as did British Vice-Admiral A. E. Taylor in a previous speech.

"The danger of war was no greater in 1927 than it is now," Bridgeman asserted.

"The Kellogg pact only embodied in documentary form the desire of the nations of the world not to resort to war if possible," he went on. "This desire was held just as strongly by the nations in 1927 as it is now."

"We can't go on giving something for nothing," he concluded.

British Vice-Admiral A. E. Taylor today attacked the disarmament aims of President Hoover and Premier MacDonald and the Kellogg pact as being impracticable.

"Both President Hoover and Premier MacDonald have said war between Great Britain and the United States is impossible," said the admiral. The Kellogg pact, he declared, is no guarantee that war is a thing of the past.

Stimson to Try to Avert Suspicion

S. S. George Washington, Jan. 15 (AP)—It seems certain that the Anglo-American feature of the forthcoming naval conference negotiations will have a prominent place in discussions beginning with the arrival of the American delegation at London Friday.

Although Col. Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State and head of the American delegation, is not disclosing his plans, it is not improbable that he and Ramsay MacDonald, British Premier, will discuss in advances of the conference recent indications of irritation among the other powers at the close cooperation of the British and American governments in the inception of the forthcoming negotiations.

The American delegation feels strongly that such irritation is not justified and that Col. Stimson may take the first opportunity to reassure others that the two nations enter the conference unbound by any agreement except to work toward the common end of naval limitation.

A misunderstanding seems to have arisen in some quarters also regarding status of the parity agreement.

Secretary Stimson feels it would be most unfortunate if anyone entered the conference under a wrong impression on these subjects.

The George Washington is speeding eastward in the hope of reaching Plymouth late tomorrow night.

After an interim of comparatively smooth sailing indications today were that a storm was ahead. Capt. Randall was not positive that he would be able to make port before early morning Friday. In that event the delegation probably would leave Plymouth for London at about 8 o'clock Friday morning.

100 P. C. Dividend for Safe Deposit

Directors of Boston Safe Deposit & Trust Company have voted to recommend to stockholders a change in capital structure. It is proposed that the capital be increased by $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 represented by 20,000 shares, each share of a par value of $100. The proposed action merely contemplates the transfer of $1,000,000 from surplus to capital account and there will be no increase in the aggregate of capital, surplus and undivided profits.

If favorable action is taken at the special meeting of stockholders called for January 22, 1930, it is proposed to issue the new shares as a stock dividend and distribute them as fully-paid stock to the present stockholders on the basis of one share for each share held.

PARROT FEVER DEATH TOLL REACHES 8

Health Experts Believe Malady Will Die Out; Check Up on Bird Stores

Washington, Jan. 15 (AP)—With a growing list of fatalities from the mysterious disease of parrot fever, or psittacosis, federal health authorities concentrated today on an effort to prevent any further spread of the malady.

Five deaths were reported within the last 24 hours, bringing the total number to date to eight.

The most recent victims were Roger Buchanon, Yonkers, N. Y.; Mrs. Leon F. Swears, Johnstown, N. Y.; one person in Queenston, Pough, N. Y. whose identity was not revealed; Miss Catherine Tierney, Toledo, O., and Mrs. William Burns, Baltimore.

A particular effort was made to determine in what cities parrots that may have been infected were sold. Reports on a wholesale canvas of New York pet stores by agents there were awaited, together with requested information on suspicious cases of parrots and parrot noses from several states.

Dr. Charles Armston is in charge of a first hand study of the outbreak, and Dr. George W. McCoy, director of the hygienic laboratory, is taking part.

Because of the method of contagion, Dr. McCoy believes, while reports of a few more cases may be received, the epidemic will die out within a very short time. He said the publicity given the disease was worth "the work of 99 doctors," as it gave warning and should bring precaution.

No Danger of "Parrot Fever" Epidemic Here

There is no fear of an epidemic of parrot disease in Boston, it was learned today from Dr. Clarence L. Scamman of the State Department of Public Health said today.

According to Dr. Scamman, the state is continuing its canvass of bird stores, and so far the cases in North Adams are the only ones reported.

He said there is no likelihood the disease will spread and no more cases are expected to be reported, as all recent shipments of parrots here have been checked with no evidence of disease. The city is also being canvassed under direction of Dr. F. X. Mahoney.

Parrot Disease Causes 4 Deaths in Switzerland

Berne, Switzerland, Jan. 15 (INS)—Parrot disease has taken a toll of four deaths in this vicinity during the past week, it was stated today. According to some reports all the victims were persons who were the customers of a hairdresser who kept a parrot in his shop at Sienen. Others stated the disease was brought from Germany by travelers.

CALLS DRY SPY OUT OF BOUNDS

Lowell, Jan. 15 (AP)—The question of whether a federal officer was a trespasser at the time he procured evidence of alleged illegal sale of liquor against the Franco-Belgian Club in Lawrence, was raised at a hearing before United States Commissioner Richard B. Walsh today and resulted in an indefinite postponement of the proceedings while Walsh looks up the law.

Maj. W. C. MacBrayne, assistant prohibition administrator, testified that he stood in an alleyway alongside the building, and there saw the alleged traffic infiquor within the club.

Edward McAnally, counsel for the club, declared that MacBrayne was a self-confessed trespasser who ought to have no standing in court, having been on club property when he obtained his evidence.

CALL TROOPS IN INDIANA FLOOD ZONE

Soldiers Will Guard the River Banks Against Dynamiting by Farmers

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 15 (INS)—Indiana National Guard troops were ordered to Hazleton, Ind., by Adjt-Gen. Manford C. Henley today, following a report that farmers, menaced by the flooded Wabash, White and Deshee rivers, were threatening to dynamite the fill of U. S. Highway No. 41, near Hazleton.

Gen. Henley ordered out 25 men of Battery D of the 138th Field Artillery, under command of Capt. Norman A. Hart, to proceed immediately to Hazleton.

Hazleton is a town of about 700 inhabitants, 15 miles south of Vincennes. The town was reported to have been isolated by high water today, with livestock gathered on a high spot in the center of the town.

Three Dead as Wintry Blasts Grip California

San Francisco, Jan. 15 (INS)—Wintry weather today had claimed three lives in California. Meanwhile, rescue parties in California and Nevada were pushing through heavy snows to aid many who have been trapped in the mountains.

Two missing girls are being sought in the mountains back of San Bernardino, while another rescue party is trying to reach a mother and daughter in the same section. They are reported to be seriously ill.*

Marie Prevost, film actress, and five friends are beleaguered in the Tehachapis and they are said to be short of rations.

Blizzards Rage in Rocky Mountain States

Denver, Jan. 15 (AP)—High up in the snowbound crags of the northern Rocky Mountains there brewed today another potential blizzard and the entire eastern slope of the Continental Divide shivered before its warning blasts. As far south as New Mexico, the new storm piled more snow on already impassable highways.

The weather man confirmed the signs and predicted "continued cold" as thermometers in Basin, Mont., Medicine Bow, Wyo., and Denver registered 32, 22 and 8 degrees below, respectively.

Between Durango and Silverton, Colo., the predicament of 14 motorists stranded in two snowdrifts in a howling storm was a source of anxiety.

SEND BODIES OF 2 FLIERS HOME

Willimantic, Ct., Jan. 15 (AP)—The bodies of Daniel Marra and William A. Kirkpatrick, aviation cadets who were killed in an airplane crash in the woods at Lake Amston, were sent to New York today.

Ken Frazier of the Aviation Corporation said he thought the pilots were up 13,000 or 14,000 feet and lost their way when they entered the fog on the downward trip. The plane was heard at Bethany flying field and many places in the Lake Amston section. The plane's course on its low flight in the woods could be traced. Before the crash it had hit the tops of several trees and fragments of the wing fabric remain in the top branches.

There was some evidence of dips of the machine as if the pilot was trying in this way to choose a landing; that the court has interferred. Then when I ask, as a citizen, to have the court order read, there is no order.

"This permit was given to Schell, who is a former assistant district attorney, but who got out of there very suddenly when he was found to be operating and bonding property connected with the tunnel scheme, where the tunnel was placed by Harriman, Bottomley and the rest of the gang.

"There is a man here who says that this gas station property was taken from him by fraud—that he was swindled. I heard his story.

RIGHTS AT SWINDLE

"That man is Jacob Brown. I immediately reported it to the district attorney. If that property was taken from him by fraud, if he was swindled out of it, these people have no standing in court and I don't propose to let nay law department serve us with verbal communications."

While Lomasney was still addressing the crowd, Schell came again into the hearing room, this time with Deputy Sheriff Daniel A. Whelton, who served the court order.

Lomasney then told the crowd to be in Superior Court Wednesday morning and he would appear also.

One Hurt in Row of West End Lodgers

The day began excitedly today in Auburn st., West End, with John Lepore and Tony Constance, lodgers, waving bottles. Lepore, 55, went to Haymarket Relief Hospital with a punctured nose and lacerated head and face. Constance remained out of the hospital with hardly a mark on him.

Neither preferred charges. Patrolman Wallace of Joy st. station reported the men were seated at breakfast in the kitchen of the lodging house when the trouble started.

ing, he demanded that the hearing be held.

"Where is the order?" he shouted, pounding on a table. "Produce it. I want to see the order and not hear what Joe Lyons (Asst. Corp. Counsel Joseph P. Lyons), told you over the telephone."

"Well, Martin," said Chairman Thomas F. Hurley, "Joe Lyons has advised us not to hold a hearing and we must obey that advice."

LOMASNEY SPEAKER

Lomasney then re-entered the big hearing room, which was thronged with West Enders, all prepared for battle against the permit. Lomasney was about to address them when he saw former Asst. Dist. Atty. William J. Schell, counsel for the woman.

"Hello," greeted Schell, smiling.

Lomasney glared, then shouted: "How are you? Why don't you fight it out here? You got plenty of court in East Cambridge the other day, and you'll get more here before I'm through with you."

Then Lomasney addressed the crowd: "I want to call your attention," he said, "to the fact that the board of street commissioners, acting under orders, issued a permit some time ago for a gas station in Nashua st.

WANTS PERMIT REVOKED

"Only two property owners in the block were notified, one in East Boston and a representative of a New York man. As soon as I learned of this scheme, I communicated with City Hall and was assured that no permit would be approved by the mayor.

"The activities of a few individuals in stopping certain persons who were scheming to make a lot of money in Haymarket sq. on account of the tip that they had received about the location of the tunnel, caused the mayor to sign the gas permit.

"When the administration changed, and in order to cause no embarrassment to anybody, I filed with the street commission a petition to reopen the matter and revoke the permit.

ATTACKS SCHELL

"Everybody on Cotton st., Nashua st. and Billerica ct. was notified about today's hearing, but the law department, created by Malcolm Nichols, says we can't have a hearing; that the court has interferred. Then when I ask, as a citizen, to have the court order read, there is no order.

"This permit was given to Schell, who is a former assistant district attorney, but who got out of there very suddenly when he was found to be operating and bonding property connected with the tunnel scheme, where the tunnel was placed by Harriman, Bottomley and the rest of the gang.

COAST GUARDS ARE HAPPY OVER 'EXONERATION'

Failure of Grand Jury to Act Eases the Tension Caused by Black Duck Case

New London, Ct., Jan. 15 (AP)—Coast guard officers at the section base here had no comment to make today on the "no bill" report, regarded here as an exoneration of the crew of the patrol boat CG-290, by the Rhode Island state grand jury in connection with the slaying of three rum-smugglers Dec. 29. Capt. H. H. Wolf, commander of the entire coast guard destroyer force, said that he did not wish to enter into further discussion.

At the state pier, however, where boats and men are stationed, the keenness that had prevailed with the reconvening of the grand jury has been dissipated.

For the first time in more than two weeks there was happiness aboard the houseboat home of Boatswain A. C. Cornell, commander of the CG-290. There Mrs. Cornell and her five children were informed of the grand jury report.

Following stoning of a nearby houseboat last week the Cornell boat was moved to the state pier here, where it has the protection of the coast guard.

Besides Boatswain Cornell, the crew of the CG-290 on the night of the shooting was as follows: Chief Motor Machinist's Mate Louis Johnson; boatswain's mate, first class, Louis W. Gavitt; motor machinist's mate, first class, Rieden T. Bennett; motor machinist's mate, second class, Andrew Rhude; seaman, first class, Lewis R. Pearson; ship's cook, second class, Arthur E. Dye; seaman, second class, Frank W. Jakubec.

Black Duck Death Report Sent to Capital

New London, Ct., Jan. 15 (AP)—Coast Guard headquarters today announced that Lieut. Comdr. C. Von Paulsen, one-man official board of investigation of the coast guard into the killing on December 29 of the three rum runners of the Black Duck, had completed his investigation and had submitted his report to Washington.

The contents of his report were not revealed.

The injection of a "mystery witness," who claims to have seen Threadgill running from the neighborhood of the slaying shortly after the fatal shot, was another new development.

This witness is known to have been questioned at the East Dedham st. station, but authorities would not confirm or deny the import of his testimony.

bootleg fight," not authorized by the Amateur Athletic Union or the New York State Prize Fighting Commission.

It was none the worse for that, neither unions nor commission's approval could justify assault and battery, arranged for amusement.

Gustafson was knocked out in the third round, taken to a hospital and died early yesterday morning.

What makes a killing legal in a "civilized" state?

Answer: The fact that the fight is called a boxing match, and arranged, usually for profit, with politicians sharing it.

Yesterday the Irving Trust Company of New York told the cornerstone of its new building at No. 1 Wall st., probably the most valuable piece of land in the world.

In the cornerstone, Lewis K. Pierson, head of the company, deposited a history of that corner for 1000 years back, and other documents.

Three hundred years hence, men will be interested chiefly in the fact that above the cornerstone there rose the world's first 50-story bank building.

Building that structure is a real service to progress. One hundred years hence, entire cities will be housed in one building, all tenants landing on the roofs from flying machines. It will be remembered then that in 1930 bankers had imagination, although a modest 50-story building will then seem like a modest igloo.

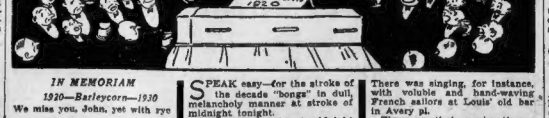
One Guess! Who Died 10 Years Ago?



IN MEMORIAM
1920—Barleycorn—1930
We miss you, John, yet with rye smile
We've tried to carry on and keep the breath of life.
You were a friend, you had no guile,
While those that took your place doth cut us like a knife.
—THE BRETHREN.

SPEAK easy—for the stroke of the decade "bongs" in dull, melancholy manner at stroke of midnight tonight.

Where will you be at midnight tonight? You will be getting tossed out of a speakeasy—or you'll be in bed.

Where were you at midnight 10 years ago? You were being tossed out of a bar or you were home in bed.

Time maketh changes.

Ten years ago this evening was a memorable night in Boston. There was singing, for instance, with roubles and hand-waving French sailors at Louis' old Cafe in Avery pl.

There was that weaving throng of pedestrians in Tremont st.—or they appeared that way.

There was the bedlam in every cafe and hotel.

Memory is sad.

Where will you be 10 years from tonight? You'll be getting tossed out of the morgue or you'll be home in bed?

"We miss you, John."

URGES BUSINESS GIRLS TO 'LOAF' WITH FEET PROPPED ON DESKS

EXPERT SAYS RELAXATION AIDS WORK

Dr. Stastny Adds the Women Must Emulate Men to Be Able Executives

Washington, Jan. 15 (AP)—Listen, business girls! Here's advice on how to do bigger and better work, learn to loaf like a man with your feet on the desk.

So says Dr. Olga Stastny of Omaha, Neb., official physician to America's organized business and professional women.

"Loaf like a man," she says. "Women will never have achieved emancipation until they relax, at ease, with their feet higher than their heads."

Dr. Stastny has had experience in being a boss. She stoutly maintains that women will be abler executives when they tilt back in their swivel chairs and place their feet on the desk during their in-between-conference moments.

"An hour or so of rest, with feet up—complete relaxation," is her personal prescription. "A chance for the heart to be relieved of pumping all the time in erect posture. Less pressure on those veins that too often become varicose.

OPPOSES LONG SKIRTS.

"Less general logiiness. And, yes, less thick ankles. The upward stretch will exercise the ankle muscles."

Dr. Stastny does not welcome the new long and clinging skirts which would hamper the feet-on-the-desk movement.

"The dress of the last few years has been ideal," she says. "No corsets to cramp, no waist line to draw in. Exposure of arms and legs to the ultra-violet rays of the sun—all have tended to keep modern women in pretty good trim, with a few more vitamins to add Greek curves instead of the slat silhouette, we would have a glorious race."

AIDED IN WAR WORK.

In the medical world, the words of Dr. Stastny carry weight. She is president-elect of the Medical Woman's National Association and health chairman of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Six feet tall, an Amazon of strength and intelligence, she was one of the amazing feminine figures of the immediate post-war era.

In complete command of 10,000 Armenian refugees on Marconiesi Island when Smyrna flamed, she had a guard of 250 Greek soldiers to do her bidding. She cleaned up and cured the refugees of their contagious diseases before they were allowed to settle on Greek soil.

Mother, Daughter on Same Bank Board

Laconia, N. H., Jan. 15 (AP)—With the election today to the directorate of the Lakeport National Bank of Miss Agnes Odell, mother and daughter will sit about the same banking board for the first time in this State, and probably one of the few instances in the entire country.

Miss Odell's mother, Mrs. L. H. Odell of Franklin, has been a director for 10 years.

TALK LESS, SAY MORE, IDEA OF MRS. CATT

500 Women in Washington Are Discussing Remedy for Warfare

Washington, Jan. 15 (AP)—Five hundred women delegates to the cause and cure of war conference here are getting down to fundamentals in a discussion of the causes of armed conflict.

The delegates, representing 11 of the largest women's organizations in the country, are making roundtable discussions with principal emphasis on the "why" of war the feature of the conference.

Oratorical flights dealing with sentiment, tears and thrills are conspicuously absent. There is little flag waving, neither are there impassioned outbursts against bloodshed—at least not on the floor of the convention. The present process deals with facts about war gleaned during the last five years by delegates from this and four other countries—Japan, England, Germany and France.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, who organized the conference, today instituted a plan for making women talk less and say more. The 500 delegates were divided into four groups, each with a leader.

Tomorrow morning the women will make a drive on the Senate in an effort to get ratification of the World Court protocol. There will be no spectacular march. The women will go in separate state delegations. Women selected as spokeswomen by the delegations will present resolutions passed by each state.

CHASE BRINGS BACK OLD DAYS

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 15 (AP)—Climaxing a brief "wild west" career, punctuated by a kidnaping and two gun fights, Mrs. Irene Schroeder of Benwood, W. Va., and two men believed to be Joe y. Wells, Texas ex-convict, and M. Glen Dague, husband of Mrs. Schroeder, were behind jail bars here today.

The trio had been the object of a nation-wide search since the slaying last December 27 of Corporal Brady Paul of the Pennsylvania State highway police.

They were surrounded and captured by a posse in the mountains near Laveen, Ariz., after they had barricaded themselves behind rocks on a small peak and fired upon the searchers.

The case started Monday night, when Deputy Sheriff Joe Chapman was kidnaped from Florence, Ariz., as he attempted to arrest Mrs. Schroeder after she had refused to produce ownership papers for a Kentucky car in which the officer found her.

The car sped away to Chandler, Ariz., where Deputy Sheriff Lee Wright was shot as he and other officers attempted to halt it. Chapman was thrown out.

An airplane directed the posse advance guard to the barricaded mountain retreat of the party. The searchers, however, had not located them among the crags when the leaden slugs from a low peak on the barren Ostrella mountains sent the advance guard to cover.

The peak was surrounded amid exchange of more than 100 shots, but the fugitives surrendered before a massed attack could be executed. They were brought out of the mountains, handcuffed, behind deputies' saddles.

It Isn't Parrot Fever, But Johnny Has It

Plymouth, Jan. 15—Others may have parrot fever or psittacosis, but 8-year-old John C. Nickerson has a rare disease all by himself.

The boy has contracted Parinaud's conjunctivitis, which might be called either cat disease or muskrat disease.

Dr. Allen Greenwood, Boston and Wellesley specialist, who is treating the boy, said the type of eye infection from which Johnny is suffering is only the fifth case the physician has seen in 40 years of practice.

The disease is in the opthalmic division and creates a granular condition of the eyelids that glues and ulcerates the eyelids and irritates and inflames the eye.

Young Nickerson told the specialist he might have incurred the disease from a live muskrat which he captured and carried home, struggling.

The animal lashed itself across his face, Johnny said, and the fur brushed his eyes.

Dr. Greenwood said the boy might have caught the disease either that way or from a pet cat, the malady usually being contracted from handling an animal's fur.

There has never been a previous case in Plymouth.

New York, Jan. 15 (AP)—Fog today hampered ferry service and harbor traffic and caused the inbound Cunard liner Aquitania with 897 passengers aboard to drop anchor in Ambrose channel, at the entrance to the harbor.

IT'S FIFTH AVE. FOR TUNNEYS

By CHOLLY KNICKERBOCKER

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

New York, Jan. 15—When he has recovered sufficiently from his operation, Gene Tunney and the pretty Polly Lauder Tunney will take possession of their new Gotham home, an apartment at 825 Fifth ave., overlooking the stretches of Central Park.

Gene signed the lease for the Fifth ave. pied-a-terre several weeks ago and since that time Mrs. Tunney has been engaged in superintending the decorations.

At the Fifth ave. address the Tunneys will have as apartment neighbors such importantly placed Mayfair notables as the Daniel Bacons, the Paul Moores, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Freeman Roberts, the Wainwright Parishes, Mrs. Gustaf Stromberg, Mrs. Clinton Backus and the Samuel L. Parrishes.

Tunney was reported to be "doing very well" by his physician, Dr. George Winthrop Fish.

Stabbed by Woman, Collapses at Work

Arthur Courtney of Lynn collapsed while working in a shoe factory today and a physician discovered he was suffering from loss of blood from a stab wound in his arm.

After treatment Courtney told the police that a woman stabbed him with a bread knife, but he refused to make a charge against her.

LINDY TO CHART UPPER AIRWAYS

Los Angeles, Jan. 15 (AP)—The new specially built monoplane of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was declared today by J. L. Maddux, executive of the air line which employs the famous aviator, to be a "flying laboratory," particularly designed to test high-altitude flying in anticipation of the future development of aerial transportation.

"In co-operation with naval meteorological experts at the Lakehurst, N. J., naval air station and the U. S. Weather Bureau, Col. Lindbergh is planning to carry out a number of experimental flights," Maddux said, "testing the use of varying atmospheric conditions found at high levels.

"Col. Lindbergh has been interested for a long time in the possibilities of transporting passengers and mail at altitudes above the storm cloud layers, and at the same time obtaining increased speed in rarified atmosphere by making use of wind currents believed to prevail there."

RHINELANDER PARTY SAFE

Las Vegas, Nev., Jan. 15 (AP)—Leonard Kip Rhinelander, scion of a wealthy New York family, and four companions, were safe here today after being snowbound three days in the Charleston mountains while on a hunting trip.

The party was marooned in a mountain cabin for three days, after which the men braved the storm and fought their way to Las Vegas.

Rhinelander is a resident of Las Vegas, having recently obtained a divorce here from Alice Jones Rhinelander, his octoroon wife.

Short Skirts Missing at Garment Show

New York, Jan. 15 (AP)—The short skirt is strictly de trop in the spring wardrobe, judging from the 140 models exhibited before the garment retailers of America.

The creations of 43 leading fashion arbiters paraded before representatives of the trade in the annual spring promenade last night displayed skirted evening gowns and frocks for afternoon, street and sport wear with hem lines from four to six inches below the knee.

The concensus was that a certain latitude of personal preference was permitted in the skirt length, rather than any hard and fast fashion ruling, but no models known had knee-length skirts.

The natural waistline and the molded silhouette were features of dresses for all occasions.

Spring colors exhibited featured tints and plain-colored fabrics, rarely but not pintobs. Plain colors seemed to predominate. Black backgrounds prevailed in the printed frocks for street and sports wear and the black and white scheme was frequently repeated in both afternoon and evening dresses. Ensembles outnumbered separate frock and coat combinations.

Bridal costumes revealed that the 1930 bride will be arrayed much as the bride of 1830 was.

COAL FIRE GAS KILLS 2 IN SHIP

Panama City, Panama, Jan. 15 (AP)—Deadly gas in the hold of the Blue Star liner Saxon Star, here from Vancouver, probably will prevent its continuing its journey to the British Isles for possibly a week.

The gases are a combination caused by burning coal in the hold and borax, with which the ship is loaded. Two persons already have died and two others have been partly overcome by the noxious fumes.

Two men, one a fireman and the other a seaman, ventured into the hold after the fire in the ship's interior first began. They later were found dead in the fireroom, to which they had stumbled, but too late to avoid the poison gas. The bodies were buried at sea.

Large blowers have pumped sufficient oxygen into the hold to permit the ship's crew to work there.

Coast Guard Craft Sunk, Crew Rescued

Reedy Island, Delaware River, Jan. 15 (AP)—The Maritime Exchange reported today that the coast guard cutter, C. G. 111, stranded on Reedy Island jetty and sank at 5 o'clock this morning. The crew of eight were saved. They are now being taken care of at Reedy Island lighthouse.

Probe of Radio Politics Urged

Washington, Jan. 15 (AP)—Investigation by the Senate Interstate Commerce committee of reports that an attempt was being made to "make a political football" out of the Federal Radio Commission was demanded by Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, as the committee continued hearings on the Couzens communications bill.

The Montana senator said he had received a report that a man had been appointed attorney for the commission who had had no experience in the radio field, and that it was the purpose to appoint two negroes from Ohio to assist him. The latter, he added, had had no experience either. Thad Brown, Columbus, O., was recently named attorney for the radio commission.

1000 SEIZED IN SCHOOL STRIKE

Seoul, Korea, Jan. 15 (AP)—One thousand Korean students, including 250 girls, were arrested today as the result of a strike in 13 colleges and high schools, including two American missionary institutions.

The strike involved students estimated to number 10,000. It occurred during the post-holiday examinations and somebody out of sympathy for the 900 students arrested last month. The December strike was said to have been due to long-standing quarrels between Japanese and Korean students of the middle schools.

Many of those arrested last month still are in prison. Japanese authorities believe the new strike was engineered by a secret society with communistic tendencies.

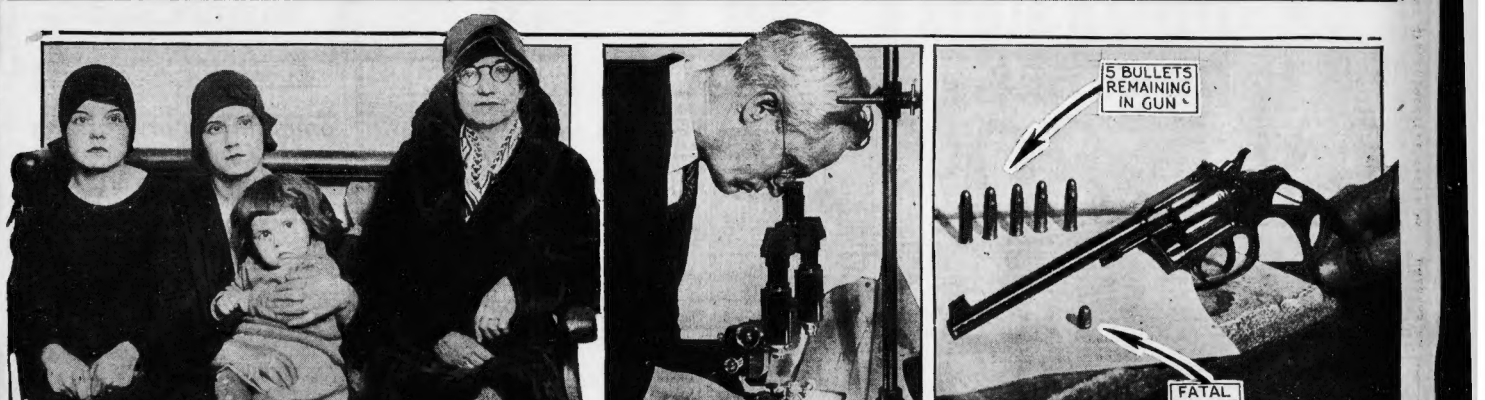
Cancer Expert to Experiment for C

Vienna, Jan. 15 (AP)—Prof. Dr. Gustav Klein, eminent Vienna scientist, has been appointed director of cancer research at the German Dye Works at Ludwigshafen.

Dr. Klein last year established the presence of identical microbes in cancerous growths on plants, animals and human beings and succeeded in cultivating them in a pure culture.

He now will try to cure cancer on both mice and men by the same means which he asserts he had used already to cure cancer on roses, beans and other plants.

Family Mourns for Slain Policeman as State Draws Net of Evidence About His Accused Slayer



Mrs. Nagle Mrs. Harrington Ruth Mrs. Troy

Death of Patrolman James J. Troy at the hands of a man he was about to arrest has cast a shadow over many lives. News of the tragedy was first received at the home of Mrs. Claire Harrington, Troy's sister, in Dorchester. Mrs. Harrington is shown here with 2-year-old Ruth, youngest child of the slain policeman. Mrs. Helen Nagle of Squantum is another sister of Troy, while Mrs. Troy is his mother.

last money in the house. An hour later he had made plans for the fund.

Bennett will name a committee of two to be in charge of the funds, which will be placed in a South Boston bank. A trust fund will be created out of the donations, the interest from the fund to be paid weekly to Mrs. Troy until her oldest child reaches 21.

Then, if she so wishes, the widow may have the principal.

POLICE FORCE TO AID.

Patrolman Troy's comrades on the police force have already made preparations to contribute to the fund. Each will probably give one day's pay, a custom followed in previous cases.

Police departments of other cities are also expected to aid. The Cambridge Police Relief Association will turn over $500 to the fund, President William Gormley announced today. At a meeting of the association it was voted to levy an assessment on every member of the force.

While the Boston American will print from day to day the list of contributors and news of the progress of the fund, all donations should be sent to Mr. Bennett at his office in the Cox Confectionery Co., 150 Orleans st., East Boston.

The family of the slain officer face destitution unless the drive for funds is a success, for Troy left no life insurance and, with illness and many mouths to feed, had never been able to save any money.

SAVINGS VANISH

About a year and a half ago, the family was on its feet and the patrolman was putting something aside against the possibility of just such a tragedy as occurred, when the eldest girl was taken ill and forced to remain for a year in a hospital. The bills took all that Troy could scrape together.

Once before Bennett has come to the aid of a family facing poverty following the murder of a policeman. He engineered with considerable success the drive for funds for the widow and children of Patrolman Albert Patroni, the victim several years ago, of a gunman's bullet.

$50,000 Alcohol in Lawrence Seizure

Lawrence, Jan 14—Federal prohibition agents who have centered their activities for the past several months about this city made the biggest scoop on local record when they raided a $50,000 denatured alcohol redistilling plant on a chicken farm in Marston st. and seized alcohol products roughly valued at $20,000.

Ernest Finck was arrested and arraigned before Federal Commissioner Walsh in the Lowell federal district court. He was released under bonds of $1500 for appearance for trial on January 18.

Wedding of Student Elopers Annulled

New York, Jan. 15 (INS)—The runaway marriage of Alphonse Linde, 18-year-old student of Brown University, was annulled today by Supreme Court Justice George H. Taylor, Jr., in White Plains court.

In June of last year, when he was only 17, Linde eloped to Portland, Me., with Pauline Loomis, co-ed at the university, in Providence, R. I. Annulment of the marriage was sought by Linde's father, a Mt. Vernon merchant, who testified that he had not given consent to his under-age son.

LABOR SEEKING NEW 'PEACEFUL PICKET' LAW

Enactment of a law to define peaceful picketing in industrial disputes was urged by labor representatives and members of the Legislature at a hearing today before the legislative committee on labor and industries.

Picketers would be allowed to walk up and down in single or double file in front of factory gates or other entrances or exits to or from any place of work or business during industrial disputes, but be barred from using improper language or the making of threats.

Interference by the police with a peaceful picket line would be prohibited, and officers of the state, counties, cities and towns would be prevented from prosecuting pickets for such offences as sauntering or loitering, obstructing sidewalks or parading without a permit.

Rep. Roland D. Sawyer of Ware, arguing for the bill, said Massachusetts is at the forefront in recognizing organized labor and the necessity of organized labor to use peaceful persuasion against unfair conditions. The only way to reach the public, he said, was through the picketing method.

He said there is a great confusion now as to picketing and that interpretation of local ordinances in conflict with picketing is largely left to the various local police captains.

Among those in favor of the bill were C. J. Mahoney, representing the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; Alfred Baker Lewis and Atty. George Roewer of Cambridge.

GIRL IS ACCUSED OF POISONING 18 CHILDREN

New York, Jan. 15 (AP)—Accused of administering poison to 18 children at a New Jersey summer camp where she was employed as an assistant director, Miss Pearl Topper, 27 years old, was being held here today as a fugitive from justice.

Arrested at the Parnassus Club, a sorority dormitory at Columbia University, she denied the charge. None of the poisoned children died.

Miss Helen Simmons, manager of a camp conducted for New York tenement children at Montvale, N. J., by the Mary Hillard Society, said Miss Topper had been discharged on August 19 after an argument with the cook. Prosecutor Hart said Miss Simmons charged that Miss Topper returned the following morning and poured large quantities of poison over the breakfast cereal.

Nine children who ate the cereal were removed to a New York hospital and the others were treated at the camp.

The poison had no fatal effects because the unusually large doses acted as an antidote.

New York, Jan. 15 (INS)—Collapse of the romance of Thomas Clifton Dawes, son of the Canadian brewer, and Doris Carolyn Rice, Broadway actress, was revealed today when Dawes had published notices stating he would not be responsible for any debts Doris might incur. They were married in 1927 after a whirlwind courtship.

How 23 Heroic Seamen Went Down With Ship

Plymouth, England, Jan. 15 (AP)—A tale of how 23 heroic British bluejackets on the naval tug St. Genny went bravely to their fate as the little vessel sank beneath them near Ushant light Sunday night was told today by William Sullivan, one of five survivors of the crew of 28.

"The weather became so terrible that we put on our lifebelts as a precautionary measure," he said.

"It was well that we did so for a few minutes later the St. Genny began to sink. All the ship's crew acted as if they were at exercises. They stood at their stations. There was no panic, no noise, nothing of that sort, even when the ship disappeared beneath us and we were buffeted about by the waves.

"We were in the water about half an hour before our companion boat, the St. Cyrus, could pick us up. The seamanship of the captain of the St. Cyrus was marvelous. How he brought his ship around in such heavy sea I do not know, but he managed it. We are extremely fortunate to be picked up."

Those opportunities to "make a killing" in unheard of mine or oil stocks with "just a few dollars" have bought many fine cars—for the promoters.

"Free" lot offers usually cloak very dubious real estate schemes.

BOSTON BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU, 80 SUMMER ST.

Flying Courses Now Offered on Credit

GEORGE HAMBLIN

...s have airplane "bargains," such as Curtiss-Wright's offer of an OX-5-engined Robin and a private license flying course, all for the price of the Robin, $4000, and it is perhaps quite natural that we should take the next step, that of flying courses on the installment plan.

Skyways, Inc., at the Boston airport, are the originators of the scheme, and latest reports have it that the plan is working out successfully. According to Johnny Haughey, vice-president of the company, the plan will be kept in operation for the next year or so, and the results will be studied carefully.

A boy or girl who wishes to learn to fly, but hasn't the necessary $900 to sign up for a private pilot's course, may now get two indorsers to sign for a bond of $2500 apiece, and then pay Skyways $12 a week for 52 weeks.

A local bank has been lined up to take the idea on, and Skyways' flock of salesmen have another big selling point in their favor.

The indorsers of the prospective student will not be held liable in case the student wraps his neck around a crankshaft or something, and the student may take his instruction as fast as he wishes.

This flying business is gradually getting down to the point where the average young man or woman can get into the racket without selling themselves back financially.

"One of the biggest troubles with the commercial flying business up to date," said Haughey, "was the fact that most of our young people did not have the ready cash for a flying course. The great majority of the students taught to fly up to the present time are sons or daughters of wealthy families, who can afford $4500 for a transport license course, and then generally step out and buy a ship of their own."

This thought was disturbing us for a long time, and we looked around to find some way out of the difficulty. The time payment plan was the logical way out of the situation, and we promptly lined up a Boston bank to take on the papers for us. After that was arranged, it was a simple matter to get the rest of the plan whipped into shape, and start our salesmen out on the idea."

So, another step toward the goal of aviation, which is a plane for everybody who can afford one, and general flying for all.

GIRL ON SALES

Bob Foote, director of sales and publicity for the Boston station of Curtiss-Wright, annexed the first girl sales representative of Curtiss-Wright history at the airport, when Miss Manila Davis was taken on the payroll.

Miss Davis learned to fly with Skyways, and has quite a bit of flying time to her credit. She wanted to get into the business and use her flying knowledge to some good advantage, so the deal was cooked up with Foote and Curtiss.

So now, if a charming young lady comes into your office and sells you the idea of going places in aviation, don't be surprised, for Miss Davis almost sold us a course as her first act upon being taken on by C-W.

Charlie Emerson, chief pilot of Skyways, spent the day in Keene, N. H., with the company's Bellanca monoplane, said lay-over being forced by tough weather conditions. But then, Charlie rather likes the idea of these short vacations.

ROBS POOR BOX IN VATICAN CITY

Vatican City, Jan. 15 (AP)—The first sacrilegious theft in the Vatican City State since its constitution was discovered today when the pontifical gendarmes caught Giuseppe De Paolis, 34, robbing a poor box beside the altar and confessional at St. Peter's.

De Paolis, who was kneeling in a very devout attitude when caught, was using a piece of whalebone to rob the box.

He proved to be a man already sought by the Roman police and has been arrested many times for similar pilfering.

4 Dead in Communist Riots in Germany

Berlin, Jan. 15 (INS)—Fears were expressed today that a countrywide communist revolutionary campaign was responsible for the concerted rioting by unemployed in several cities of Germany.

Reports from Chemnitz and Warm stated that throngs of unemployed, apparently inspired by communist propaganda, had engaged in sharp clashes with the police which resulted in a total of four dead and many wounded.

Reports from other cities stated that several minor clashes had occurred but no casualties were reported.

Coupled with the riots in other parts of the country were the threats of communists in this city to hold mass meetings tonight despite an edict fro mthe President of Police against such gatherings.

ISLE IS CUT OFF; FEAR DISASTER

London, Jan. 15 (AP)—The Daily Express today expressed grave fear for the inhabitants of Eardsey Island, off Carnarvonshire, who have not been reached from the mainland since December 15, due to the gales.

They were believed to be without food. There has been no response to beacon lights and other signals, which is declared to be unprecedented.

At 8 Miles a Second You May Go to Moon

Washington, Jan. 15 (INS)—A modern airplane, with some improvements, or a rocket, capable of speeding into space at a rate of eight miles per second, has a theoretical chance to reach the moon.

This was the declaration today of Dr. Paul R. Heyl, an internationally known physicist at the Bureau of Standards, in a theoretical discussion of the attempts of modern aviators to establish new altitude records.

Science has long believed, the expert physicist declared, that it is physically possible to shoot a projectile so far above the earth as to place it within the gravitational pull of the moon or the sun. To do so, he added, the projectile must have an initial speed of from seven to eight miles a second.

NAUMKEAG HAS BETTER YEAR; OUTLOOK GOOD

Naumkeag Steam Cotton Company today reported net earnings after all charges of $545,890 for the year ending Nov. 30, 1929, a substantial increase over the total for the previous 12-month period. The Salem plant will hereafter be known as the Pequot Mills of the Naumkeag Steam Cotton Company, in accordance with a vote of the board of directors, it was announced in the report of Treasurer Ernest N. Hood at the annual meeting of the stockholders today.

Sales increased from 29,397,142 yards in 1928 to 31,056,161 yards during the past year, according to the report, which also shows that these shorting mills continued to maintain their production in accordance with their rate of distribution, the production being 29,536,475 yards for the year.

Better business during 1930 is anticipated by Pequot Mills. The management bases its confidence on the result of research work carried on throughout 1929, improvement in manufacturing methods being effected with the cooperation of its employes and a more aggressive merchandising policy.

Officers were re-elected as follows: President, Henry P. Benson; treasurer, Ernest N. Hood; agent, J. Foster Smith; corporation clerk, Ernest B. Boyd; directors, Henry P. Benson, William D. Clayton, Ernest N. Hood, Oscar J. Ivon, Dudley L. Pickman, J. Foster Smith and Albert L. Sylvester.

De Luxe Cars Enable Even Fish to Travel in Style

The Pullman Company recently completed this de luxe fish car, of all steel construction, for the Bureau of Fisheries, for use in distribution service. The car is divided into a kitchen, dining room, boiler room, bathroom, upper berths for the crew and compartments for carrying fish. The car has a capacity of about 505,000 one-inch fish. E. C. Fearnow, superintendent of distribution of the Bureau of Fisheries, is holding one of the standard fish containers. (Wide World photo.)

Brother-in-Law Is Held in Slaying

Brockton, Jan. 15—George Nardi, 17, Plymouth pl., was arraigned in district court here today charged with the murder of Donato Nardi, 26, of Summer st.

Donato died of a knife wound without naming his assailant. Nardi is a brother-in-law of Donato. He was held without bail until January 22.

Extends Time for Income Tax Returns

Washington, Jan. 15 (INS)—Taxpayers who can show "good and reasonable cause" will be granted an extension of the midnight, March 15 deadline in filing income tax statements.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue announced today such requests for additional time must be filed with the commissioner of internal revenue and accompanied by a tentative reprand one-fourth of the estimated tax due."

Home of Ex-Official Bombed in Scranton

Scranton, Pa., Jan. 15 (AP)—The home of James Arigoni, former director of public safety, was dynamited today. Mrs. Arigoni and her daughter, Anne, were the only occupants of the house at the time. They escaped injury.

The dynamite charge was planted under the front porch and the force of the blast tore away the porch but otherwise did little damage. Arigoni, a prominent figure in local politics, sprang into the limelight in connection with the slot machine scandal under investigation here.

'Hard-Boiled' Judge in Court on Stretcher

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 15 (AP)—After gaining four continuances because of ill health, Albert Nisbet, blind ex-magistrate, faced trial today on the charge that he embezzled $22,046 from the Baptist Tabernacle, of which he is the former treasurer.

Nisbet, known as the "hard boiled magistrate" during his term in that office, because of severe sentences meted out to liquor violators, was brought into court on a stretcher, with his wife, aunt and daughter at his side, offering him stimulants from time to time.

MRS. RICKER, SEPPALA OFF FOR DOG RACES

Poland Spring, Me., Jan. 15—Mrs. E. P. Ricker, Jr., and Leonhard Seppala are en route for Lake Placid, N. Y., where they will compete in the Lake Placid Club sled dog races.

Although the famous woman driver and the Alaskan veteran will mush to win, both will take the event in stride, aiming for the Poland Spring Dog Derby as their objective on Jan. 24 and 25.

With the largest number of teams yet entered, the Derby, under the auspices of the New England Sled Dog Club, will be raced this year over the 25-mile course not used the past two years because of the condition of the trail.

To date the following entries have been received in addition to those of Mrs. Ricker and Seppala: Walter Channing, of Boston; Ike Legasse, of Littleton, N. H., winner last year, two teams; Mr. and Mrs. Milton Seeley, of Wonalancet, N. H., two teams; Richard Reed, of Wonalancet, and Roland Lombard, of Raymond, Me.

Judges will be Dr. H. A. Souther, of Brookline, Mass., and Herbert J. Pearson, of Lewiston.

Greet Papal Nuncio With Honors in Erin

Dublin, Irish Free State, Jan. 15 (AP)—Impressive ceremony marked the visit of Archbishop Pascual Robinson, papal nuncio, to the viceregal lodge where he presented his credentials to the governor-general today.

Preceded by a detachment of mounted infantry, the nuncio drove from his hotel through cheering crowds while a flight of airplanes circled overhead. President Cosgrave received the archbishop and introduced him to the governor-general.

Fire Destroys Hotel

Although, of course, what seems much worse is
How they mumble, sneer and pout
And growl when you go in or out.

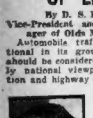
AUTOMOBILE NEWS

SEES NEED FOR UNIFORM CODE OF LAWS

By D. S. EDDINS,
Vice-President and General Manager of Olds Motor Works.

Automobile traffic, already national in its growing importance should be considered from a strictly national viewpoint in regulation and highway construction.



D. S. Eddins

The most widely recognized students of present day traffic problems agree that there should be a unification of all regulations and laws. These include licenses, registrations, driving rules and regulations, highway signs and traffic lights. How this unification on a national basis is to be brought about is another question. In the summer of 1928 the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety of which President Hoover was chairman presented a uniform vehicle code which represented the best effort of a group of experts. This report was received with acclaim, but the multifarious governmental agencies involved in establishing the uniform code have failed as yet in most instances to take action.

At the present time, nearly four years after the submission of this uniform vehicle code, another committee has been appointed by the Secretary of Commerce to investigate what has been accomplished so far and to recommend further action.

Two states have adopted the code by passing a state law which made its adoption mandatory on all municipalities. Twenty other states have adopted all or part of the uniform code as state laws, and many municipalities have used the model municipal traffic ordinance as a basis for their traffic laws.

But the full benefit of national unification will not be achieved until a uniform code is national in extent. Whether this will require federal action, as was the case with railroads, or can be brought about by public opinion led by automobile clubs and other organizations interested in safety and improved traffic regulation is a question. And it is a question which should be solved at the earliest possible moment.

Tire Officials Visit Hub on Tour

C. Clark, H. B. Cook, H. B. Crocker, L. M. Simpson, J. B. Ray

Biggest Year Yet in Tire Sales Is Seen

This year will be the greatest in the volume of unit tire sales in the history of the industry, according to L. M. Simpson, general sales manager of the United States Rubber Co., who is in Boston conducting a meeting of 50 field representatives.

Mr. Simpson and his staff are on a 10,000-mile tour, which will take them to all parts of the United States.

Major moves to be undertaken by the United States Rubber Co. are being outlined to field officials and salesmen of the company in a series of conferences arranged at central points. A study of general business conditions also is being made en route.

Commenting on the tire outlook, Simpson stated that most of the automobiles built last year, when the industry touched a new production peak, would require their second tires during the current motoring season. "This demand will be felt in volume in the spring and early summer months pronounced as the season advances," Simpson said. "Old cars held over for another year also will require new tires this year, which will accelerate the normal demand.

"Added to this market, which absorbs most of the annual output of tires, are other growing outlets that will help swell the sales total for the year. Fleets of commercial cars, trucks and taxicabs are increasing in rapid numbers.

"The bus industry, which in the brief span of eight years has become the country's largest individual medium of transportation, is increasing its tire consumption by leaps and bounds. The airplane tire market, both in equipment and replacement business, is expanding.

TWO NEW AUTO ACCESSORIES

"Two interesting new accessories are offered motorists by Gabriel, Cleveland," announced W. J. Connell of the W. J. Connell Co., New England distributor of the products.

"The new accessories are hydrostatic gauges and steel spring covers. The gauges, placed on the dash board, register the exact level of oil in the engine crank case and the exact level of solution (electrolyte) in the battery. The spring covers are of lead-coated steel, insuring uniform silent spring action in any weather, wet or dry, warm or cold.

"The spring leaves are filled with a penetrating graphite grease, sealed in by a special fabric sheath and protected by the covers. The gauges do away with the inconvenience and bother of inspecting oil and battery levels."

Improvements in New Durant Frames

The side rails of the pressed steel frames of the two new Durant chassis introduced to the public and the trade for the first time at the opening of the New York Auto Show, present several features that the engineers claim not only afford unusual strength and stiffness, but also represent a definite advance in frame design, says Harry C. Dunn, general manager Boston Automobile Co.

In conventional frame construction of the past, they explain, the maximum depth of the side rails has been at a point well back toward the center of the car, while in the new Durant frames the deepest section is located much further forward, at the position where their "loading diagrams" and calculations indicate that the maximum strains occur. Maximum bending strain on the frame when the car travels over rough pavements, they carefully made calculations disclose, come where the engine rear supports are attached to the frame.

Dodge Cars Tested to Breaking Point

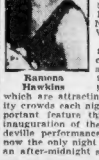
To determine the factor of reserve strength of safety built into various mechanical units of Dodge Brothers motor cars, special machines which either twist or pull these parts to the breaking point, have been devised. The rear axle housing, for instance, often withstands 40,000 inch pounds twist in force without a fracture in the weld joining the upper and lower half. A record of the force applied in these tests is kept by the operators of the machines.

No Place for Gadgets

Don't attach any gadgets to wheels of valve stems. Some makers—Graham, for example—balance wheels and tires, for excess weight at any point causes uneven riding at high speeds.

Special Program at the Barn Cafe

Visiting shoemen are enjoying the special vaudeville program at the Barn Cafe, 336 Newbury st., all this week. Manager Fred Soracco has booked Ramona Hawkins and her Broadway Revue, assisted by the singing hostesses, Alice Nelson and Vera Oliver.



Ramona Hawkins

The Barn has removed all cover charge and is now featuring two low-priced dinners which are attracting nearly capacity crowds each night. Another important feature this week is the inauguration of the 1 o'clock vaudeville performance. The Barn is now the only night club presenting an after-midnight show.

Hupp Introduces Second 8 for 1930

A de luxe line of motor cars—representing its fourth complete series of cars for 1930—was publicly shown for the first time at the opening of the New York Automobile Show by the Hupp Motor Car Corp., says Eric Courtney, general manager, Boston Hupmobile Co.

The new car is known as the model "U." It boasts a wheelbase of 137 inches, and is powered by the same 133 horse power engine that has made the new 1930 "H" Hupmobile such an outstanding feature of the motor show. It is the largest and finest automobile produced by Hupmobile and in reality marks the entry of this 21-year-old manufacturer into the ranks of the finest of American motor cars. With this second new car to be introduced at the show, the Hupp Motor Car Corp. now enters every sales division of the automobile industry.

Auto Tax Is High in Rio Janeiro

It costs not less than $100 a year for taxes on a small automobile in the city of Rio Janeiro, Brazil. The license itself is about $25, but car owners have to pay for the license plates, circulation tax, poor tax and help support the street cleaning department. Primary schools get a bit; the stamp tax on the license is another thing, and the road department gets something for repairing streets.

FOUND VALUE IN NEWSPAPERS

"Gratifying evidence of the news and advertising value of Boston's newspapers was demonstrated conclusively to this organization," said C. L. Nutter, general manager of The Henley-Kimball Co., distributors for Hudson-Essex motor cars in Eastern Massachusetts, "when upon the opening of the New York automobile show news dispatches and ticker information carried the story of the reception accorded to Hudson's Great Eight and the New Essex Challenger by people visiting Grand Central Palace during the week of the show.

"Production delays prevented our getting enough cars to sample our dealers and ourselves so that we did not make our usual formal advertising announcement of the 1930 cars. Despite this fact, however, our showroom and the showrooms of our dealers have been visited by a steady flow of people inquiring about and wishing to see the new cars. Sales and future orders have been made and booked in volume sufficient to point to a satisfactory volume in January despite our late start.

"The factory assures us that present production schedules are being stepped up as fast as possible and that we will have plenty of cars to meet the demand."

Franklin Output Being Stepped Up

Following the record sales year of 1929, which established the greatest volume in the nearly 30 years of existence of the Franklin Automobile Co., plans for 1930 call for an output of the new air-cooled Franklin models in excess of its 1929 production. More than a month ago, the Franklin manufacturing organization got underway in the production of the 1930 models and has continually stepped up its output with the demand from the dealer organization exceeding shipments, says P. E. Frost, general manager, Boston Franklin Co.

Plans of the Franklin company for an increased production of 1930 models which are powered by a new airplane-type engine, are justified on the basis of the company's record sales during the past year when nearly every other motor car manufacturer failed to show a material gain over the preceding year.

New Willys Six Viewed as Big Achievement

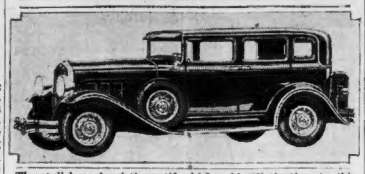
The automobile industry is going through another great transition. Its past is passed through the period devoted to the development of a vehicle for reliable performance over a long period. The next advancement was the designing of bodies that would strike an entirely new style motive, says L. A. Miller, president of the Willys-Overland Co.

"Both of these forward steps have been realized for no one today will question the ability of the modern car to deliver satisfactory performance nor can it be denied that bodies of striking design, pleasing lines and carefully selected colors are now found in the wide selection from the low priced range to the higher priced cars of the so-called luxury classification," he says.

"Willys-Overland has been actively engaged in advancing our products, sensing in advance the demands of the public, then building and pricing the cars in line with these demands. This is nowhere better exemplified than in our 1930 presentation of the new Willys six, which I believe represents the major accomplishment of Willys-Overland in more than 22 years of motor car production.

"In this new six we have more than met the demands of the public for a low-priced six-cylinder car with the speed and power development heretofore found only in cars that sold in the higher price ranges.

Stylish Lines on Hudson



The stylish modernistic motif which adds distinction to this Hudson Great Eight Standard sedan has been carried through to the smallest detail in color, appointments, upholstery and fittings. Body, chassis and motor are all produced in Hudson plants, thus providing a completely balanced car and insuring maximum smoothness from the new Great Eight motor.

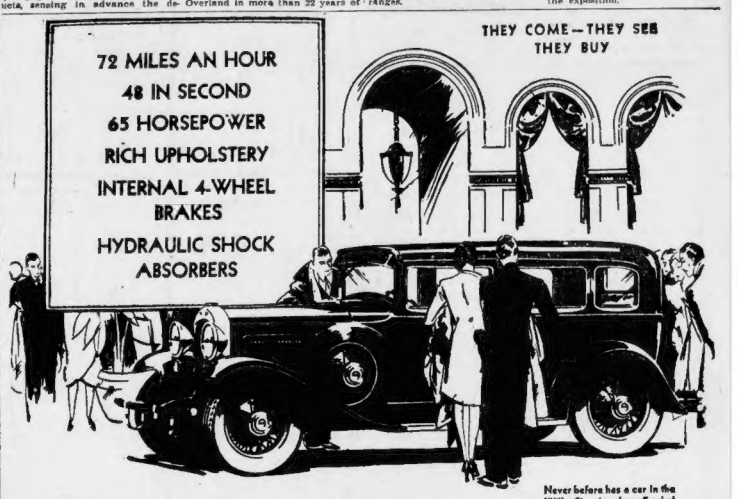
BOSTON AUTO SHOW OPENS SATURDAY

Hundreds of gleaming new automotive masterpieces will fill Mechanics Building next Saturday afternoon when Chester I. Campbell will formally open the 28th annual Boston Auto Show.

Starting today, the first machines are expected. Yesterday a small army of expert artisans was set to work to prepare Mechanics Building for the largest exposition in the 28 years of the Boston show.

The show will open promptly at 1 p. m. Saturday. It will continue to the following Saturday. After the first day, the doors will open daily at 10 a. m. and close at 10 p. m.

Mr. Campbell said that reservations have been made for 47 different makes of automobiles and for the first time the show is to have a special car display. Manufacturers and dealers from all sections of the country are to be here for special meetings in connection with the exposition.



Never before has a car in the Willys Six price class afforded such a high degree of luxurious transportation.

Place your order now for this record value—

THE NEW WILLYS SIX

Beauty, speed and power beyond its pricel

Already the Willys Six is hailed by an enthusiastic motoring public as one of the outstanding new car offerings of the year. This spectacular automobile meets the widespread popular demand for a low-priced Six with the external beauty and interior luxury of costlier cars, and with the speed and power development previously found only in cars above the $1000 class.

The low lines—from the trim, narrow radiator to the smartly tailored back—give a graceful streamline effect. The harmonious color combinations reveal a finer concept of tone and dignity for inexpensive cars.

The interiors, with their two-tone broadcloth upholstery, Butler silver-finish hardware and rich woodwork, reflect the faultless taste of master decorators.

In engineering, the Willys Six sweeps beyond all precedent and establishes new high standards for all low-priced cars. Its high-compression motor is rubber-insulated against vibration and develops 65 horsepower, with easily sustained speed of 72 miles an hour—48 miles an hour in second gear for dashing pick-up — hill - climbing ability that will prove a revelation to even the most experienced motorist.

At the same time, this big engine is remarkably economical to operate, achieving exceptional mileage per gallon of gas at the modern cruising speeds of 35 to 45 miles an hour.

Come in and give the new Willys Six your most exacting scrutiny.

Letters From Our Readers

Lloyd George Has Different Idea on Washington Axe

Editor Boston American:

I have not seen in the papers here something which has been given prominence in English papers, Lloyd George's statement in the House of Commons on George Washington:

He said:

"I have always thought that the wrong moral was deduced from the story of George Washington and the axe. It is not a moral of veracity; it is a moral that you should not give an axe to people who may use it mischievously. The man who ought to have been thrashed was not George Washington, but his father."

This is true of many things about children today. Parents are to blame and ought to be thrashed instead of the children.

Wants Information On Hoover Quotation:

Editor Boston American:

When and where did President Hoover say these words:

"All genuine creative and managerial work in all activities in the United States, including education and social service is done by fewer than 250,000 persons."

This would work out at the rate of one "Best Mind" to every 480 of the population.

Of course, this was said before President Hoover was elected to his present office. I have asked several papers in different sections of the country. While gathering data for an article, I was told to put this question to your readers.

Thinks Cambridge Should Study Traffic Problem

Editor Boston American:

Everybody who has been out that way knows that the new safety islands on Massachusetts ave. Cambridge, clog up traffic. Would it sacrifice the safety of any pedestrian to permit autos to pass to the left, as well as to the right, of the islands? Certainly this would remedy the mussed-up state of affairs now existing.

I have had experience in at least one large city where passage on both sides of safety islands is permitted, and the record there proves that it does not add to the dangers, in spite of the fact that there, unlike in Cambridge the "islands" are nothing but painted places on the street—not raised platforms.

When the new Fresh Pond parkway is completed, drivers won't have to worry so much about Massachusetts ave., but at present the situation is well nigh intolerable, and a lot of traffic is taking to other streets—narrow ones—and thus adding to the pedestrian hazards.

The Cambridge authorities should make an open-minded investigation.

Bad Vision No Excuse in Auto Accidents

Editor Boston American:

It certainly is ridiculous to read that a driver excuses himself for a fatal accident by saying that he couldn't see his victim because ice coated his windshield. If you cannot see—stop! That ought to be a cardinal rule and a simple enough one for anybody with any sense at all. A driver might as well be blind drunk at the wheel as to proceed, even slowly, when anyt ing, be it ice, snow or fog, obscured his vision. It seems to be excuse enough to avoid a manslaughter penalty, but it ought not be, in my humble opinion.

Wants Justice for Watch and Ward Society

Editor Boston American:

I have always regarded the Boston Evening American as a friend of the average person. Why is it that the tactics of the Watch and Ward Society in its descent upon that Cambridge book store have stirred up a hornets' nest?

Is it because the stockholders of that book store had a nerve touched in their pocketbooks? This kind of a descent upon book stores is no different from others made by this society in getting evidence. Other book sellers had no sympathy from those who are now making this uproar.

They upheld that society, but now that the society has attacked a cherished institution there is a flare-up against the society and resignations follow.

I have never been attached to this society and fought it upon several occasions, but I can see now that it means something who and where you attack.

JUSTICE.

Home Economics Made Practical

Editor Boston American:

If we are to teach home economics in colleges, we will have to change some of our methods. This is now agreed upon by a number of teachers. The study can only be taught in a practical way. In the University of Tennessee each year thirty seniors co-eds) live three months in a practice house, a two-story affair near the campus. They prepare their food, do all the work and manage the budget.

Some time ago the girls adopted a baby to make it a real home and succeeding classes have looked after that tot. They feed, clothe lullaby it to sleep at night and get in practical touch with child life.

This is what we mean by the perfected loaf

WHEN we announced to you last week that Mother Hubbard Bread has been so highly developed by our master bakers that it has been called "the perfected loaf", we did not give you the details of this perfection.

By perfected we mean a loaf that, in every important feature, is all that bread can be—a loaf faultlessly good in all respects.

Crust: Mother Hubbard has a rich golden brown crust. Never too pale, never too brown, and always uniform in its firm crispness.

Texture: Mother Hubbard has a tender yet well-knit texture that makes it butter easily, even when at its very freshest. It is finer grained and slices perfectly.

Taste: Mother Hubbard tastes like bread—bread at its very finest. Flavorful, but not too much so. It does not try to compete with the butter you put on it, or the filling of the sandwiches you make of it. The taste alone will tell you that Mother Hubbard is indeed the perfected loaf.

Toasting: Mother Hubbard browns quickly and evenly over the entire surface of each slice. Crisp and crunchy on the outside, soft and tender on the inside. That's what makes perfect toast.

We are very sure that you, like thousands of other particular women, are going to find Mother Hubbard your idea of perfect bread. And we are equally sure that when you have tried it, you will not be satisfied with anything less than the perfected loaf for your family.

Get Mother Hubbard bread from your dealer today.

LITERARY AND SCREEN LUMINARIES TO MAKE "LADIES OF PLEASURE"

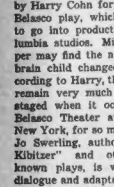
AIMING TO SURPASS STAGE HIT

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor

Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15—"Ladies of Pleasure" is the title personally selected by Harry Cohn for the David Belasco play, which is about to go into production at Columbia studios. Milton Groupper may find the title that Belasco's child changed, but, according to Harry, the play will remain very much as it was staged when it occupied the Belasco Theater at 44th st., New York, for so many weeks. Jo Swerling, author of "The Kibitzer" and other well-known plays, is writing the dialogue and adaptation.

As for the players, cast your eyes on the dazzling list of names of actors and actresses who have been engaged to do right by Mr. Belasco's little Barbara Stanwyck of Burlesque fame and wife of Frank Fay, plays one of the feminine leads, while Marie Prevost draws the other. Juliette Compton has one of the important feminine roles, also Ralph Graves, Lowell Sherman and George Fawcett are the male lineup and Frank Capra, is the director.



Louella O. Parsons

'Tis, you can see, to be one of Columbia's biggest and we hope, best productions.

I CAN guarantee there will be a laugh in this film. Marie Dressler and her side-kick, Polly Moran, are to be starred in a feature with the stock market as a background. They play two scrub women who get rich suddenly. Can't you just see those two women, I suppose we will then have an inside glimpse of the terrible crash in the market and the aftermath and the effect on the people who speculated. The story is an original by Willard Mack and Chuck Reisner is the director. If this picture isn't funny then I am going to say all hope is lost.

* * *

KENNETH McKENNA seems to be very much at home in Hollywood. I used to see him around the Algonquin Hotel in New York with the young theatrical geniuses, very intent on the theater. Now I see him around at various social gatherings just as intent on the movies. He is with the Fox Co. and is regarded, I am told, by that organization as one of the best of the younger actors. He plays the lead in "A Very Practical Joke." An original by Ben Ames Williams, opposite May

Gets the Laughs

RACHEL HARTZELL

RACHEL takes a hand in the fun-making in "Little Accident" coming to The Plymouth stage next Monday. The show is heralded as the season's laugh hit.

Clarke, Miss Clarke in private life is Mrs. Lew Brice and she is the gal who danced so well in "Big Time." Berthold Viertal, German director, is also here.

ON the sick list is Fifi Dorsay, who is ill at home with a bad cold. D. W. Griffith has had to cease his activities on the production of "Abraham Lincoln" for a few days until he recovers from a slight indisposition. Other news is the resignation of Al Cohn from First National. Mr. Cohn stepped out of harness on Saturday night. He is freelancing and had hardly left his job when he received offers from various film companies. Good scenario writers, it would appear, are few and far between. During his radio broadcasts for the last two weeks through stations WBZ and WBZA, thousands of letters have poured in from admirers who wish to find out about their future business dealings. You will find best articles and missing persons. He claims that he has established a record for fan mail during his short stay in Boston.

Madame Orpha

He has tried, he announced, to answer most of the questions that he received by mail, but was forced to give it up on account of his vaudeville appearances here. He will gladly answer as best he can, questions that are asked him from the audience. He is assisted by Madame Orpha.

At 11:40 every morning, he will be on the stage in addition to his regular afternoon and evening performances.

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collected at random: Marion Davies entertaining Mary Pickford at the embassy at luncheon. Herbert Somborn denying to a bonie full of luncheon guests at the Brown Derby that his place of business was destroyed by fire. James Gleason treating his wife and her mother to luncheon at the Derby. Eileen Percy among the guests at the Brown Derby. Eleanor Boardman lunching with her favorite director, King Vidor. King being urged to tell us some news, told of his original story on which he is at the moment working. Charles Bickford back from a sea voyage where he got some first-hand atmosphere for "The Sea Bat." Charlie Chaplin being given his favorite sandwich by Henry, who always caters to filmland's well known comedian. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

McLAGLEN IN NEW FILM OF GAY PAREE

FOLLOWING his great success in "The Cock-Eyed World," which established records throughout the entire country for attendance, Victor McLaglen, the inimitable tough talker of the screen, is once more starred in "Hot For Paris," a sequel to "The Cock-Eyed World."

Appearing opposite to McLaglen is El Brendel, the hilarious Swedish comedian from "Sunny Side Up," which was another record breaking talking picture.

The entire locale of "Hot For Paris" is laid in the French capital, where scene after scene creates roars of laughter at the situations into which McLaglen and El Brendel get themselves over their battle for the heart and hand of Fifi Dorsay, the French star, who has already carved a niche in the movie hall of fame for herself.

"Hot For Paris" will have its premiere at the New B. F. Keith's starting Friday with a midnight show at 11:30, and will then open its regular engagement Saturday morning. All seats for the midnight show are reserved.

RAJAH RABOID TO TELL ALL

RAJAH RABOID, world famous mind reader who is now appearing at the Scollary Square Olympia, is now making a special stage appearance every morning at 11:40 a. m. to take care of the many people through out Boston and vicinity who take a personal interest in him and their future. During his radio broadcasts for the last two weeks through stations WBZ and WBZA, thousands of letters have poured in from admirers who wish to find out about their future business dealings, love affairs, best articles and missing persons. He claims that he has established a record for fan mail during his short stay in Boston.

He has tried, he announced, to answer most of the questions that he received by mail, but was forced to give it up on account of his vaudeville appearances here. He will gladly answer as best he can, questions that are asked him from the audience. He is assisted by Madame Orpha.

At 11:40 every morning, he will be on the stage in addition to his regular afternoon and evening performances.

BARRYMORE IN ROMANCE OF ROYALTY

ALTHOUGH "General Crack," John Barrymore's initial all-talking Vitaphone starring vehicle, at the Metropolitan tomorrow, is not an all-color picture, several of the more elaborate sequences which particularly lend themselves to the new natural tone medium were filmed by the recently perfected process. One of these pretentious scenes which are photographed in natural colors is a cathedral interior during the coronation of the emperor. The chanting processional, singing choirs, and the traditional coronation ritual, climaxed by the crowning of the ruler, is presented in the gorgeous natural colors characteristic of the 18th century, the time in which this romantic story takes place.

John Barrymore

This setting is one of the most beautiful and elaborate in the entire picture, and hundreds of people appear as partakers in the coronation ceremonies.

Lowell Sherman plays the emperor in "General Crack," while Mr. Barrymore, in the title role, enacts a great fighting lover, whose mixture of gypsy noble blood makes him the feared and admired military figure of his era.

The cast includes Marian Nixon, Hobart Bosworth, Armida, Jacqueline Logan, Philippe de Lacy, and scores of others. Walter Anthony and J. Grubb Alexander did the adaptation of the George Preedy novel. Alan Crosland directed.

Midnight Howard Shows Make Hit With Patrons

The midnight shows at the Howard have become very popular with all patrons. The various members of the burlesque company offer new songs and dances and the chorus girls too add to the enjoyment of the bill. The performance begins at 11:30.

Theatrical Folk to Hold Benefit Show on Friday

Boston Lodge, No. 2, Theatrical Mutual Association, will hold its annual benefit performance at the Colonial, Friday afternoon, February 21. Proceeds from the event will enable the association to enlarge the death benefit from $150 to $500. Already several "name" acts have volunteered their services and with a member of the talent committee at every theater, it is planned to present one of the longest and finest bills yet presented at a benefit show.

Invitations are being extended to many city officials including Governor Allen, Mayor Curley, General Edwards and several in the radio field.

The reception committee is composed of Blanche Ring, Lenora Bradley and Julia Callahan. The stage will be under the direction of T. Frank Meagher.

CANTATA CLUB IN CHORAL CONCERT

By MOSES SMITH

The Bach Cantata Club, an enterprising organization led by G. Wallace Woodworth, not content with the paucity of choral music offered in Boston, gave one of its excellent programs at the Emmanuel Church last night. This program consisted of an organ prelude, a chorale harmonized by Kocher from an old melody by Castoldi, the 50th Cantata of Bach, "Christus, Der Ist Mein Leben," "Wer Will Una Scheiden von der Liebe Gottes?" by Heinrich Schutz, Brahms' "Geistliches Lied" and the 79th Cantata of Bach, "The Lord is a Sun and Shield."

Mr. Woodworth and his organization are to be thanked for the opportunity afforded Boston musiclovers of hearing such works, almost never performed here nowadays. The good-sized audience that listened to this concert—or "meeting" as it was called—appreciatively, reverently, indicated that there is a public for such things.

It is often pointed out that the place to hear religious music is in the church. To the extent that one hears it as a religious ceremony this observation is very much in point. But we have become accustomed to hearing music, no matter what kind, as music. And we confess that, impressive as was the ceremony in many respects last night, the same music, heard in a concert hall built purely to recreate sound, with a larger chorus and orchestra, would have given far greater pleasure.

Dr. Woodworth and his assistants were valiant over a labor of love. But it takes a virtuoso choir—like the Russian Symphonic Choir, or perhaps like one that Bach may have written for, in which each voice is a potential soloist—to do these works properly. Otherwise more singers are needed. The soloists last night were for the most part competent, but not distinguished.

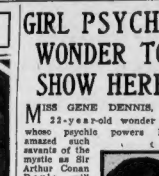
Film of "Party Girl" Coming to Modern

"PARTY GIRL," an all-talking film that has won for itself columns of praise in connection with its premiere in New York City, is soon to have its first showing in New England. It will be screened at the Modern and Beacon Theaters, starting next Saturday.

This photoplay is heralded as a super-picture because it "has everything." It has cast, music, story with thrilling sequences, classy dialogue, and the action that makes a real motion picture.

GIRL PSYCHIC WONDER TO SHOW HERE

MISS GENE DENNIS, the 22-year-old wonder girl whose psychic powers have amazed such savants of the mystic as Sir Arthur Conan Doyle will make her first Boston appearance at Loew's State for the week beginning next Monday. Miss Dennis' gift of answering intimate questions and solving baffling problems, has stood the test of experts from Yale, Harvard, Columbia and other universities.



Gene Dennis

Miss Dennis has aided in the apprehension of criminals and locating of stolen goods. She has thousands of affidavits from those she has helped.

There is none of the bizarre atmosphere of the so-called medium about Miss Dennis. In a friendly, even in an impersonal manner, this otherwise normal, charming young woman tells of secrets thought lost forever.

QUINCY GIRL MAKES BOW AT DANCE

MISS CATHERINE BARTOW, charming daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Howard K. Bartow of Quincy, is being presented to society at a dance on January 31. The Princess Ballroom of the Hotel Somerset is to be the scene of the affair. Miss Bartow, besides having studied at Miss May's school in Boston and the Knox school in Cooperstown, N. Y., has also taken courses at the University of Grenoble in France. Among the dinner parties being planned for Bartow dance guests is one which Mrs. James J. Phelan of Chiswick rd., Brookline, is giving in honor of Miss Catherine Brown. Miss Brown's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walker Brown reside at the Hotel Beaconsfield.

IT WAS WITH REGRET THAT those attending "Pygmalion" realized that this production at the Hollis St. Theater of George Bernard Shaw's comedy was the last of the Theater Guild's benefit performances for the season. The Free Hospital for Women is the recipient of the box office receipts. The dinner guests of Mrs. Livingston Davis were seated in two of the boxes, while in two others were those who had been present at Mrs. G. Richmond Fearing's dinner party. Mrs. William Whitman, jr., in gown of salmon color silk, had also been a hostess at a dinner. Others entertaining in this manner were Dr. and Mrs. John Rock of West Roxbury, Mrs. Walter C. Bayliss of Commonwealth ave., and Mrs. Joseph Bradley of Bay State rd. In an evening frock of green and gold cloth telling in points, Miss Mary Hammond was particularly lovely. She, too, had had guests for dinner. In her party was Miss Agnes Boardman, exceedingly smart in a burgundy velvet dress and long white kid gloves. Miss Susan Hammond, Brooks Potter and one or two others.

ALSO IN ATTENDANCE was Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller, looking strikingly handsome in a black evening wrap and Mrs. William Dana Orcutt in an eggshell panne velvet trimmed with gold beading. Mrs. Charles B. Barnes, jr. (Phoebe Washburn), was enjoying the performance with Miss Virginia Lees; the former wearing a cloak of blue velvet, Miss Lees one of silver. Miss Susan Morss was attired in rust chiffon, Miss Dorothy Stebbins was costumed in gold lame and Miss Alice Graves in a very long frock of black chiffon. Others gowned in black were Miss Mary Emery, Mrs. Francis Lee Higginson, jr., and Miss Dorothy Lawrence. Miss Edith Wolcott had on a green afternoon dress. Mrs. Franklin W. Hobbs, Mrs. Henry Forbes, Miss Jean Sears, Miss Evelyn Windeler, Miss Rosamond Blanchard, Mrs. George H. Lyman, Miss Victoria Potter and Mrs. Guy Warren were also in this ultra select audience.

THE DINNER AND THEATER party which Mrs. J. Warren Sturgis was to have given for Miss Priscilla Prince, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barnard Prince of Marlborough st., this evening has been postponed until Wednesday, the 22nd. On this occasion Mrs. Sturgis is to entertain at the Lincolnshire. Her guests will include Miss Dorothea Newman, Miss Laetitia Orlandini, Miss Justine Prince, a sister of the honor guest, Lewis D. Parker, Daniel Codman, Robert MacDowell and Sumner Sturgis, a son of the hostess.

Augustus Annie

These are the two cunning little children of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus L. Putnam of Beacon st. Augustus, Jr., and Anne Lockwood Putnam.

RECENT JUNIOR LEAGUE news of interest includes a few appointments and a number of transfers. Mrs. William C. Cox is the new house committee chairman. Mrs. Livingston Merchant had been holding this position. Mrs. John T. Clunie of Commonwealth ave. has been made regional arts and interests chairman—this is for region which consists of all the Junior Leagues in New England and Canada. Mrs. William Breed, jr., of Cambridge has been transferred to the New York League as has Mrs. F. Dewey Everett. The following named are now making their homes in Greater Boston and have therefore been transferred from their home town Junior Leagues to the Boston chapter: Hazekiah N. Conant of Providence, Mrs. Prescott Rigelow of Atlanta and Mrs. William Warren of St. Louis. Miss Susan Blake and Mrs. Raymond Bidwell are rejoining the league here.

THERE IS INTEREST IN the announcement of the engagement of Miss Christine Thorne, daughter of the late Rev. Henry A. Thorne of St. Benedict's in Norwich, England, and Nicholas P. Harrison, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Harrison of Chelsea, London, England. The bridegroom-to-be is a brother of Mrs. Ames Newell of Beacon st., Brookline. Although he lived in Boston for a few years, he is at present living in Cincinnati, where he is in business. Miss Thorne, who also is residing in Cincinnati, attended London University, for which she was prepared in English private schools. Mr. Harrison studied at Malvern College in England. He was decorated with the Croix de Guerre during the World War when serving with the second British Army in France. It is probable that the wedding will take place in Boston early in June.

MME. SAWADA, WIFE OF His Excellency Setsuzo Sawada, the Imperial Japanese consul at New York, is to be entertained at a luncheon tomorrow, tendered by Miss Rose L. Dexter of Beacon st. Tonight His Excellency is to be the guest of honor at a reception given by the Japan Society in the American Academy of Arts and Sciences on Newbury st.

MISS ELEONORA SEARS, Mrs. Henry Parsons King, Miss Eleanor Holton, Miss Marjorie Morrill, Mrs. Homer Albers, Miss Aurine Boyden and the Misses Priscilla and Lou Waterman are a few of the Boston society women who are planning to participate on Thursday in the women's squash tournament at the Harvard Club. The last Monday of this month is to be another red letter day for society's sportswomen as it marks the commencing of the national indoor tennis tournament for women, which is to be held in the Longwood Cricket Club covered courts. Many out-of-town stars will participate in this event and considerable entertaining is planned. Mrs. William Endicott of Marlborough st. is running this tournament.

WARNER LAUDS WOMEN'S INTEREST IN POLITICS

THE increasing interest of clubwomen throughout the state in legislative measures affecting the home and the public welfare is one of the finest things that woman suffrage has brought to the Commonwealth, in the opinion of Atty.-Gen. Joseph Warner.

"Clubwomen, analyzing the various constructive measures in which they are interested, and public questions as well, make a valuable contribution to the government," Warner said, speaking before the Ladies' Library Assn. at Randolph.

"It is a pleasure to hear the discussions in which these earnest students present the merits and demerits of a proposed bill and then set about recording their opinion where it will count."

Keen interest was shown by the club in learning how to unwind the red tape which so often means the death of a measure before it ever reaches the floor of the House.

Women may make their influence felt by attending the committee hearings where a bill in which they are interested is being discussed, Warner said, or they may write to their representative or senator asking his support.

The clubs in the district from which the committee members come may be asked to perform this friendly office for sister clubs in other communities, he suggested.

BOOK LAW BILL

Throughout the State clubs are discussing the bill for revision of the book law and that for the regulation of tourist camps, upon which the State Federation will take action on January 22 at its mid-winter meeting.

Incidentally the book law revision bill comes up for hearing before the legal affairs committee on January 22.

The members of this committee are Senators Johnson of Worcester, chairman; Cotton of Lexington; Hodgins of Revere, and Hurley of Holyoke. Representatives Clemons of Wakefield, Heuer, chairman; Washburn of Middleborough, Spear of Everett, Ginsberg of Boston, Ayer of Boston, Brockmire of Gloucester, Sims of Maynard, Barbet of New Bedford, Finnegan of Boston, Clark of Hopkinton and Dearbam of Uxbridge.

The Boston Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the bill for regulation of overnight camps through licensing and inspection.

This bill has already caused unusual interest and comment because of the survey made by the Massachusetts Civic League in the Cape Cod section with a subsequent inquiry by the district attorney's office. It is being watched and studied with interest by all legislative groups.

GENERAL FEDERATION

For many years the General Federation of Women's Clubs has cooperated with the American Social Hygiene Assn in providing information and advice concerning social hygiene for those clubs which desired to carry on either active work or study in this field.

The newest service offered is that of a consultant on club programs, Miss Katharine Bement Davis, Ph.D., former commissioner of corrections of New York City. She may be consulted either by letter or interview at the association's office, 370 Seventh ave., New York, by those who desire information or help in planning club programs in any part of the field of social hygiene.

This service is in addition to that which is already being rendered by Dr. Valeria H. Parker and Dr. William F. Snow as members of the advisory board of the General Federation health division.

STATE FEDERATION

Mrs. Phillip Tirrell, director of the eighth district, will preside at the legislative conference to be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the parish house of the Methodist Church on Main st., Melrose.

The Melrose Woman's Club will be the hostess club and its president, Mrs. William H. Cotting, will give a greeting.

Dr. George Spenger and a member of the Walsh and Ward Society will discuss the bill for the revision of the book law pro and con, and Capt. Charles Reaupre of the State Police will present the case for the regulation of overnight camps and tourist lodgings.

Harris A. Reynolds will speak on the state forestry bill and Mrs Albert Bradley Carter of the M. F. P. C. C. will talk on the Children's Commission.

This Modern World

Unique Plate Glass Lamps Reflect Modernism

CLEAR glass architecturally wrought into striking design is the latest modernistic trend in lamps. The artistic effect of light reflected through the clear planes of glass is a thing to capture the imagination of those who seek the unusual.

As yet lamps of this type, which have been shown in this country, are all imports, but so fascinating is the idea that it will be a matter only of time before plate glass will be used extensively here for lamp design.

Part of the charm of these lamps is the individuality of the shape which they attain. There is nothing stereotyped about them, and their modernism is so classic that it does not limit them to any one period of decoration. The panes of glass are put together with metal, usually in a geometric or architectural contour.

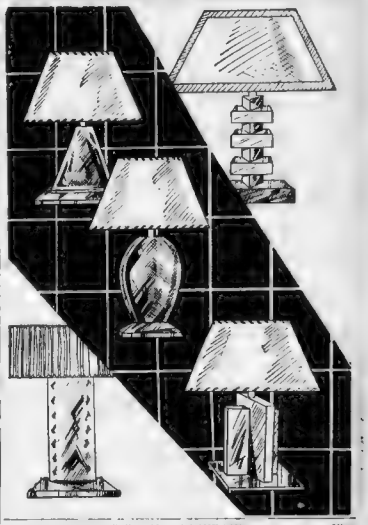
EVEN the shades are very simply wrought to conform with the basic spirit of the lamp design. Glass, parchment and other mediums are handled with the greatest skill and subtlety. Several of the most striking imports seen in the leading shops have been selected here.

An oval piece of plate glass outlined with a metal strip is set upon a chromium base to form a very lovely lump. The shade is a pale green translucent material. Another model is fashioned of a series of glass squares pierced through the center by a column of black—these rest upon a black glass base. The shade is edged with silver.

A glass shade is the stunning top to a lamp whose base is a single column of etched glass resting on a metal base. The last lamp in this group uses two pieces of glass cutting through each other and resting upon a square base of the metal. Note the almost severe simplicity of the parchment shade.

WHETHER you remember the dim past that included the oil lamp, or whether you are so thoroughly modern as to have memory for the gas jet and the electric globe only, a new electric lamp that can be regulated in brilliancy will recall the old-fashioned lamp.

This light so appropriate for the room decorated in early American manner, has an arrangement exactly like the knob that regulated the wick of the oil lamp. This device regulates the brilliancy of the light so that it can be "turned down" to a dull glow or allowed its full quota of radiance.



WHETHER you are a Victorian or a modern inclination you will like the many porcelain and pottery figures that are in vogue now as they were in the Victorian era. Some of them are completely modern in technique in that with angles or smooth surfaces, while others show the gentler art that is slightly reminiscent of more sentimental days.

Russia and America in War of Ideals

In this, the third of the series of six articles on conditions in Russia today, which Frazier Hunt, war correspondent and magazine writer, has written for the Boston Evening American and other client newspapers of International News Service, Hunt makes some comparisons between Soviet Russia and the United States.

By FRAZIER HUNT
European Representative for Cosmopolitan Magazine.

Written exclusively for International News Service

(Copyright, 1930, by the United States and Great Britain, and other countries, by International News Service. Reproduction in whole or in part prohibited.)

London, Jan. 15—Russia today is in the midst of a new Red revolution. It is more radical, more Red harder and vastly more uncompromising than the revolution of the intellectual Lenin. Stalin and his crowd who sit in the Kremlin represent the unconscious spirit and will of the vast majority of Russia. Russia is Red and doesn't know it—but Stalin and the thousand leaders know it. Communism rests squarely on the unexpressed wish and will of Russia.

The Russian revolution has crystalized. It is a fact today. It is no longer a theory. No longer are there great personalities. The revolution itself has been mechanized—it is the hardened will of millions.

Stalin—the one figure whose name is in common circulation—is only the symbol of Communism. It is "the party" that counts. Stalin could disappear tomorrow and the Soviet Union would roll on without a break. Gone are the great inspirers, the Lenins and Trotskys. It is the will, the spirit that counts today.

Russian is still cruel and intolerant. Never has there been such a spy system, nor such an actuality of terror. Never has there been so little genuine personal freedom. Never has there been a government so centralized and autocratic. Never has life been harder and cruder. Religion is crushed, and the home is in a transitory stage.

THESE ARE THE FACTS

These are the facts of Russia the trees that keep the observer from seeing the Russian forest. But the great truth and the great forces of Russia are there.

And this great truth is that Russia is booming ahead. She is a going concern. Her philosophy of Communism is a new religion—a forceful, vital militant religion and her young men and women are crusaders out to win the world.

Almost 11 years ago, when I was in Moscow, she thought she could do it with bayonets. Now she knows she must do it by ideas. She no longer dreams of conquering the world—she dreams of converting the world. She is training engineers, not soldiers.

And in do all this she turns to her greatest potential rival and enemy.

No two countries in the world are so genuinely similar as America and Russia. They are comparable in size, in wealth of land and mines, rivers and forests; they are both dreamers; they belong to the future, to the new world. The good life for the common man is the deep and fundamental dream of both.

And so it is that these two nations at once more closely similar and yet more distantly separated, fight for the soul of the world.

At present, America, is far, far ahead.

RUSSIA LEARNING

Russia is learning and will continue to learn tremendous lessons of machinery and personal comforts and decent living from America. But America in turn will unconsciously take certain lessons from Russia—certain ideas of state control, of production, of co-operation, of distribution.

Tomorrow they will struggle for the world.

"Kato kago."—Which one?—Who will win?

Who can give comforts and happiness to all men—red Russia or white America?

The one that can win the world of the future.

In tomorrow's article Hunt tells how the Lenin "intellectual" revolution of 1917 fell far short of its goal because, after wrestling the factories of the cities from the capitalists and giving them into the hands of the workmen, it was found the workmen did not know how to operate them; after winning the land for the land-hungry peasants, the latter had no ideas or means for making the land more productive.

Services for Policeman

Full police honors are to be accorded Patrolman Edward J. Card at funeral services to be held from the undertaking parlor of J. E. Henderson & Co., Broadway, Everett, Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Patrolman Card, second oldest patrolman in the Everett police department, died in Whidden Memorial Hospital, Everett, following a long illness.

CALLS QUEBEC 'BOOTLEGGER PARADISE'

Portland, Me., Jan. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Gordon Wright, of London, Ont., national president of the Canadian Woman's Christian Temperance Union, in an address at a W. C. T. U. "Victory" luncheon today, marking the 10th anniversary of national prohibition, declared that prohibition, even poorly enforced, is decades beyond either the license system or government control.

She charged there is more drinking among young men and young women in Canada than under the license system, and that crime has increased in provinces which discarded their prohibition laws.

TRIBUTE TO MRS. STEVENS

Mrs. Althea G. Quimby, state president, in introducing Mrs. Wright, recalled that the late Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens, world and national president of the organization, predicted 18 years ago that within a decade prohibition would be placed in the constitution of the United States.

Mrs. Wright asserted that "the sake of the greed of gold, seven Canadian provinces have been willing to perpetuate the crowning shame of Christendom," and that Nova Scotia is "following hard after."

"Even though the provinces already have demonstrated there is not, nor indeed can be, government control of the liquor traffic," she said, "invariably and inevitably it controls and debauches the government, making the attempt.

ENSLAVES GOVERNMENT

"It is government sale, government partnership and government protection of the liquor traffic—and finally government subjugation to the liquor traffic.

"So-called government control has meant in Canada a great wastage which has retarded prosperity's progress. More liquor is consumed today in our government sale provinces than under any other system."

Quebec, she said, has won the "opprobrious distinction of being the bootleggers' paradise."

West Point Bill

Washington, Jan. 15—More than 20 different properties would be acquired for the extension of the West Point military reservation if the bill introduced Saturday by Rep. Hamilton Fish, Jr., should become law.

Whole World to Hear King George Speak

London, Jan. 15—When King George delivers his first radio address since being taken down by illness more than a year ago, at the opening of the London naval conference on Jan. 21, the marvelous improvements of short wave transmission will allow his voice to be heard right around the world and from almost the north pole to Antarctica.

The world-wide audience will be of all nationalities and all races, and will listen-in from points such as Cape Bergin, northernmost tip of Sweden, to the Antarctic icefloes where Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd is leading his exploring expedition, and where a Norse explorer, Sir Douglas Mawson's party and Sir Hubert Wilkins also expect to tune in.

The king's speech will be picked up in various longitudes and latitudes and at varying hours of day and night. Norway, Germany, France, Spain, parts of Africa, Japan, China, Australia, India, Russia, Canada, South America and the United States will tune in on the epochal event and for the first time the subjects of the empire on which the sun never sets, 450,000,000 strong, may hear their monarch speak to them.

The king will deliver his address not only to the assembled delegates, but to the world through a specially constructed gold-and-silver encased microphone, on a pedestal near the throne in the royal gallery of the House of Lords.

A Wonderful Love Story by Author of 'Hollywood Girl,' 'Easy.'

What Has Happened Before

Armed with happiness, love and youth, Tom Nicholson and Lovejoy Mason are married. Tom's salary is small. They take a tiny flat. For two years before the marriage Tom had been jealous of Steve Oglesby, rich and handsome bachelor. Downtown with her friend, Norrie Shane, Lovejoy meets Steve. Although Norrie refuses, Lovejoy goes alone to lunch with him. She sees Tom. Frightened, she starts to leave. Tom's eyes are on her. Norrie Shane's arrival saves Lovejoy. In September Tom and Lovejoy move to a suburb.

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER 5

TOM and Lovejoy rented the little green bungalow in Stallings Lane on the last Saturday in August.

Like the Hewlett at flat, the green bungalow was furnished when they took it.

There were six rooms in it. A living room, a dining room and a kitchen which took up the north side of it. On the south side were two bedrooms and a bathroom.

Beyond the bathroom was a sun room.

It was because of the sun room that Lovejoy had wanted the little bungalow.

For the wall spaces of the sun room were covered with Old Mother Hubbard wall-paper and in one corner stood a small white bed—a baby's little bed.

On Monday—the first Monday in September—the young Nicholsons moved into the bungalow.

They were enchanted with it.

"There's everything here that anybody could wish for," Lovejoy declared on Tuesday morning, as she stood in the little white-and-blue kitchen, getting Tom's breakfast.

Even a lawn-mower out in the shed." Tom called back from the bathroom, where he was shaving.

That was the beauty of the little bungalow. Roomy as it seemed in them after the Hewlett Street flat, it was still so small that they could call to each other from room to room. It was a friendly little house.

Outside there was a yard of green grass edged with a white picket fence, and in one corner of the fence there was a small apple tree. The garage was covered with vines, and so was the back porch.

On Wednesday morning men came and put in a telephone.

They put it in just in the nick of time.

For at high noon, Lovejoy, white and shaking and glistening with salt, rolled up Tom at his office door as he was going out to lunch.

Tom," she said, and then she began to sob into the telephone. She was almost beside herself with pain and terror. Terror of the hour that every woman dreads and longs for and dreams about from the time that she knows she is a woman.

She hung up the receiver and crept into the living room to wait for him. Beside the armchair that stood by the front window were his house slippers. Dark blue leather ones that Aunt Em had given him at Christmas time.

She was sitting in the armchair with one of the slippers held tight against her breast when Tom came tearing into the house a little later.

She seemed to see him through a mist when he came in.

Dimly she knew that he came up to her. Lifted her in his arms and carried her into their bedroom.

His voice seemed to come from a long way off when he told her that she ought to have telephoned Dr. Arnott and Aunt Em.

"You should have telephoned the doctor the very first thing," she heard him say as he laid her down on the bed. "You promised me that you would let him the very minute you need him. . . .

She tried to shake her head. . . . Didn't he know that she meant more to her than a hundred doctors? She needed the doctor, of course. But she could go through this without knowing that Tom was in the house with her. He was the important person.

There was a lamp burning in her room when she opened her eyes again, and beside it sat a woman all in white.

It was a long time before she could figure out who that woman was. But at last she did.

"Norrie," she said thickly. "Norrie."

What was Norrie Shane doing here, she wondered dimly, in this room that belonged to herself and Tom? . . . And Tom, where was Tom?

The door opened and he came in. He reached the bed before Norrie did. He dropped down on his knees beside it and laid his face down against one of Lovejoy's hands. She knew that he was crying.

And then, like a flash, it all came back to her.

"The baby," she said in that same low, thick voice, and looking up,

BAY STATE IN BIG POWER BATTLE

Statement of Utilities Commission Opposes Federal Control

Vigorous opposition to federal regulation of the interstate transmission of electric power was expressed in a statement, made public in Washington today, of the Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities.

The statement, made to John E. Benton, general solicitor of the National Association of Railroads and Utility Commissioners, for presentation to the Senate interstate commerce committee, which is holding hearings on the Couzens bill, said:

"The regulation of public utilities should never be undertaken except where there is no other way of obtaining regulation."

NO NEED OF CHANGE

"So far as we are aware," it continued, "there is no necessity at the present time for placing under federal jurisdiction the regulation of the electric power companies, or the state rates charged thereby.

The statement also asserted that substitution of federal for long distance regulation of public utilities for effective state regulation was foreseen if the Couzens bill were enacted.

"The field being so wide, it is impossible for any federal board located at Washington to give the question involved anything like adequate considerations," the statement continued. "Moreover, such a board is slow to act when the interests of the public or the utilities require quick and decisive action."

Regulation which is cumbersome and slow is no regulation at all, the department said.

"Once the federal power enters a field it constantly enlarges its scope of operation," the statement added, "until that which is left for state regulation is so small as to become of little importance."

Only a small percentage of the electric power used is transmitted from one state to another, the statement added. "As this is almost entirely electricity in bulk, to be sold at wholesale, it must find a market in large users of electricity."

FEAR FANTASTIC THEORIES

"To be frank," he continued, "the Couzens bill will bring about the regulation of electric rates in Massachusetts based upon the decision of the U. S. Supreme Court, in their construction of the 14th amendment to the Constitution, which, up to the present time, Massachusetts has avoided. In an experience in regulation of very nearly half a century, Massachusetts has regulated its electric utilities according to its own traditions, with but two appeals to the court, neither of which was successful.

"We cannot view with equanimity a change in our regulations which will force us to be involved in what we believe to be fantastic and unsound theories and doctrines, involving as it will rates much higher than they need to be to maintain the companies in successful condition and on sound financial condition and to pay the stockholders a gainful return upon the capital invested."

The statement, which was made public today by Mr. Benton, was signed by Chairman Henry C. Attwill, and concurred in by the other four members of the public utilities department.

BIG HUB WOOL FIRM READY TO OPERATE

$1,000,000 Corporation Is to Establish Headquarters in Boston at Early Date

Prediction that the $1,000,000 National Wool Marketing Corp would be ready to start actual operations possibly within 10 days was made today by J. B. Wilson, general manager.

Permanent headquarters for the corporation soon will be established in Boston.

Details of initial operations were discussed by Wilson and the federal farm board, after which Wilson said that arrangements would go forward to acquire as much of the 1930 clip as possible.

He said the corporation, which completed its organization less than a week ago, would have no storage problem since present warehouses were sufficient. It intended, he said, to hold the 1930 clip as near points of production as practicable, moving it out to manufacturers as demanded rather than following the previous practice of concentration in Boston.

Wool production receded slightly last year from its recent increase, he said, but likely would be strong in the future. There already is a small exportable surplus in some grades and the nation is producing close to the demand in others.

Rush Repairs on Telephone Cables

Officials of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. announced today that service interrupted by damaged cables under Fort Point Channel at Congress st would be completely restored by late afternoon.

Telephone service at the Army Base, Fish Pier and Commonwealth Pier was reported affected by the trouble, said to have been caused by some craft navigating the channel.

When repair men investigated one injured cable, they discovered a second which had been interfering with service to more than 600 subscribers.

Bright Future for Air Passenger Lines

It will be a long time, if ever, before there will be regular all-air passenger services from coast to coast, but the reduction in running time of a combined air-rail-road service from the present 48 hours, to 36 hours, is not such a remote possibility, according to William P. McCracken, Jr., former Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics, and now chairman of the board of the New York, Rio and Buenos Aires lines.

In an address before the New England Railroad Club at the Copley-Plaza he told of the great development of air transportation.

Wants Irishman on Movie Censor Board

Mayor Manning of Lynn took under consideration today the request of John P. Nolan, president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, for appointment of a member of that order on the motion picture censorship board in order that pictures "reflecting the Irish people may be barred from Lynn."

LEGION DENIED POLICE CELLS

Cells are for the purpose of harboring criminals, and none others need apply, according to the edict of Chief of Police Ernest H. Bishop of Quincy, and that means that the American Legion's frolickers of this city will have to go to jail elsewhere.

The legionnaires had it all planned that they were going to use the city lockup to harbor the members of their losing team in the current contest to increase Legion membership in that city. They had taken it for granted that whichever of the two teams now struggling to recruit new members lost the prize should spend a whole night behind bars.

They didn't bother, it seems, to consult the chief, who has definite ideas as to what cells may be used for.

The contest closes Friday.

Cipullo Conducts Concert for Vets

Louis A. Cipullo of Shawmut st, Weymouth, conductor of a concert band, who spent several months in the Chelsea Naval Hospital, returned with his band to give a concert for the inmates.

The concert was conducted under auspices of Colonel William Blakedirector of the Veterans' Bureau here.

FREE BED FUND DANCE TONIGHT

Breaking all precedents in the history of the organization, the Brookline Jewish Club is conducting a campaign to endow a room in the Beth Israel Hospital as a non-sectarian help to the poor.

This is the first time that the club has endowed a bed which is open to any person, regardless of his religion. This endowed hospital room will carry with it a complete nursing and doctor service together with food and incidentals for the sick person assigned the bed, President, Maxwell B. Grossman announced.

The sum of $10,000 is sought for this project, half of which already has been raised. The remainder of the money is expected to be secured tonight at a dance in the European room of The Tent on Huntington ave. Morey Pearl has donated his 17 piece orchestra and also the rent of the ballroom, so that all proceeds will be net profit to the fund.

Hub Men Burned Up 45,000,000 Cigars During 1929

There were 45,498,621 cigars smoked in Boston during 1929, according to an estimate based on United States Internal Revenue statistics for the year.

Of all the cigars smoked throughout the country during the year, 96 per cent were made in the United States.

The other 4 per cent were made in Cuba, Porto Rico, the Philippine Islands and scattered places.

WANTS LIBRARY OPEN SUNDAYS

Mayor John J. Murphy of Somerville announced today he will request that the Somerville public library be opened on Sunday afternoons in order that school children will not have to go to Boston for research work.

The mayor said he would make his request at a meeting of the Somerville board of library trustees this evening.

He also stated he will see that the gymnasium on Central Hill is thrown open three nights a week in boys and three nights a week in girls, so that young men and women obliged to work can have the opportunity of a few hours' exercise in the gymnasium at night.

CITY MEMORIAL LISTS ARCHES

Chairman William P. Long of the Boston park commission has submitted to the State commission for a soldiers' memorial, the plan ordered five years ago by Mayor Curley for a memorial island in the Charles river basin with two new bridges crossing it, including a new Harvard bridge.

The plan is similar to the one which the State commission is expected to recommend to Governor Allen except that the city plan will include the second bridge which would cost about $1,500,000 to connect the Boston park system through the Fens with the Memorial drive in Cambridge.

The new bridge would start in the Fenway at Gaston sq., pass over Ipswich and Newbury sts., over Commonwealth ave., over Beacon and back streets and then reach over the Charles river to Memorial drive, passing above the proposed island, which could be reached by ramps. Ramps would also be provided at Commonwealth ave. and back streets between Hereford st and the Charles gate West to permit traffic to ascend to and come down from the bridge level.

WILL DEFRAY COST OF NEW BUILDING

Trustees Announce Structure Will Be Part of N. E. Medical Center

A gift of $200,000 by the Jackson Trust to the Boston Floating Hospital for the erection of a new hospital building, to be built as part of the newly formed New England Medical Center, has been announced by the Old Colony Trust Co., trustee of the Jackson Trust.

The gift comes from a trust created by Paul Wilde Jackson with funds from the estate of his brother, Henry Clay Jackson, Boston merchant and banker, and makes possible the construction of the Floating Hospital's new building as one of the units in the proposed $1,000,000 New England Medical Center, in which the Floating Hospital will be affiliated with the Boston Dispensary and the Tufts College Medical school.

LUNCHEON FOR MRS. NICHOLS

A bon voyage luncheon was given today at the Copley Plaza for Mrs. Malcolm Nichols, who sails soon for a two and a half months' tour abroad with her husband.

The luncheon was given by Mrs. William E. Chenery. Fifty-two women, including Mrs. Frank G. Allen, wife of the Governor, were present. Many gifts, including books cards and sealed messages, for her trip during the voyage, were presented Mrs. Nichols.

Entertainment was furnished by Naomi Hewitt, Dorothy Greene and Edith N. Greene. Mr. and Mrs. Nichols are to visit England, France, Spain, East Africa and Palestine.

Jewish War Vets to Install Officers

The third annual installation of officers of Boston Post No. 22, Jewish War Veterans of the United States, and its ladies' auxiliary, will take place tomorrow night in Wellington Hill Auditorium in Dorchester.

Albert V. Meltzer will be installed as commander, Abraham N. Simons as senior vice-commander, Samuel J. Kogan as junior vice-commander, Benjamin Barkin as quartermaster, Maxwell Cohen as officer of the day, Dr. Silverstein as post surgeon Benjamin Love as judge-advocate and Dr. Louis Shubow, Benjamin Goldstein and Harold Seidenberg as trustees.

Harriet Bluhman will be installed as president of the auxiliary, M. T. Silverstein as vice-president, H. Stoler as treasurer and S. Stone as secretary.

Nine 'Boys' Observe Club of 50 Years Ago

Nine Marblehead "boys" met at the Adams House, that city, and observed the 50th anniversary of the establishment of their wooden shed built on Bubble Rock Neck. When they formed the club their ages ranged from 13 to 17 years. As they gazed on the fascination of the old shed was lost and they broke up.

The "boys," now Marblehead businessmen, are all in good health. The one of the group who presided was John T. Adams, the owner of the hotel in which they met. The other eight are equally successful and are John Hennessy, 65, Clinton A. Foss, 63, James McGee, 67, Charles Rogers, 66, Robert Knight, 68, Eldridge Girdler, 66, William F. Merritt, 63, and George Perry, 63.

Moving Van Crashes Into Car at Malden

ALL BURGLAR SUSPECT WANTED WAS TO WRITE LOVE NOTE

DISCOVERED IN HOME OF PROFESSOR

It Was Midnight, and Even Locked Doors Did Not Hamper Him

When a fellow gets one too many under his belt he's apt to conceive all sorts of silly ideas, such as making midnight calls.

So Patrick Lovett, 27, of Hudson st., Cambridge, argued in East Cambridge District Court today in justification of his witching-hour visit to the home of Prof. Henry C. Green of Harvard.

Last Wednesday, it developed, Lovett at the stroke of 12 set out to call upon Miss Ann Horgan, employed in Prof. Green's house in Kirkland rd.

It mattered not at all to Lovett that Miss Horgan, Prof. Green's daughter and the Harvard faculty member had retired. Nor that the house was locked.

Lovett entered—by forcing a window, Patrolman David H. told the court. He made his way to the second floor, where all were asleep when his somewhat noisy maneuvers aroused the professor.

That dignitary peeked into the hall, saw Lovett gliding into the library, tiptoed after him and locked the door. Then he summoned the police.

Patrolman Walsh told Judge Stone that he understood Lovett and Miss Horgan were engaged. Judge Stone inquired of the defendant whether he had been drunk and Lovett admitted that he had been. All he wanted to do, he said was write a little note for Miss Horgan, leave the billet doux where she would find it and depart without ceremony.

Judge Stone decide that he had probably been breaking and entering and on that charge held the defendant for the grand jury.

On two other charges, drunkenness and disturbance of the peace, he declared justification in view of the other charge.

So, unless he can raise $500, Lovett will be held where he can make no midnight calls until the grand jury decides what to do with him.

At that, he may consider everything to have been worth while.

They Even Discuss Pies

A wide variety of affairs affecting Lynn were discussed when Sidney Szathmary, Boston Evening American office boy, interviewed Mayor J. Fred Manning of the North Shore city. "The best pies" and baseball were other topics.

Lynn Mayor's Hobby Is Directing Dances

By SIDNEY SZATHMARY
Boston Evening American Office Boy

Like Calvin Coolidge, the new mayor of Lynn is a man of few words. Mayor J. Fred Manning doesn't have much to say, but what he does is to the point.

Mayor Manning's hobby is being floor marshal at a dance. Although he had directed dances for 20 years, he doesn't dance himself.

"I don't like dancing," he says. This mayor doesn't intend to interfere with how girls may dress themselves, even though they may forget to put on stockings now and then.

"That's up to their parents," the mayor said.

"But," he added, "I don't like to hear of their necking or dunking me."

He volunteered the statement that he had "never taken a drink in my life."

ANSWERS BRIEFLY

Mayor Manning is very distinguished looking. He's very friendly though.

I like his sister, who is his secretary. She treated me and the photographer very nice. I think she is very smart, and I like the way she talks over the telephone.

The thing I noticed most about the mayor is that he doesn't talk much and isn't interested in going after publicity. He answered all my questions, but briefly.

This was my second interview. My first one was with Mayor Curley of Boston, and I was sure nervous. He made me feel right at home, though.

This time I wasn't a bit scared.

I looked Mayor Manning right in the eye. He looked right back at me as if he feared no one.

I says to His Honor that my readers want to know what he would do about building a new City Hall or some new schoolhouses.

"If you had money for only one, what would you do?" I says to him.

PIE RUSE FAILS

"Schools," was his reply.

I read in the Boston Evening American that Mayor Manning's sister makes the best pies in the world.

"Where can you get the best pies in the world," I asked him, just to kid him along.

"At home," he told me, but he forgot to invite me to get some pies.

"I always eat at home," he said, but I hadn't asked him that.

I remember only one question that the mayor couldn't answer.

I says to him: "What do you want Lynn schools to emphasize most in their teaching?"

This was something the boss thought up for me to ask.

The mayor looked surprised at that one and says to me.

"I don't know."

He said he hadn't looked into that, yet. He tells me he likes the way the schools are run.

A REAL BALL FAN

I got off the subject of schools and asks him what is his hobby. I tells him I'm a baseball player.

That's my favorite sport," he said, and seemed glad that I asked him.

I'm going to tell my reading public a secret about this interviewing racket: I looked up in our "morgue" about Mr. Manning and found out that he liked baseball. So, today I was a baseball player. If he had liked hockey, I would have been a hockey fan.

I'm glad the mayor didn't ask me about Ruth's batting average.

The city editor asked me to find out if the mayor plans to make recreational improvements as much as possible.

"Yes," is what this man of few words said.

SHOE BUYERS AT STYLE SHOW

With thousands of visiting buyers present, the Boston shoe style show got away to an auspicious start in the Hotel Statler.

Four floors of the hotel have been taken over by exhibitors, while the ball room parlors, foyers and other public parts of the hotel hold their quotas.

Fully 30,000 buyers, manufacturers and salesmen came to attend the show, in which the advance spring and summer styles make their now to the business.

Enthusiastic approval was shown by the buyers as the new styles were shown. This year the show is more gorgeous than ever. Its 100 mannequins modeling the shoes bring dressed in a variety of costumes, while those wearing modern dress also presented the spring and summer styles of town buyers.

Latest styles in color showed the beige class, maroon glace, sun tan and Riviera blue the leading hues, while shoes were noted for a long vamp and higher heels.

The Runway Revue, under the direction of Phil Melhado, will be given this afternoon and evening and tomorrow night. New styles in footwear will be modeled at the revues.

Buyers, it was said, are placing orders in large quantities, having come in the mood to believe that the country has recovered from whatever setback the stock market crash may have had on buying habits. Orders were held in abeyance at the St. Louis show and the Boston show, as usual, will result in more orders than ever before.

Because of the importance of the Boston show, the talking movies took pictures of popular shoes. These will be sent all over the country, breaking the new shoe salesmen.

J. Goddard Brown, president of the Shoe and Leather Reporter, is in charge of the show.

Mrs. Curley Seems Much Improved

Mrs James M Curley has shown considerable improvement recently, it was reported today at the Jamaicaway home of the Mayor.

Her inability to attend the inaugural of her husband caused a general apprehension over her condition, but since Mayor Curley assumed office she has steadily improved, it is said.

Prof. Fay to Talk on the Young Plan

Prof. Sidney B. Fay, formerly of the department of European history, Smith College, but now of Harvard, will speak at the Old South Meeting House Forum Sunday afternoon. "The Young Plan and the Present Outlook in Germany."

A concert will be given by Miss Gertrude Tingley, contralto.

GRASS BLAMED FOR SLICING OF GOLF COURSE

Member Took Away 5 Holes Because Path Was Not Cut as He Wished

On such a triviality as the matter of cutting a bit of grass has the Wenham Golf Club lost five of its 18 holes and has had two more made useless.

Fred M. Batchelder, wealthy manufacturer and charter member of the club in 1890, has denied the club further use of the five holes, which are on his land—all because the club groundskeeper was forbidden to cut a path through long grass to allow Batchelder a short cut to the course.

Batchelder is still a member of the club, but he said today that he doubts whether he'll be sent his annual bill for dues in April. He also is a member of the Salem Country Club and so is not worrying.

PLANS HIS OWN COURSE.

Even if he were not a member of another club he would not be denied his golf, for he plans to use the five-hole nucleus to build a course on his own land and open it to the public at a small fee.

Although outwardly a quarrel over cuts of the land by the club the fight had its start last June, according to Batchelder, when Ralph Stanley, Beverly banker and a club official, refused to allow the keeper to cut the path through the tall grass.

The feeling between the two men grew until Batchelder, moved by the fact that another house who controls nine holes was receiving $1000 a year rental on his land, raised his price from $200 to $500 a year.

REFUSED $900 RENTAL

The club voted him $400, and then cut it to $300. Batchelder balked and decided to take his land back no matter what price was offered.

Wenham members have accepted their dismal fate with remarkable optimism. Plans are under way by which the course will be reinstated to its former length, and until such time as the new holes are ready for use Wenham members will nobble along on the nine remaining holes.

As far as known this is the first time in the annals of golf in Massachusetts that a club has been forced to surrender a vital part of its playing privileges to satisfy the demand of a lease-holding member.

Mackey's New Job Is Also Under Fire

A scramble is on over the vacancy in the Board of Aldermen of Somerville from Ward 3, caused by the retirement of Thomas F. Mackey, who was elected to that office in November, but who resigned before he took the oath in order to accept the deputy collector of taxes. The candidates are former Alderman Joseph F. Philbin, Michael Daly and Matthew J. Ryan.

There is some question about Mackey being eligible for the deputy collector on the ground that he was elected an alderman for a term of two years and, according to the law as interpreted by some, he cannot accept a municipal appointment during the term for which he was elected to a city office.

Draper Intends to Stay in Race

"Nothing in the present situation has changed my intentions to become a candidate for the seat from which Senator Gillett is retiring," was the statement of Eben S. Draper of Hopedale, avowed candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination.

Draper was the only one of the prospective candidates who had anything to say on the situation. William M. Butler was out of town on a business trip and former Governor Fuller was silent as to any new developments regarding his own position or the probable Butler candidacy.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's so reliable at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This double-acting explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Surf Riding Thrills on Waterfront Flood Tide

High tide was two feet above normal on the waterfront today and wet cellars and wet feet prevailed. Here's an auto running the gauntlet on Long Wharf at the foot of State st. (Staff photo.)

HIGH TIDE HITS WATERFRONT

Another rise of two feet above normal sent the high tide into unfamiliar places today along the waterfront.

For the second day in succession Long wharf was visited by a flood when the sea water seeped through near the Atlantic ave. entrance.

At the Charles river dam of the Metropolitan District Commission the official reading recorded 13 feet 3¼ inches at the high tide mark, 11:16 a. m. The rise predicted for today was 11 feet 1 inch.

Vessels were cocked up high alongside their docks when the water line licked at the caplogs. Storage cellars were cleared out to prevent further damage than that done by yesterday's tide.

Baby Makes 180 Mile Train Trip Alone

A 10-months-old baby traveled 180 miles alone, as the Boston & Maine Railroad carried out one of the most unusual requests ever made to a railroad.

The young passenger is Robert McDonald, the son of Mrs. Leon McDonald of 757 North Main st., Brockton. He rode from South Paris, Me., to his mother's home in Brockton on his own ticket, while the railroad passenger traffic organization as his only escort.

Several days ago W. O. Wright, general passenger agent, received a request from Mrs. McDonald asking that the Boston & Maine help her in getting her infant son from where he had been boarding in South Paris to Brockton.

Word was sent to Mrs. McDonald that the passenger traffic department would perform the unusual service. Arrangements were made for the mother to purchase a ticket, and she sent word to Mrs. George Lowe, of 46 Oxford st., South Paris, where the baby had been boarding, that the child should be delivered to the morning train. Mrs. Evelyn Peters, passenger traffic secretative of the Boston & Maine, met the young passenger at the station, and served as personal escort on the long trip.

TWO DIE WHILE RIDING IN CARS

Two men, one in Malden and the other in Gloucester, died while riding in automobiles.

Winslow M. Tirrell, secretary of Weymouth selectmen, collapsed at the wheel on the Fellaway, Malden.

The car struck a telephone pole before Edward B. Sampson, also a Weymouth selectman, realized what had happened. He was uninjured.

Manuel S. Costa, 53, of Montgomery st., Gloucester, stricken with heart disease, died in the rear seat of an automobile in Western ave., Gloucester. He was returning from Beverly Hospital with his three children after visiting a sick friend.

Vet Loses Fight for War Risk Insurance

John L. Hurley, the new special assistant United States attorney, with Atty. William J. Hessions of the Veterans' Bureau, won his first case when a verdict was directed for the government by Federal Judge Lowell in the case of Frank H. Meehan, an overseas veteran, who was suing for $4000 war risk insurance.

Meehan claimed to have been totally and permanently disabled August 21, 1919, and was said to be suffering with nyanaul, a somewhat new disease. After the plaintiff's case was finished, however, Judge Lowell ruled he had not shown total and permanent disability on the date in question, when his policy expired and the verdict was directed.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's ardent enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.

No griping in the "leaves" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling — sick headache — torpid liver — constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

SAYS U. S. LAGS IN READING

Although America is first in silk stockings, railroads and automobiles, it uses far less books than any other country, according to Thomas L. Stix, president of the Book League of America.

Deploring the fact that the swiftmoving American people find such little time to enjoy the adventure and romance of good reading, Stix, described some of the aspirations and plans of the league to an interested audience at the Sears, Roebuck store in Brookline.

Among the well known judges for the Book League are Edwin Arlington Robinson of Boston, chairman, who was awarded the Pulitzer prize for poetry three times; Eugene O'Neil, Alice Roosevelt Longworth, Dr. Hamilton Holt, president of Rollins College, and Gamaliel Bradford, biographer.

During his stay in Boston, Stix is the guest of Dr. Charles L. Kuhn of the fine arts department at Harvard.

'Gentles' Homlykers' Radio Debut Tonight

Shades of Omar Khayam will penetrate the ether tonight at 8 o'clock, when "Gentles' Homlykers" have their radio premiere through WNAC. A 14-piece orchestra under Oscar Eigart will form the background for incidental songs by John Herrick and "Sammy" Elman. "Homlykers" are sponsored by the Gentles' Baking Company.

More Rain for Hub, Maybe Some Snow

More bad weather, more rain with the temperature a bit lower tomorrow and rain turning to snow, is the prospect the weather man offers today.

The best he would say was that there will be clearing late tomorrow if no new storms appear. In the past 24 hours Boston has had 77-100 inch of rain. At 8 a. m. today the Hub temperature was 37, while the coldest temperature anywhere in New England was at Greenville, Me., where the glass registered 20.

SOVIET SAILORS VISITING BOSTON PREFER ART TO REVELRY

SHUN WHITE LIGHTS AND LIQUOR

Quest of Higher Culture Surprises Veteran Tars of American Ports

Old Bill Barnacle would "shiver his timbers" if he but knew of the modern trend among deep-sea sailors.

Yearning for higher culture has displaced yo-ho-ing for a bottle of rum, and desire to visit art and educational institutions has supplanted the old longing for a time of revel in questionable seaport resorts.

All this and more is disclosed as a result of the visit of 60 seamen, sent here by the Soviet government to sail back to Russia ships recently purchased from the United States Shipping Board.

Men having years of experience among sailors have been much surprised at the quiet, but earnest demeanor of these marine representatives of the new Soviet republic and the contrast they form against old-time sea traditions.

TRANSFER TONIGHT

This evening they will be transferred from St. Mary's House for Sailors in Marginal st., East Boston, where they have been temporarily quartered, to the Immigrants' Home two blocks away, which they had closed for two years.

In this more commodious building they will live until the reconditioning of the first two ships purchased is completed. These they will sail to Russia and their places will be taken by more sailors and ships. It will take three months before the last ship is ready to leave Boston.

Reconditioning of 12 of the 25 ships will be done at the Simpson plant and Atlantic works of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation in East Boston.

Here are some of the things which make old salty mariners green with envy, and wonder what has taken hold of the men who go down to the sea in ships.

GET $60 A MONTH.

These Soviet sailors are paid at the rate of $40 a month.

In addition they are allowed $5 a day living expenses while ashore. They be given spring beds to sleep on.

Their government insists that they be given spring beds to sleep on instead of the traditional sailors' bunk.

The three officers in charge of the seamen receive the same pay and allowances and share the shore life life with the men.

They abhor strong liquor and prefer to visit the cultural institutions of Boston rather than the theaters or other attractions of white light districts.

They are free to come and go as they please until their ships are ready and they enjoy many other little privileges unknown to the average seaman.

Supt. Philip King of St. Mary's House, and Asst. Supt. Fred H. Hanna confessed today they had never met seamen exactly like these.

An old salt would consider it untraditional to shake or air his mattress. These Soviet sailors on arising throw up the windows, shake their mattresses and hang them out to air.

They complained when two bootleggers appeared among them and began to solicit business. Supt. King had the rum totes thrown out of the building.

These men love to gather around a piano, play their balalaikas and sing the haunting folk songs of their native land. Other pastimes indulged in by them are ping pong, pool, chess and checkers.

They are scrupulously clean, are all clean-shaven and a few of them are married. When asked what points they would like to visit while in Boston, they expressed a desire first to visit the Boston Art Museum.

N. E. Equipped for Success, Says Reed

"New England has all the factors for continued and growing success, and New England's problem is one of improving our present opportunities," Virgil D. Reed, professor of marketing and research in the Boston University graduate division of business administration, told the members of the Arlington Chamber of Commerce in the Middlesex Sportsmen's Club.

More work, more aggressive selling, more scientific marketing, less hazy generalizations and abolition of pessimism were suggested as means of accelerating prosperity by Prof. Reed.

Truck Takes Fire at Gas Station

The quick arrival of the Everett fire department prevented a serious fire at the Colonial filling station, Broadway and the Revere Beach parkway, Everett, when a fire started in a large truck loaded with wool.

The fire started under the cab of the truck while the driver, Charles Sibia, of Linden st., Taunton, was filling the gasoline tank. The tank overflowed and the excess gasoline fired when coming in contact with the hot exhaust pipe.

BEATS CURLEY BY INVITING 300TH GUEST

Mayor of Boston, Eng., Already Asked to Come Here by "Promoter" Ryan

When Mayor Curley announced yesterday his intention to invite the Mayor of Boston, England, to the Tercentenary celebration here next September, he did not know that the English Mayor had already been invited here by a Dorchester citizen.

The plan to invite the mayor of English Boston was included among extensive plans outlined by Mayor Curley yesterday at City Hall for the coming Tercentenary celebration.

William A. Ryan, Linden st., Dorchester, is the man who beat the Mayor in extending the hospitality of Boston, Massachusetts, to Boston, England. Furthermore, an official reply has been received in which the English mayor extends his greetings to the city of Boston and claims a desire to cooperate in the coming celebration.

The Mayor of Boston, England, wishes to offer most cordial greetings and good wishes to the World League of Cities, and to the city of Boston, Mass., in particular, the letter stated.

"And the mayor subscribes his hearty co-operation to any project that will establish closer relations between the cities of England and the United States," it continued.

The letter was received some weeks ago by Ryan, who took it from his files only when he read of Mayor Curley's plans in newspapers today.

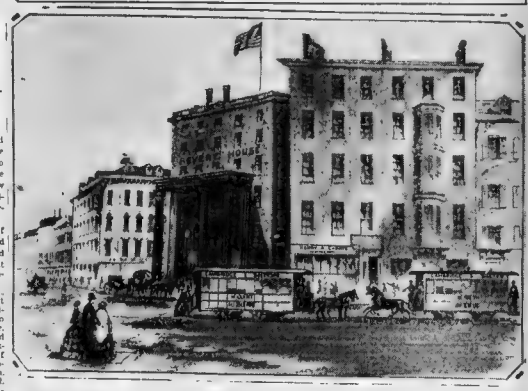
Old Boston in Pictures—No. 157



BOWDOIN SQ. as that breathing space appeared in 1877. The old Revere House, built 30 years before that date and torn down in 1919, was for many years a leading family hotel. The horse cars shown in the picture were those of the Union Street Railway Company which operated cars from Bowdoin sq. to Cambridge and Watertown across the old West Boston bridge. The Union company later amalgamated with the Highland Street Railway to form the Consolidated Co., which afterwards was merged into Boston's general system. In the year this picture was taken it operated 128 cars and carried a total of 7,555,094 passengers. More pictures of Old Boston will be printed in the Boston Evening American.

Leaking Gas Fumes Fell Lynn Woman

Illuminating gas seeping from a cracked main of the Lynn Gas & Electric Co. into her home in Eastern ave., Lynn, today, felled Mrs. Rosella Dunn, 62, while she worked in the kitchen. A neighbor discovered her plight and she was resuscitated by police.

Freshmen Expect to Doff Red Caps

If one is to believe the freshmen at Northeastern, in another two months there will be no little red caps seen around the campus of the Back Bay institution.

For at 12.29 tomorrow the annual spring rush will be on and the yearlings have high hopes of being victorious over their traditional sophomore rivals, thereby earning the privilege of discarding their scorned head-gear the second Monday in March.

Unable to Verify Drunken Pupil Story

Harvey S. Gruver, superintendent of Lynn schools, stated that the school authorities were unable to substantiate the report that a nine-year-old girl pupil appeared at Shepard school recently in an intoxicated condition, and was sent home, by the teacher.

Mr. Gruver said that Arthur F. Marshall, the school principal, and himself made a probe of the affair after the rumor had spread, but asserted they found nothing to indicate the story was true.

FAVOR $375,000 FOR HIGHWAYS

The first step toward allowing the State Department of Public Works to start soon on construction of State highway projects to the amount of $375,000 was taken today when the legislative Committee on State Administration voted to report a bill designed to relieve unemployment.

The measure was recommended by Charles P. Howard, chairman of the State commission on administration and finance, and by Commissioner of Public Works Frank E. Lyman.

Without this special authority, the work could not be started on until late in March, at the earliest.

Chairman Howard said the proposal was in line with the movement started last fall by Gov. Allen to expedite building construction.

The proposed work is in addition to reconstruction projects of $1,800,000 started by the Governor in December.

MASTER BACKS NICHOLS BUY

The award of the contract for water meters for the city of Boston to the Gamon Water Meter Co. which was approved by Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols, will probably stand.

David A. Marshall, who was appointed special master of the Supreme Judicial Court to hear the evidence and report the facts to the court on the petition of 10 taxpayers, has filed his report.

Marshall in his report says, "I further find that the respondent, Malcolm E. Nichols, was justified in depending upon the written reports of the superintendent of supplies, and that he approved the contract in good faith."

Bacon Urges Law on Municipal Claims

Enactment of legislation whereby claims for damages against cities and towns, which, because of their nature, are now first handled by the Legislature, would be handled by the municipalities, was urged at a legislative hearing today by President Gaspar G. Bacon of the Senate.

The measure is one of a group which the President is sponsoring in the interest of establishing wider powers of home rule for municipalities, freeing the General Court of unnecessary work. The claims relate to cases in which the municipalities are morally, if not legally, bound to compensate injured persons.

$15,000 Asked for in Textile Investigation

For completion of its investigation into the textile and industrial unemployment in general, a minimum appropriation of $15,000 was asked for today by the Massachusetts Industrial Commission at a legislative hearing.

E. Leroy Sweetser, commissioner of labor and industries and ex-officio member of the industrial commission, told the committee that the $3000 originally authorized has reverted to the treasury at the end of the year in accordance with law.

He further said that the commission would need until next December for rendering a report that would be of any value.

Asked by the committee if unemployment was gaining in the state, the commissioner answered in the negative with the qualification that the lowest ebb always comes in this state between January and March.

He assured the committee that the report when made will be a fearless one and if the fault in the textile industry is because of too much machinery that fact will be stated. If conditions are due to mismanagement, he added, the legislature also will get the facts.

Dorchester School Concert Tonight

Tonight, at 8:15, the opening program in a series of five will be presented at the Dorchester High School for Girls, Codman sq. The advisory board of the school centre has arranged an attractive course of entertainments for the year which are to be given free to the public.

As the initial number, the audience will hear the Boston Public School Symphony Orchestra of 72 members. Joseph F. Wagner will conduct. The chairman of the evening will be Augustine L. Rafter, formerly assistant superintendent of schools in Boston.

The expense of this annual series is defrayed by proceeds from the numerous activities of the school centers.

Aids Unemployed

The Municipal Employment Service, a new department, began operation today in Somerville with an office at City Hall. Mayor John J. Murphy has appointed Erminio Ercho, of 54 Grant st., Somerville, commissioner of this new department.

WINTER DRIVING GIVES HIM BAD COUGH

MR. JAMES GILBERT

REM delivered prompt relief

Mr. James Gilbert of 79 Hollister St., Rochester, N. Y., has found that driving a truck through the winter is a mighty cold job. Not long ago he caught a cold that way and developed a bad cough that nothing seemed to relieve. So he dropped in at Dr. Cadle's Drug Store, North St. and Sluse Park, and asked him what cough medicine he could recommend. "Try REM," said Mr. De Carlos, and Mr. Gilbert reports it proved good advice. "REM relieved my cough very quickly," he says, "I'm glad Dr. Carlos told me about it." Mr. Gilbert's bottle of REM is just one of the more than ten million that have been sold under a "money back" guarantee. It's significant that not one customer in a thousand ever wanted it back.

REM has "made good" in over 10 million cases. Follow the 10 million!

HARVARD SIX AND B.U. IN GARDEN TILT

AMERICAN SPORTS SECTION

Chet Bowman, National Sprint Star, in K. of C. Dash

DALEY, H. C. FLASH, ALSO ENTERED

CHET BOWMAN of the New-ark A. C. is entered in the 50-yard dash of the William C. Prout Memorial games at the Boston Garden, one week from Saturday night.

The entry of Bowman makes it certain that one of the finest sprint contests of the indoor season will be put on.

Bowman is one of the best of the nation's sprinters. He ran a century in 9 3-5 seconds last year, at Nebraska to win the A. A. U. crown. Over the shorter distances Bowman is just as effective and he will put on a great fight with Jimmy Daley of Holy Cross, who is going better than ever.

B. U. FOUR TO MEET TECH

Another high light of the meet is the Boston University—M. I. T. mile relay. B. U. has a fast one and a team again this year.

It will have no easy time with Tech, however, for Fred Ladd and other fast quarter milers are on the Tech track squad. The teams are evenly matched and being local rivals, should provide another fine team race for the fans.

The prep school relay lines up as a great fight. Bridgton Academy, Worcester Academy, Huntington school and Newark prep have teams in this race. Bridgton has a fine team, with Ollie Boyden of Medford leading off. Huntington and Worcester are strong, and Newark always has one of the fastest prep school groups in the country.

B. C. TO RUN N. H. U.

Boston College races U. of New Hampshire, Bowdoin battles Maine, and there are some great Boston school team races lined up to complete a splendid relay program.

The K. of C. committee has announced that there are no tickets for the meet on sale at the Boston sporting goods houses, at the Boston Garden and at the K. of C. headquarters in the Walker building at 120 Boylston st. With the great demand for tickets already shown, it is certain that this memorial meet will be one of the most successful ever staged by the Boston Knights.

TIME TRIALS FOR B. C. TEAM

Coach Jack Ryder of the Boston College track squad will hold the final time trials before the selection of his one-mile relay team is made tomorrow afternoon on the board saucer at the Heights.

Jack put the boys through their paces on Tuesday afternoon, with the result that Jack O'Brien, who was expected to be an alternate, slipped off a fast enough quartet to edge Joe McCabe off the quartet.

O'Brien, a junior, and McCabe, a senior, are expected to battle it out again tomorrow afternoon. O'Brien was a member of the two-mile relay a year ago, while McCabe was a regular on the one-miler.

McCabe has had more experience than O'Brien, and it should count in his favor. Ryder is really up in the air regarding his choice, for both boys are hard workers, and possess courage enough to make good relay men. He'll have to let the week decide the issue.

The Eagles will leave on Friday night for their first big meet of the year, the Brooklyn College games in New York city on Saturday p. m. Pasquariello, Bob Sullivan and Capt. Mulcahy have been picked to make the trip.

Boston College matches strides with Holy Cross, Georgetown and New York University, three strong teams, in the Brooklyn games.

Title Squash Play Starts Tomorrow

Play in the women's state squash racquets championship will get under way at 10 o'clock tomorrow at the Harvard Club. About 60 women have entered the championship.

An innovation this year will be a consolation tournament for those who are eliminated in the first round. This will give a chance to those who are unfortunate enough to draw one of the high ranking players in the first round to continue to play with some of the other women in their own class.

It is planned to get the first round matches over the first two days of the tournament so that the second round can start on Saturday. Play will then continue through next week with the finals scheduled for Saturday p.m.

MR. BOSTON by JACK CONWAY

"I UNDERSTAND," said Mr. Boston, "that Jim Maloney has been offered $12,000 by the New York Garden to take a few bouts at Paulino Uzcudun on the Sharkey-Scott card at Miami, Fla., on February 27. "Dan Carroll has asked Matchmaker Tom McArdle to raise the ante to 15 grand.

"The South Boston heavyweight was paid $12,500 for battling Jack Gagnon on the Sharkey-Loughran card. When the price was made, Maloney was billed to oppose Armand Emanuel. When the latter was injured training and Gagnon substituted, the New York Commission wouldn't allow the Garden to cut Maloney's purse. Gagnon was paid off with $3000

Jack Conway

"Maloney will pick up at least $7500 when he tackles Emanuel at the Boston Garden a week from Thursday night. Shamus has earned $400,000 during his ring career. His big money shots were with Jack Delaney and Jack Sharkey in New York. He received $50,000 for each of these matches.

"Since he started his most recent comeback a year ago last May, Maloney has been averaging $5000 a bout. Which explains why so many big fellows aspire to become heavyweight contenders.

"RICCARDO BERTAZOLLO, the Italian heavyweight, made $20,000 in two bouts with Maloney. He will add $5000 more to his bankroll when he clashes with Rubbery Jawn Risko in Cleveland on January 20. Gagnon will collect $1500 for his appearance in the semifinal on the same card.

"A GATE of $12,000 will net Joe Monte and Harry Allen $5000 each at the Arena tomorrow night. Monte has been one of the best money makers among the New England boxers. In one year he made six appearances at the New York Garden, collecting from $3000 to $5000 for each start. Joe was the first Bostonian father to take the measure of Jimmy Braddock. He also stood up under the punches of Max Schmeling for eight rounds. For the first five rounds it looked as though Monte was going to win, according to Johnny Buckley, who at that time managed the Brockton youth.

"Monte's showing against Schmeling is probably what has convinced Johnny Buckley that the German Dempsey will be beaten by Sharkey when they mingle in a Milk Fund show in June.

"IT is whispered around town that Col. McKirdy was obliged to dig deep into his bank roll to meet the demands of Patsy O'Flaherty and Ug Gibson, who will turn pro at his show tomorrow night. These former amateur heroes will engage in a six-round bout. Patsy and Ug were a riot at the Golden Glove tournament in the first round. Ug slapped Patsy down, but the South Boston warrior got up and came on to win.

"In the second round, when Gibson was hanging on, O'Flaherty raised his right knee, rested it on his opponent's stomach and booted him back so that he could get a sock at him. This pair will furnish plenty of fireworks.

"HENRY LAMAR, who has been tuning up at Toland's, told me he would like to tackle the winner of the Monte-Allen skirmish. Lamar has shown slashing form in his workouts and will convince a lot of ambitious heavyweights that they don't belong.

"WITH all the club owners opposed to their ball players battling in the ring, it looks as though the diamond heroes will have to go back to punching umpires.

"It was Ace Ross who refused to allow Eddie Shore of the Bruins to tackle Arthur (The Great) Shires. Ace probably figures Shore gets banged around enough by opposing hockey players!"

'RASPBERRY' IS MUSIC TO SHIRES

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15 (AP)—Arthur "The Great" Shires, ball player, fighter and speechmaker, gets fat on "the raspberry" handed him by fight fans.

At a dinner of the Philadelphia Sport Writers' Association here tonight he said:

"I know that in most of my fights the majority of the people paid their money to see me licked. I don't mind that. When I walked down the aisle to the ring in Boston to fight Spohrer the other night the raspberry they handed me was music to my ears.

"I get fat on that sort of thing. In Chicago when I lost to Trafton I was given a great hooting, but the next day I walked down to the Illinois Boxing Commission and they handed me $3000.

"The ring was only the means to an end for me. I needed money, saw a way to make and went after it. I've been in trouble with the boxing commissions of several states.

"But I want to say this, in baseball I give everything I have, and when I'm in the ring I'm in there trying. I'll get in the ring with anybody who is as green about it as myself."

EAGLES TO GET SALEM STAR

Boston College will have another Antoszewski of the Salem Antoszewskis in their ranks next fall.

For three years Chessy Antoszewski, who's now known as Anton, has been a football star at Boston College and he announced that his kid brother, Casimir, will enroll at the Heights next September.

Casimir played an end position on the Salem high football eleven of the past season, which was classed with the best high school teams in the country. Salem lost out on its claim for higher honors when it fell before Miami high in the last minute of the game staged at the Florida resort on Christmas Day.

CHESSY STARRED AT SALEM

Chessy was an all-scholastic football star at Salem high. He broke into the Boston College first eleven last fall and ran wild from a halfback position to win high scoring honors on Joe McKenney's aggregation.

Both boys are also first class basketball players, but Boston College hasn't a basketball team. Chessy plays with the Polish Students' quintet during the winter months in the Salem League.

If Casimir Antos is anything like his brother, Joe McKenney will welcome him with open arms. Chessy was one of the hardest working and most sincere members of the Eagle squad. He was always in top condition, seemed immune to injury, and played heads-up football at all times. His popularity was manifest when he was a close second to Johnny Dixon for the football captaincy of 1930. Dixie had been on the varsity for two seasons, while Antos had been a regular for only one.

MADE B. C. HISTORY

There have been some interesting brother acts staged at the Heights which the Antoszewskis will try to better. Jack and Bill Cronin, and John and Bernie Kilroy established their family names in B. C. grid history.

But the Heights now are the Creedons of Brockton, Paddy and Joe. Paddy captained the football team of '29. Joe was supposed to be a guard on Paddy's team, but wasn't able to play football due to a serious automobile accident during the summer.

The Antos boys of the Witch City have real records to shoot at.

Hillman 20 Years Big Green Coach

Hanover, N. H., Jan. 15—Harry Hillman, Dartmouth track coach, is receiving congratulations upon the completion of his 20th year as leader of the Green track teams.

Thevenow Improves From Nose Operation

St. Louis, Jan. 15 (AP)—Tommy Thevenow, Philadelphia National League shortstop and former St. Louis Cardinal, is convalescing in a hospital here from an operation on his nose. The surgical treatment was made necessary by an automobile accident which occurred in Florida last March and which kept Thevenow out of the Phillies' lineup for practically the entire season.

SOCIETY'S DIVING QUEEN IN ACTION

Ann Rainey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy A. Rainey, is known as the ace of divers among the society colony at Palm Beach, Fla., where she is spending the winter months. Miss Rainey is shown here as she executed a swan dive. Although one of the best divers among those of the country, Miss Rainey has never appeared in competition other than her own set. It has long been an established fact that were she to compete for prizes she would win many honors taken by others. (Associated Press Photo)

8 FITCHBURG BOXERS ENTER

With more than 60 entries already received for the state amateur boxing championships, which will be held at the Boston Arena next Monday night under the direction of the New England A. A. U., indications point to at least 75 entries before the list is closed tonight.

The tournament, no doubt, will develop into one of the most interesting of the season. Unlike other simon pure tournaments held in this city, the entrants for the state title bouts are, for the most part, boxers who have never appeared in the Hub.

Eight entries were received from Fitchburg, which has developed many promising youngsters this season. Haverhill, Taunton and New Bedford boxers also have entered and will make their first start in this city in these championships.

Tom Kansly of the B. A. A., who has personal charge of the tournament, is enthusiastic over the prospect of one of the finest amateur tournaments ever held here and he expects to uncover a number of new performers in the ring that will take the measure of the recognized topnotchers.

Bouts will be held in eight championship classes for this tournament with all the popular favorites entered.

Indications point to one of the biggest crowds of the season for this event and tickets may be obtained at the B. A. A., Exeter st., Boston Arena, as well as the downtown ticket office at room 315, 333 Washington st.

Conger and Purje Race Again Tonight

New York, Jan. 15 (AP)—Ray Conger, who makes a specialty of beating runners from other lands, tonight will have a chance to add Elmo Purje of Finland to his list of victims.

Conger and Purje are to meet in a 1500-meter run at the Pastime A. C. Conger finished third in his first start this season ten days ago. He ran the half-mile on that occasion and was undertrained. The Illinois A. C. flash beat Purje at a mile in the Knights of Columbus meet here last year.

Buck Weaver Signs to Battle Warren

New York, Jan. 15 (INS)—Buck Weaver, Kansas City heavyweight, was signed today to box Ad Warren, North Carolina collegian, in one of the 10-round bouts on the Prime Camera-Big Boy Peterson [illegible] at the Garden tonight.

3 Hub School Teams Meet on Track Today

DORCHESTER, Latin and Trade schools scrap this afternoon on the East Armory track. Mayor Curley's son, Paul, races in the senior 300 in the meet. Paul Curley is one of the best at the distance in Latin school now.

Titus, in the 600, is a good bet for Latin in the senior racing. Titus and Curley have a chance to clinch two first places for the Latin team.

One of the finest senior hurdlers in the Greater Boston schools goes into action for Dorchester, Ralph Dondero. He is not tall, but his perfect form gives him an edge on most of the school timber toppers.

Bernie Herschoff, in the senior dash, is likely to give Dorchester another first place. This youngster starts very fast, picks up speed well, and has a lift through the tape.

Catholic high school fives play their second league games this afternoon. The fast Cathedral high team goes to Our Lady high at Newton, St. Clement's meets Mission high at Roxbury, and Bernie Kilroy's St. Mary's five goes to Revere to play Immaculate Conception high.

Bud McManus, George Buckley and Jackie O'Neill of Arlington high have been working out on the board track at Dilboy field, Somerville. Arlington has no track team during the winter months, but these boys are drilling under Doc McCarty, with the outdoor season in view.

Phil Gallagher of Milton, star tackle of the Lawrence Academy football team, is on the hockey squad now. Gallagher, almost six feet tall and weighing 194 pounds, is a valuable defense man, as he can absorb a flock of punishment, as well as attack with the puck. He is headed for Brown, and may be a star at the Providence institution in a year or two.

Another local boy, Walter Keady, stars on the Lawrence Academy basketball team. Keady is the second baseman of the Lawrence nine and should be in perfect trim when baseball work starts.

Henry Batchelder is drilling his Malden high track squad hard for the difficult meet, on Friday, with Lynn Classical. The Lynn school has a very strong team, and Malden must fight hard to win. Malden has an advantage in the hurdles, for Lynn Classical has no one of any ability in this event.

Tom McNamara has a fast first string five playing at St. John's Prep. Jerry Pagliuccia, Norman Foote and Jimmy Doherty are three Greater Boston boys on the prep school quintet.

Chelsea Y. M. H. A. Issues Challenge

The Chelsea Y. M. H. A., champions of the District 2, Y. M. H. A. Bowling League of Greater Boston for two years, are again seeking high honors on the alleys.

Chelsea is claiming the State championship of the Young Men's Hebrew Associations and would like to meet the association's members who dispute their claim.

The quintet rolling for the Chelsea team are George Zemble, captain; Barney Dennenberg, Al Weinberg, Dave Marstzky, B. Bernstein and Charley Weiner. For matches or games in the Greater Boston area, Chelsea will be represented by the same team.

TUFTS MATMEN MEET HARVARD

The Harvard varsity and freshman wrestling teams will meet the Tufts varsity and freshman wrestling teams respectively at Hemenway Gymnasium tonight.

The freshmen will start at 7 o'clock and the varsity will start immediately after the freshmen finish which will be at about 8:30.

Murphy Wins in 45 Innings

Jack Murphy of Middleboro won his second game in the Class B balkline tournament at the State Teeter Club, where he defeated Jim Frey of Easthampton 150 to 124 in 45 innings.

GROVE HEADS PITCHERS' LIST

Chicago, Jan. 15—Bob Grove, pitching ace of the champion Philadelphia Athletics, was generally conceded to be the leader of American moundsmen, in 1929, although Zachary, veteran Yankee southpaw, was awarded the mathematical championship.

Official averages revealed that Zachary, who in his tenth year of service in the American League has been with Washington, St. Louis and New York, not only won 12 games without a defeat, but topped all pitchers in the circuit with a low earned-run average of 2.47 for each nine-inning game.

However, he toiled only 120 innings, whereas Grove pitched 275 innings, distributed over 42 games, winning 20 and losing six and compiling an earned-run average of 2.82.

The Philadelphia star was strikeout king of the circuit, too, for the second successive year, whiffing 170 batsmen. In 1928 he struck out 183 batters and was second only to Herb Pennock of the Yankees with 24 victories and eight defeats.

Edwin Rommel, a teammate of Grove, who was employed mostly as a relief man, was the only other pitcher in the league to hold his opponents to less than three earned runs a game. He worked in 32 games, pitched 114 innings and won 12 while losing two.

Hartwell-Dekuh Bout Is Off

New York, Jan. 15 (AP)—The New York Coliseum has called off the boxing show it planned for tonight. Big Bill Hartwell of Kansas City was to have met Arthur Dekuh of Italy in the feature bout.

Labarba's Debut as "Feather" Successful

Los Angeles, Jan. 14 (AP)—Fidel Labarba of Los Angeles, formerly flyweight champion, returned to the ring tonight as a featherweight and decisively outpointed Ignacio Fernandez, Filipino, in a 10-round match here. Labarba weighed 124 pounds, one pound less than Fernandez.

Home of Stars

North Carolina claims more ball players have gone from State to banks than from any other state, and are followed closely by Kansas and Indiana.

HARVARD SIX MEETS B. U. AT GARDEN

Garden Lineup

HARVARD		BOSTON UNIV.
Putnam, Cross	lw	rw, Whitmore
Garrison, Wood	c	c, Currier
Stubbs, Laskin	rw	lw, Lombard
Harding, Crosby	rd	rd, Bergholtz
Cunningham	ld	ld, Elliott
Ellis	g	g, Grodberg

Referee—Ag Smith and Frank Synnott.

A TIRED Harvard team will meet B. U. at the Garden tonight in a return ice battle between the two colleges.

The Crimson six is strongly favored to drop the Terriers as it did in the opening game, but Coach Vaughn of B. U. is not so sure. The Terrier six has undergone a complete overhauling and may be stronger than Harvard expects tonight.

Coach Joe Stubbs of Harvard is ready to put his strongest team on the ice tonight.

He will have Johnny Garrison at center, Putnam and Stubbs on the wings, Harding and Cunningham at defense and Hardy Ellis in the goal.

This team, to say nothing of the wealth of spares from which Stubbs may draw, is figured to cause the Terriers a lot of trouble tonight.

The Back Bay club has had considerable shifting around. Bergholtz started the season on the defence, then moved to the attack line for the Terriers. He was shifted back to his old spot today.

Junie Stubbs and Frank Hardy will have a large following tonight. Stubbs is the talk of the college for his hard shooting dem onstrations in recent tilts.

It was Junie's whistling drive last Leaving that gave the Crimson the edge over the University Club six. Tonight Stubbs will give Goldberg a busy night in the B. U. cage.

MALONEY IS TO TRY FOR KAYO

Jimmy Maloney, South Boston heavyweight, who hasn't been seen in a Hub ring since his conquest of K. O. Christner, plans a knockout victory when he clashes with Armand Emanuel, Pacific coast star, at the Boston Garden, Friday night, Jan. 24, for it has been pointed out to him that Emanuel's dazzling left hand figures to bring him through victorious, if he lasts the entire 10 rounds.

It is doubtful if there is a clever heavyweight in the ring today than the Far Coast boy. He is an exact duplicate of Tommy Loughran in the ring, and Loughran is one ring star that Maloney always has returned to meet. Yet, in Emanuel, he will be pitted against a man whose left hand is just as dangerous.

Although Emanuel is only 22 years old, he looms up like one of the best in the present ring era. He is one of the finishest heavyweights in the ring today and his speed and cleverness give him the edge on most of the present day topnotchers.

That Maloney fears this meeting with his California adversary is demonstrated by the seriousness of his training methods. The South Boston man is going through two workouts a day at his Wamesit camp. Marty Gallagher, Washington heavyweight rejoined his camp and will work out with him from now until the day of the contest. Jack Dorval and Tom Kirby are other heavyweights, who are sparring with Maloney.

Allen Says He Will Stop Monte at Arena A. C. Show

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

SHUCCO AND JASSE TO BATTLE

HARRY ALLEN, sensational Brockton heavyweight, declares he will knock out Joe Monte, his rival townsman, when they clash in the feature 10-round bout at a great action show at the Boston Arena tomorrow night under the direction of the Arena A. C.

"I knocked Monte down in our last bout and had him on the verge of a kayo," said Allen. "If I tip Joe over Thursday night, he will stay down. I believe I shall win by a knockout inside of five rounds. I intend to punch it out with Monte from the gong, and believe my youth and superior hitting power will win."

Monte went through a brisk workout at Toland's Gym and believes he will be able to erase the unsatisfactory decision he recently secured over Allen in one of the greatest punching duels ever witnessed in this city.

There is intense interest in the Arena Club's show. Nine bouts have been carded by Col. Bob McKirdy, and each of them is expected to furnish action. In addition, the Arena Club will stage its show at popular prices of $1, $1.50, and $2.

THE eight-round semifinal will bring together Tony Shucco of the North End and Bob Jasse of Revere. Shucco is one of the most promising looking of the younger set among the pro boxers. Johnny Indrisano is the only boxer who has beaten Tony in the pro ranks. The East Boston veteran barely nosed out the decision.

Jasse has been winning steadily in out-of-town rings and feels he will upset Shucco. The winner of this bout has been promised a match with Al Melle for the New England middleweight title.

The six-round bout between Liz Gibson of Medford and Patsy Flaherty of South Boston has aroused almost as much interest as the main bout. Gibson and Flaherty were sensations in the amateurs. In the Golden Glove finals, Flaherty came up off the floor to lick Gibson.

At the finish, the crowd demanded an extra round, but the judges ruled in favor of Flaherty. With the distance for tomorrow night's bout six rounds, the fans should witness plenty of action.

IN the other six rounders, Jimmy McGonnigal of Weymouth will tackle Izzy Hyams of England, while Laddie Lee of Somerville will oppose Mickey Sears of East Boston.

In the four rounders, Leslie Baker, sparkling Watertown boxer, will meet Joe O'Donnell of Roxbury. Joe Connolly of Dorchester will oppose Tony Sarno of the North End. Pat Perkins of South Boston will barrage at Alex Russo of Watertown.

B. U. PLAYS N. H. FIVE TONIGHT

Boston University's varsity basketball quintet will meet New Hampshire on the latter's court at Durham tonight in the first game of the week for the hard working Terriers. Coach Win Karlson has high hopes of taking New Hampshire into camp and then polishing off Middlebury at the B. U. gym Friday night.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

"Golf's Greatest Teacher"

Years ago I played hundreds of rounds of golf with the old gutta percha ball. Chick Evans played with it at first.

Not infrequently I have encountered golfers of earlier days — as perhaps you have — who would speak enthusiastically of the old "gutty" ball, and of how they would like to play it around a few of our modern courses. While the average golfer of today doesn't know a thing about gutta percha ball, and probably dismisses any casual mention of it with the suspicion that science is slipping into his golf dotage, the fact is that the new larger-lighter golf ball is going to put you back just about as near to the gutta percha era as modern-day golf ball makers can put you. But the new ball is going to be something a good deal like a very lively gutta percha model of 1900. The reason the "gutty" ball played so well was because it behaved itself so well on second shots and around the green—and for the same reason you will like the new ball. Like the gutta percha, it won't drive quite so far, but it will drive far enough. And when you drop it on a green it will stay there. Your second shots will constitute the skillful and delightful part of your play.

Scott Has "Secret" Punch

London, Jan. 15 (AP)—Carrying away from England his "secret punch," and the admonitions of numerous Cockney fight fans not to keep it too secret, Phil Scott set out from London town today to fight Jack Sharkey at Miami.

Grinning cheerfully, Scott surveyed the rows of mascots presented to him by crowds of admirers at Waterloo station. Incidentally, Waterloo didn't carry any forebodings to Scott, as he said the Miami Waterloo wouldn't be his.

One sparring partner, one manager and the "secret punch" composed the Scott expedition sailing on the Homeric from Southampton, hoping to be back in England in springtime with a claim on the first world's heavyweight crown to call those shores home since the days of the knuckle fighters.

Scott didn't demonstrate his "secret punch" before entraining, but insisted that he had it with him.

"I know the punch that's going to beat Sharkey. I've got it," he said as he kissed his young wife goodby and started for the train. "I'll go for Sharkey from the start and see if I can't knock him out.

"He's the sort of man I like to fight. He rushes in. That sort are good for a man who can use his left."

TILDEN-HUNTER QUIT CUP TEAM

New York, Jan. 15 (AP)—Although they have decided to quit the Davis Cup arena forever, neither Bill Tilden nor his close friend and playing companion, Frank Hunter, is yet ready to abandon "big-time" tennis in favor of younger stars.

Hunter revealed yesterday that both he and Big Bill will compete in all the big American outdoor tournaments this summer and fall, including the national championships.

Tilden, now in Europe where he won the Monte Carlo singles and doubles titles last week, is virtually certain to play in the French hard court championships at Auteuil and the British championships at Wimbledon.

Hunter has not yet made up his mind whether he will compete at Wimbledon. He is in training for the season and will play in the national indoor championships next month, under present plans.

He was beaten in the final round of this event last year by the bounding Basque, Jean Borotra. The Frenchman may not come over in defend his crown. If he doesn't Hunter will be a stand out choice to win the title.

Nothing will persuade Tilden or Hunter to play any Davis Cup tennis. "We've had enough" said Hunter, "and will withdraw to permit the development of a team of younger players."

Tobin Takes Over Black Hawks Reins

Chicago, Jan. 15 (AP)—William J. Tobin, business manager of the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, will succeed Thomas J. Shaughnessy as pilot of the team when it starts on its long road journey January 25.

Tobin will direct the affairs of the club, but Dick Irwin will have charge during games, as well as continuing as coach. Tobin, like Shaughnessy, who resigned Monday night, has played only amateur hockey. Tobin served as temporary manager last season when Herbert Gardiner was recalled by Les Canadiens.

Miami Track Opens for 45-Day Meet

Miami, Fla., Jan. 15 (AP)—Anticipating the most prosperous meeting in its history, the Miami Jockey Club throws open Hialeah Park tomorrow for 45 days of thoroughbred racing.

Anticipating an overflow patronage for the clubhouse, a score of boxes have been added to that section and most of these already have been engaged.

As the feature race of the opening day, the Miami Inaugural Handicap for three-year-olds and up, at six furlongs and with a purse of $2000 added, will be offered.

Columbia Court Five Meets Tigers Tonight

New York, Jan. 15 (AP)—Columbia's court five makes its season's debut in the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League tonight against the Princeton Tigers here.

Princeton has been beaten only twice this year, losing to Albright in its first game and to City College of New York, which boasts one of the best fives in the East.

Dr. Bisch's Daily Health Hint

It is foolish to have a prejudice against artificial teeth. One cannot expect to digest one's food properly if any of the biting surface is missing. Many cases of indigestion require the services of the dentist rather than of the physician. Care of the teeth is very important.

Lovely Hair Envied by All, Says Beauty Expert

By MARIA JERITZA

"WHAT do you use to touch up your hair?" I heard one woman ask another, whom she knew well enough to make a personal question permissible. There was admiration and a little envy in her glance at the red spun gold of her friend's glorious crown.

Maria Jeritza

"Soap and water once a week," was the prompt reply. And in truth, when hair is healthy, a skilful shampoo every week with melted soap and plenty of warm water, followed by a thorough rinsing with softened luke-warm water, should be sufficient to keep it at its shiniest best.

Hair is a symbol of health and strength. When Samson lost his hair he was done for, so far as muscular achievement was concerned. And most of us know from experience that whenever the health becomes run down and vitality is at a low ebb, the hair falls out, grows thin, loses the bright sheen that is its chief beauty. Your hair depends on your steady nerves, regular hours of sleep and exercise, and on nourishing, wholesome diet.

The normal life of a hair is seven years, then it falls out and the scalp, if it is healthy, produces a new hair in its place. But if scalp and hair roots are undernourished, the hair may fall out before its allotted span of years and a new hair in its place may not be forthcoming.

Here is an excellent method of shampooing your hair, and by the way, you need not be afraid of shampooing it too often. Once a week is about right for hair inclined to be oily, for oily hair attracts dust.

Melt a bar of castile or other pure soap by shaving it and letting it dissolve in rapidly-boiling water. While this soap jelly cools, beat two eggs slightly, then massage them into your scalp and let them remain there to harden.

After fifteen minutes or more, wet your hair with warm water, apply half a cup of the soap jelly and rub thoroughly into your hair and scalp until it fluffs up well, then add more of the soap solution, and finally a third pouring. After working in the suds with your finger-tips, passing them lightly through strands of hair and rubbing the scalp well, rinse out the soapsuds with a bath-spray and repeat the process of soaping and rinsing.

Into the last rinse, squeeze the juice of a lemon. Or if you prefer, add two tablespoonfuls of ordinary table vinegar to the second rinse, then spray this rinse from the hair in order to banish the smell of the vinegar. If you rub your hair dry in sun-light after the shampoo I have suggested, then arrange it becomingly, you should have a coiffure of which any woman might be proud.

It was because of the sun room in the little green bungalow in Stallings lane that she loved it. They were enchanted with their new home, and started housekeeping in gay spirits.

Costless Fun for the Children

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

OFTEN we go to great lengths to procure new and intricate toys for children when, under our very noses, or at our elbows, lies a kingdom of good times which costs not a cent.

There are very few children who do not play dramatizing in their play, and one no sooner has solved the "rainy day play periods with a large drygoods box into which assort all sorts of clothing, the more grotesque the more popular with the children.

Constance Cameron

There was Daddy's old full-dress suit, which really wasn't good enough to give to anyone. Old shawls, long trailing skirts, evening dresses of a long-forgotten year, a velvet cape and hats—hats of all descriptions, along with odds and ends of feathers, ribbons and old buckles.

And what afternoons of fun came out of that drygoods box! Three or four youngsters played many, many times, dressing up, and re-dressing, clumping about in old boots and queer hats. The velvet cape suggested Dick Deadeye, and there were three stranded maidens on an island, attacked by two ferocious looking pirates who took buckles and gold pins away as loot.

There were impromptu plays with the beautiful heroine dressed in one of mother's trailing old skirts, and a flat-crowned sailor with much feather! There was the villain with a moustache made of a stringy black feather, bedecked in the dress suit and a hat just a bit too large for him. But it was serious business, and a good time, and one of those playtimes that we seem to tuck away in our memories somewhere and keep.

Then there was a play project they called "Princess," which consisted of a lovely princess in her finery, her ladies in waiting and courtiers, and a throne—this was where the drygoods box came in handy.

The hats were rimmed and retrimmed many times. The tiny girls played millinery store. Some ran it, some trimmed hats and of course some were customers, and extremely fussy ones at that.

It is easy to provide this type of good time for your children. An attic or a child's own room makes the best setting, for it does upset things for the time being. But a rule that each garment must be put back in place at the expiration of the play period works out satisfactorily.

A word to your friends for castoff clothing, preferably finery that has passed its day in waiting will augment your child a play-clothes chest. If you have a professional costumer in your town you can buy very cheaply the costumes he has stored and will sell when they are no longer presentable for stage or costume ball use. Send these to be thoroughly cleaned, turn them over to your group of youngsters and watch the heavenly times which will grow out of your small investment.

Children do not need intricate mechanical toys nearly so much as they need play things which will fire their imaginations. And I think nothing can quite do the trick as well as playing "dress up."

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

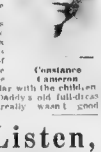
WILL THEY GET 'EM ON ME?

OVER MY DEAD BODY!

Long suits petticoats" [illegible] 'a heart' Maybe they're cute for those little trick dames that a guy collects in idle moments—

But think about girls like ME!

Here am I, 200 pounds of blonde Broadway at the hoof, with a stride like the take-off of a Fokker can you not see ME with my shape corralled in arms fifty yards of fluffings and my inhibitions and complexes 'n' other vital organs crammed into a 28 inch waist?



Elsie Robinson

Yes, you can NOT and when I move, you're not going to.

The "feminine modes" You cant tell me anything about it I was that way once. To be exact, I was that way about 40 years. It has only been, relatively speaking, a couple of minutes since I got the chance to use my legs. And, believe me, the fashion whipper-snapper who tries to sign ME up for a Back-To-Dry-Goods Movement

[illegible] my legs and what is more, I need them. They are not a mere decorative fringe to my anatomy, designed for the delight of Concern and they have got plenty of grief heaving me over the landscape without having to parade with a lot of lingerie.

Of course, I believe in modesty, too. Too much is always too many. Especially with some knees that I have seen. A couple of yards of legs in all a nice girl should want to show.

All of which is a prelude to the remarks of one of our outstanding American heroes who has risen to the defense of his girls. I refer to Ray Long, broadcasting his "FARE WELL TO LEGS" in the January issue of THE COSMOPOLITAN.

I am all confused," says he. "I thought Cosmopolitan was doing a good deed when we published recently an article by Dr. Draper advocating that men dress as sensibly as women. Dr. Draper said we were a lot of sheep. We dressed uncomfortably because it was the fashion to dress that way, women had much more courage in dress and because of that courage they were being comfortable and getting to be an ingenious and healthy that before long men must take a back seat.

"Lo and behold just about that time the Paris dressmakers decreed that women should not be comfortable any longer.

"They must return to long skirts long gowns, long hair, big hats! cursed.

"They'll never do it," I said

"I was wrong. They ARE doing it.

"I am told that the women who haven't good-looking legs and the women who had to diet to maintain the slender frocks they've been wearing are enthusiastically behind the new fashions, and that many far outnumber their sisters to whom Nature gave shapely legs and slim lines. I can't believe that! So far as I have been able to observe—and I have looked carefully

There are more pretty legs in the world than the other kind!"

The idea of Helen Wills or Amelia Earhart Glenna Collett or Maureen Orcutt with hair done pompadour and built up with rats and rolls, swooping down the street, in hats like mother used to wear—frankly, it appalls me

But, I suppose all that is just around the corner and we might as well accept it gracefully. There is one consolation. It was great while it lasted

And if THAT doesn't plug the Petticoat Peril then the candy beans are on me.

The Real Truth

ABOUT DANCING

By ELINOR GLYN

GIRLS, I have just succeeded in achieving one of my desires!

You will laugh when I tell what it is, to have a big, empty room where I can dance whenever I want to! For dancing is the cure all! It keeps off the stiffness which is associated with old age. It makes the blood circulate, and it makes you feel young and light!

But the truth is, not everyone can have a room at hand ready to take exercise in and so elderly people who would benefit most by it, may feel a little diffident in going out to a public class, fearing they should be laughed at.

Before my ballroom was built, I used to dance around and round by dining room table. I never let a day go by without dancing through at least three times on the gramophone—all by myself—as a daily exercise.

I do recommend it strongly to any woman who is becoming inert or sedentary in her habits And, girls, do not stop dancing because you may have taken to bridge rather heavily of late, and have grown bored with your dancing partners

Bridge will not keep you young and active as dancing will do. Practice all the steps which seems the hardest for you

Many men have often confided to me that out of six girls they may dance with in an evening, only perhaps two are really light as feathers, and do not drag their arms or in some way pull against them.

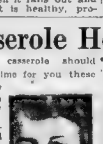
Casserole Helps Budget

THIS trusty casserole should work overtime for you these days when we are all trying to market wisely and well.

This convenient utensil makes it possible to use the cheaper cuts acceptably, and don't forget to balance your meals either with a due amount of fruit and vegetables. How do you like the following for a balanced meal?



Martha Lee

MENU

Casserole of Flank Steak
Potato Cones Fried Bananas
Cabbage and Beet Salad
Queen Pudding

FRIED BANANAS

Pare and cut bananas in halves lengthwise and again in halves crosswise. Roll in flour, then in egg and again in flour. Put 4 tbsps. shortening or oil in frying pan and sauté bananas until a golden color

POTATO CONES

6 tbsps. onion
2 tbsps. parsley
2 tbsps. boiling water
1 tsp. salt
3 cups mashed potatoes
3 tbsps. butter
2 tbsps. milk
¼ tsp. pepper

Grate onions and mince parsley; add boiling water and cook until water is absorbed. Add to mashed potatoes with remaining ingredients and whip until creamy. Form into cones and roll in crumbs, then in egg and again in crumbs. Place on cookie sheet and brown in hot oven (400 deg.) 15 to 20 minutes.

CASSEROLE OF FLANK STEAK

Score and roll in fat, then in flour, and sear quickly in hot frying pan in which 3 tbsps. fat or drippings have been melted. Add 1 slice onion, 1 tsp. salt and a tiny piece of sage; cover with 3 cups cold water and simmer gently 2 hours over midget flame; or place in moderate oven (300 deg.) 2½ hours.

CABBAGE AND BEET SALAD

2 cups finely shredded cabbage
1 cup finely diced spiced beets
½ cup finely chopped dill pickle

Toss all ingredients together lightly and serve with salad dressing.

QUEEN PUDDING

2 eggs
½ cup sugar
2 cups bread or cake crumbs
½ tsp. mace or grated rind of 1 lemon
1 tsp. baking powder
2 tbsps. butter
2 cups milk
1 glass jelly

Separate eggs; slightly beat yolks with sugar. Stir in crumbs with flavoring, baking powder, butter and milk; mix well. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg.) 45 minutes. Remove from oven and cover top with jelly. Beat egg whites until frothy, add 4 tsp baking powder and beat until stiff, then fold in 4 tbsps sugar. Spread over jelly and put in oven to brown.

Faithfully yours,
MARTHA LEE

Lovejoy -:- Serial by Beatrice Burton

she saw that Norrie was bending over her with a small white bundle in her arms.

She laid it down on the bed beside her, and Lovejoy turned her head to look at it. Dark against the white pillow was a tiny face, and tucked against it were two bits o, baby hands

She smiled at them as they began to move gently and feebly in the air

"Thomas Nicholson, Junior," came Aunt Em's brisk voice from the doorway. "What d'you think of him, anyway?"

From the pride of pride and triumph in her voice you would have thought that the baby belonged to Aunt Em, herself

"As fine a child as I ever saw," answered another voice from the darkness. A deep, man's voice—Dr. Arnett's.

Lovejoy wished that they would all go away . . . all but Tom. She wanted to be alone with him and the baby, so that they could tell each other how happy they were.

On Sunday morning while Norrie was giving Lovejoy her breakfast the front door bell rang

"Here's the doctor." Norrie exclaimed, flushing, and hurried out of the room.

She always flushed when the doctor came in and spoke to her She flushed when Tom or any other man spoke to her

There was nothing coy about Norrie, however She was genuinely and painfully shy

But it was not Dr Arnott who had rang the door bell

Lying against her pillows with her cup of hot weak tea in her hand, Lovejoy heard a light gay girlish voice talking to Norrie in the front of the house

"Thank you so much I'll run them to Mrs Nicholson."

"I'd love to see the baby if I could. I perfectly adore little babies," Mrs Alderson said next "But I suppose it's too little to be much company yet. I'll come in again some time soon. . ."

"Norrie!" Lovejoy called out "Ask Mrs Alderson to come in now, won't you? . . . The baby's not asleep."

She was eager to see the owner of that lovely young voice. If she were just half as sweet as her voice she would be terribly attractive Lovejoy told herself. And wouldn't it be wonderful to have some neighbors

"Come in, Mrs Alderson," she called, and a second later the prettiest girl that Lovejoy had ever laid eyes on came into the room.

She was all white and gold. Burnished gold hair tucked up under a white felt hat. White skin with just a bit of color in it A wide, red mouth and a pair of dancing eyes that were so light a brown that they seemed almost golden

She wore a white flannel dress and her arms were full of yellow baby chrysanthemums

She dumped them down upon the bed and held out her hand to Lovejoy

"I live just behind you on Mandalay drive," she said. "I saw you and your husband in your yard this afternoon, and I thought you were mighty attractive. . . . Nurse, don't you think you ought to put those flowers into a vase?"

She picked up the flowers once more and put them into Norrie's arms

"I just adore babies" she went on. "I haven't any of my own, although I've been married for six years. . . . Well, I suppose I'll get round to it one of these days, if my husband would love one. I know

Norrie chattered on and on until Norrie came back with the vase of flowers in her hands and set it on the table

Then she went into the sunroom and took a look at the baby

"Your child is too sweet for words," she called into Lovejoy, on her way out of the house "Good-by . . . I'll see you soon

"I hope she does," Lovejoy told Norrie when she was gone. "I liked her, didn't you?"

Norrie shook her mouse-colored head

"No, I didn't," she said shortly And I didn't believe her when she said she adored babies. She had a big police dog that she took up to the tree before she came in Women who adore babies don't spend their time taking police dogs out to see the sights. . . . I think she's a four-flusher and a fake."

Right from the beginning she had no use for Mrs. Alderson

Dr. Bisch on Mental Hygiene

By LOUIS E. BISCH, M. D., PH.D.
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

MENTAL hygiene is rather a new term. It means the practice of hygiene for the mind—in short, the prevention of mental and nervous disorders.

Physicians have always told their patients how to take care of their bodies first, so that disease may be warded off and secondly, so that a disease may be recognized and treated early in its development and the damage be reduced to a minimum.

Dr. L. E. Bisch

Nowadays physicians also are recommending that people watch their minds—how it functions, how to keep efficient, how to remain serene in spite of adversity

Mental hygiene does not mean merely the prevention of insanity It means far more than this.

Mental hygiene means taking care of your thinking mechanism in the best possible way in order to achieve the best possible results from every possible viewpoint.

Months may pass before people discover that their thoughts and actions are in any way unusual.

People go on day in and day out without realizing that they are not working up to former standards of efficiency.

To be sure there are also persons who watch themselves continually and are ever on the alert for abnormalities of thinking and behavior

Being excessively introspective is just as bad as not being introspective enough Overwatchfulness would result in psychoneurosis and results were it scientific and based upon psychological premises

The difficulty is that the more laymen think about themselves, the more bewildering, as a rule, they become, for the sake of confusion come fear and mental distress'

People are apt to wait altogether too long before they seek advice and help. Were early manifestations of mental disharmony duly treated at the time more actual cures could be effected. Hopeless cases would soon become a rarity The very earliest suggestive signs should receive attention even when they are noticeable in childhood.

It is never too late to practice the right kind of self-analysis It is never too early to begin a study of the inner self

Although nature's workings are not always perfect, they nevertheless have a self-protective quality that is marvelous

Nature tries to heal itself.

If an infection enters the body the blood immediately tries to fight the diseases and the whole organism combats it with every means available. When disturbing thoughts enter the mind it too, tries to fight to soothe the hurt

The brain and nervous system are very touch, perhaps the most sensitive kind of tissue there is. What the human mind can stand in the way of worry, despair, thwarted desires, etc, is almost incredible

Nevertheless, there is a breaking point

And when that breaking point is reached the toughest organ in the body is also the toughest in cure

Recovery from nervous and mental diseases, by far and large, takes longer than the recovery from other ordinary organic ailments

Therefore be on the alert and watch your mind and nevve reactions Practice mental hygiene and catch trouble in time!

Wait Till Boy Answers

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR Miss Fairfax' writes Broken-hearted Dot" "I have always been an interested reader of your column, and my heart is being rent to pieces by, and now for the advice I sadly need

"I am 18, almost 17 and have been very unhappy for the past month I recently lived in a near by city, and while I lived there I fell in love with a boy four years my senior. He is clean manly and a good boy. He never bothered with a girl until he met me, and although I have loved him with my whole heart for four years our lips have never met

"When we were together we were both very self-conscious of each other's emotions. I crammed with his mother and love her dearly I know for a fact that the white family likes me. His mother also is dead, and it seems that he does not understand girls, although he had two sisters

I was 15 last girl and he was my first fellow. He never told me he cared but gave me every reason to know that he did. When I left town I was heart-broken and he knew it. He and he would write, so during the first week I wrote him a long, interesting and friendly letter

Four weeks have gone by and I have received no answer

"Do you think he is doing right by me? Does he deserve to be cared for? Does he care why didn't he tell me before he left? And why did he give me reason to think he cared? None but himself can convince me that he doesn't care None interferes with him so I can't be to blame

"BROKEN HEARTED DOT"

THIS girl and boy affection is very precious and has not had time to have been interrupted Four years is a good test of friendship proof that you both care Your friend has always been understanding rather He could not show you his feeling for you by word or deed He finds it hard to write you now because he cares so much Do not be discouraged You can wait loyally and unstintingly. Do it or you will hear from him he will finally find his courage and some day particularly auspicious and write Let the next letter come from him It would have been wise of you to let the first letter come from him after you granted him the privilege of writing you.

Say Goodbye to Hostess

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Is it proper to say good bye and tell the hostess what a lovely time one had when attending a wedding, a tea or reception, or should one just leave without saying anything?

2 What is the proper thing to say to the bride's parents? Do you congratulate them also?

M. B.

1. One of the infallible characteristics of the well-bred person, the person who is used to being a guest among well-bred people is punctilious attention to his or her duty toward his or her hostess or host. Most people do manage to greet the hostess when they enter, especially at a small party but nowadays it is not uncommon to see a person leaving a party, especially a large party, without saying an adieu and thank you to the hostess. Such an omission is inexcusably rude. Before you leave a party you should look up your hostess no matter how inconvenient it is to you or how long you have to wait for her, and assure her of your appreciation of her hospitality and of her invitation to you. The grace with which one does this simple thing for courtesy is most indicative of the breeding of the person.

2. Usually when you are greeting the parents of the bride as they stand in the receiving line, you have only time to say how lovely the daughter looked, or how beautiful the wedding was, or how fortunate that the day is fine, or something of that sort.

BUYING POWER OF DOLLAR IS MISJUDGED

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

Otherwise usually well-informed people seem to take it for granted that the buying power of the dollar is low as regards everything. This is false. Take coffee, on near by every table, current prices are the lowest in 20 years. This is due to dumping of large quantities of the berry on the market, owing to the situation in Brazil. Other instances might be cited, but no list would be complete without mention of the automobile, which you buy for less than half the cost of a decade ago.

No one can deny that the buying power of the dollar has jumped tremendously on the big stock exchange during the past few months.

Just as the Federal Reserve Bank of New York decided to make daily statements on gold imports and exports, important shipments stopped.

There is a great deal more interest in New York and Boston Stock Exchange valuations of the New Haven than there is in the I. C. C. valuation, just issued.

In his special article prepared for the Financial Section of the Boston Evening American yesterday, President T. R. Macauley of the Sun Life Assurance of Canada stressed very properly the income ability of stocks as more important to the large investor than the price at which sound stocks are carried on corporations' books. President Macauley's views have not changed since they were presented last year, prior to the stock market break, when his representatives gathered at the New Ocean House in Swampscott.

Discussion of gold recalls the famous speech that created a tireless appetite for the presidency. In 1896 William Jennings Bryan, then a member of Congress from Nebraska, was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention at Chicago. He there made a speech which resulted in his nomination for the presidency. At the time he was 36 years old and widely known as "the boy orator of the Platte." In his famous speech he hurled defiance at the Cleveland "moneybugs." Democrats had advocated the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1.

It is known as the "cross of gold" speech because it closed with that phrase: "If they force us to battle in the open and defend the gold standard as a good thing, we should fight manfully for it. Having behind us the producing masses of this nation and the world, having behind us the commercial interests, and the laboring interests, and all the business men, we shall answer their demands for a gold standard by saying to them: 'You shall not press down upon the brow of labor this crown of thorns; you shall not crucify mankind upon a cross of gold.'"

70,000 Workers Honor Employer; Unique Event

B. & O. Labor Organizations Dine Daniel Willard, Vermonter, for Fairness

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—This week labor unionists entertained an employer. That's real news, significant news, inspiring news.

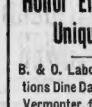
This employer is not head of an organization so small that he could personally know all the workers. His employees total 70,000.

That makes the occasion all the more important, all the more encouraging as an epochal. For does it not suggest that, in the very largest of corporations, it is possible to bring about such friendly relationship between men and management that the workers will be moved to go out of their way to demonstrate their regard for each other?



B. C. Forbes

The occasion was the tendering of a testimonial dinner by the labor organizations of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad to Daniel Willard on his 20th anniversary as president.

Dan Willard belonged to the ranks. He started in Vermont at the very bottom of railroading. One of his earliest and toughest jobs was firing a wee old locomotive with wood. Later he had an all-night job in a roundhouse wrestling with the problem of keeping engines and everything else from freezing during zero weather. He had abundant opportunity to learn labor's slant.

Events have proved that promotion in the ranks didn't cause him to forget it.

The "B. & O. Plan" is famous throughout the railway world. Its keynote is cooperation. The men loyally do their utmost to benefit the company, the company generates. The "Plan" is not elaborately drafted, chartered, graphed on black and white. It is, rather, a spirit.

Let Mr. Willard explain, in the jargue he used last evening in gratefully acknowledging the compliment paid him:

A few weeks before the 1922 shopmen's strike, Mr. Johnston, then president of the Machinists' union, and Mr. Otto Beyer, called at my office and made a proposition which was frankly startling and surprising. Mr. Johnston said, in brief, that the men he represented were all skilled craftsmen, and a rule most of them had spent a good many years in the service, that they naturally had acquired considerable knowledge concerning the work they were doing which ought to be of value to the company, and he suggested that we endeavor to work out some plan whereby a greater use could be made of that knowledge and experience, the men cooperating with the management to that end in a joint effort to promote our mutual interests.

"Discussion of the plan for cooperation resulted immediately after the settlement of the strike, a method of procedure was agreed upon, the plan was put into effect, and subsequent events have fully justified our faith. Cooperation is now an accepted policy in all branches of the Baltimore & Ohio service.

"We have no written plan beyond a brief statement of belief and procedure. The basis of our labor policy is best described as a state of mind resulting from the confidence which the employees have in the fairness of the management and which the management has in the fairness of employees. Instead of thinking of each other in terms of suspicion, a feeling of mutual respect and growing confidence exists, and this in my opinion is the outstanding contribution of our co-operative policy.

"While the practical suggestions which have been made and adopted from time to time have been of substantial value, even so, to my mind, they are relatively unimportant when compared with the feeling of respect and confidence resulting also from the practical application of the plan.

"There is not any company controlled which, if honestly followed, I believe will bring substantial justice or fairness. The rule is to treat the other man as you think you would wish to be treated if in his place. That rule, I hold, is the essence of the Baltimore & Ohio labor policy.

"I am inclined to think that our labor policy was formerly influenced to no small extent by the ever-present thought of the next war, or, in plainer words, the next strike. Now we are trying at least to direct our labor policy so as to prevent war. If it is necessary to have two sides to make war, it is equally necessary to have the cooperation of two sides to make peace.

"This occasion itself is perhaps the best evidence that we have made some progress in that direction."

American stability and prosperity in coming years will depend on our success or failure in establishing satisfactory relations between capital and workers, a [illegible] Chamber of Commerce of the United States declared today in a referendum vote on the question.

Initial Dividend

Trunz Pork Stores, Inc., declared initial quarterly dividend of 50 cents, placing the stock on a $1.60 annual basis, payable February 15 to holders of record February 1.

PROFIT-TAKING COMES INTO BIG CURB

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER.

New York, Jan. 15 (AP)—The curb market was inclined to sag today, under profit-taking on yesterday's advances in the utilities. Several shares were in continued demand, however, and crept higher. On the whole, price changes continued narrow and of little significance. Trading was still in scant volume.

United Light and Power A, for which demand has quickened of late, was a conspicuous firm spot, moderately extending yesterday's advance of 3 points. Earnings for 1929 are estimated at around $2.12 a share, a gain of about 40 per cent over 1928.

St. Regis Paper, which has extensive utility holdings, was also a firm spot, rising more than a point in a fair turnover in view of the dullness of the market. Agricultural Gas rose a couple of points in a few sales.

Such shares as American Superpower, Allied Power, Middle West Utilities, American Commonwealth Power warrants, Electric Bond & Share, and Brazilian Traction, sold off somewhat.

A rally of nearly a point in Fox Theatres "A" was a feature of the specialties. Buying appeared also to be in sympathy with the bullish demonstration in the amusement shares on the New York Stock Exchange. Industrials were largely neglected.

Tubize fell back 5 points in a few sales, and Ford of Canada A was sagged moderately. In the chain stores, Trunz Pork Stores rose fractionally in response to declaration of an initial quarterly dividend of 40 cents.

The gain in crude production as reported for last week was without visible influence on the oils. Vacuum gained a point, and Cities Service eased fractionally. In the investment trusts, Lehman Corp. and Goldman Sachs eased, while Third National advanced moderately.

DIVIDENDS ARE SIGNIFICANT

New York, Jan. 15—That a better balance between industrial markets and financial markets will be maintained during 1930 is the opinion of Frazier Jelke, head of the New York Stock Stock Exchange firm of the same name, who said yesterday that investment bankers do not propose to devote their time any more than to satisfy the needs of their own markets, which is a policy similar to that which is employed by most industries.

"The establishment of such a balance between industrial and the capital markets should prove to be very healthy in its effect," said Mr. Jelke. "Quite recently it has been said about what happened in the past year, when it was clearly evident that the public absorbing a greater volume of capital issues than it could safely digest. Fortunately, the public is now in a greater volume of capital issues than it could safely digest. Fortunately, the public is now in a conservative frame of mind, and suggested that we endeavor to work out some plan whereby a greater use could be made of that knowledge and experience, the men cooperating with the management to that end in a joint effort to promote our mutual interests.

"Discussion of the plan for cooperation resulted immediately after the settlement of the strike, a method of procedure was agreed upon, the plan was put into effect, and subsequent events have fully justified our faith. Cooperation is now an accepted policy in all branches of the Baltimore & Ohio service.

Merger Approval by I. C. C. Near

Washington, Jan. 15—The Interstate Commerce Commission authorization for unification of Great Northern and Northern Pacific, conditioned on release of their control of Burlington, is anticipated here. Such authorization is expected shortly, now that commission has promulgated its consolidated plan. That exclusion of the Burlington from the proposed merger is unacceptable to the Great Northern is definitely indicated in statements by Ralph Budd, Great Northern. The Northern's chief concern is to preserve an entrance into Chicago over its own rails instead of cutting off its lines at the Twin Cities.

Steel Corporation Will Call Bonds

The U. S. Steel Corp. will announce March Feb. 1 the final step in its $400,000,000 bond retirement plan, initiated early in 1928. This will call for retirement of remainder of bonds of subsidiaries totaling $54,700,000, requiring expenditure of $60,000,000. It is learned that directors have postponed until April, at earliest, consideration of proposal to readjust common stock structure, which will undoubtedly take form of stock dividend of between 10 per cent and 15 per cent and not a split-up.

Mohawk Mining to Pay $1.50 a Share

Mohawk Mining Co. declared a dividend of $1.50 a share, payable March 1 to stock of record January 31. Three months ago the company declared a $3 dividend and six and nine months ago $1.50 per share was declared. The $3 declaration for the final quarter of 1929 was the same as was declared in the final quarter of 1928.

BOND MARKET DEMAND IS IMPROVED

By JOHN L. COOLEY

New York, Jan. 15 (AP)—Bonds met a good investment demand today and the list as a whole extended improvement which appeared under the close of the Tuesday session.

Another group of new issues, totaling more than $30,000,000, was sold by syndicates, which reported a ready absorption of the securities. One of the loans, the Chesapeake & Ohio $35,068,000 issue of refunding and improvement 4½s, was taken soon after the opening of the subscription books at the offering price of 94. The success of this offering was closely watched, for it was the first important mortgage rail flotation since the stock break, and was regarded as a further test of the market for bonds legal for savings bank investment.

Utilities and industrials fared somewhat better than the rails in the earlier hours. Reports that the United States Steel Corporation was going to make further requirements in the funded debt of subsidiaries brought buying of the Illinois Steel 4½s, which rose 2 points to 100, against the call price of 105. These bonds are guaranteed by the steel corporation.

Allis Chalmers 5s, American Smelting 5s, United States Rubber 5s, Consolidated Gas of New York's 4½s and North American Edison's showed small gains. The last named sold off yesterday on announcement of the new issue's bearing the same coupon.

The new American Telephone 5s yielded a shade, but managed to stay a point above the offering price. Bankers reported that the subscription for this issue had totaled about $350,000,000.

The rails were mixed. Baltimore & Ohio first 5s, Pennsylvania gold 4s, Atchison general 4s and Missouri Pacific general 4s sold off, but the St. Louis & San Francisco issues, Erie Consolidated and Chicago & Northwestern 4½s tended higher.

Foreign bonds were marked by the strength of French government issues, of which were taken up to about their highs for the past year. United States Liberties and Treasuries ended a shade in response to the continued firmness of fine money. Call funds dropped to 4 per cent.

Other new offerings of the day included the Associates Investment Trust's $30,000,000 issue of convertible 10-year 5s at 90; the North American Edison Co. $25,000,000 issue of 10-year 5 per cent debentures at 95½, and a $1,500,000 City of Akron (O.) 4½ and 4¾ per cent loan, yielding 4.40 and 4.35.

Split of General Electric Approved

Schenectady, N. Y., Jan. 15—Stockholders of General Electric Co. at special meeting approved split-up of common shares on a 4 for 1 basis. This will increase authorized common to 29,600,000 shares of no par from 7,400,000. Outstanding stock will total 28,945,928 shares, against 7,211,482 at present.

Grains Are Lower in Chicago Market

Chicago, Jan. 15 (INS)—Grains were generally lower today. Wheat declined 5 to 11c; corn ¼ to 5c; and oats 1c. Prices: Wheat—March 124½; May 128⅝-129; corn—March 92; May 95-95⅛; July 96⅜-⅞. Oats—May 46⅝.

Stock Dividend

Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis declared a stock dividend of 10 per cent, payable Feb. 15 to stock of record Jan. 25.

Transcontinentd Railroads Should Be Fostered By the Government

It is an obvious lack, for which no remedy is offered in the report of the Interstate Commerce Commission suggesting railroad consolidations.

Every traveler from coast to coast over American railroads can testify to the inconvenience of our having no transcontinental line. Changes of cars and tedious waits characterize the required shift from one road to another at Chicago, St. Paul and Omaha. Through lines under single ownership would bring benefits to cross-country passengers and freight alike.

THE history of American railroads is the story of hooking up short lines into long routes under one management. The present New York Central from New York to Chicago is compounded of over a dozen once independent lines. There used to be a change of gauge at Dunkirk, N. Y. Its inhabitants rioted in protest against any improvement that would let cars run straight through and deprive Dunkirk citizens of their profitable transfer business.

Why should the extension of the New York Central stop at Chicago? Why not continue it to Seattle or San Francisco or Los Angeles?

CANADA, north of us, with a population of eight million, has two real transcontinentals: The Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National. The strength of the Canadian Pacific and its services to Canada are known to all. Indeed, it is the author of the world's most effective national transportation system, extended by railroad-owned steamship lines to all the great ports of Europe and Asia.

We have transcontinental communication by telephone and telegraph under single ownership. We shall soon have transcontinental highways. We need transcontinental railroads. Their formation should be authorized and encouraged by the government and its agents, the Interstate Commerce Commission.

This is the third of a series of editorials on the proposed merger of American railroads. The fourth will appear tomorrow

New Postoffice

Needed NOW

THE best minds among our local architects and city planners having turned thumbs down on the project to erect a War Memorial on the site of the old Postoffice, it is devoutly to be hoped that there is nothing left which can prevent the speedy beginning of work upon a NEW Postoffice.

Which is not to say that the picture of a War Memorial on the plot bounded by Postoffice Square and Milk, Water and Devonshire streets was without appeal.

The fact, however, is that Government moves slowly.

Edwin H. Pearson, supervising architect and chief engineer of local Federal buildings, suggests that a shift of site at this time might delay the completion of a new building by TWO OR THREE YEARS.

Why take that chance? The money has been appropriated and is available, there is an unemployment problem at our doors, and Boston needs the new building.

Don't give Washington ANY excuse for further delay.

"Lest We Forget"

The Case of Widow Troy Is a Reminder That the State Should Be a Protector

EVERY so often Boston is sorrowed by the slaying of a policeman engaged in the performance of his duty.

Usually, as in the case of Patrolman James J. Troy, the officer leaves a large family, without means of support. "Honest cops," with large families, have little opportunity to save money.

For a time after every such tragedy there is a general sentiment favoring an increase in the amount paid by State and city to the families of policemen killed in the line of duty. But the public forgets and the pressure for such legislation is lightened as the shock of the tragedy passes.

We listen to a lot of talk, then interest dies away and nothing is done.

Mrs. James J. Troy will receive $2500 from the State and $600 from the city, with $2 a week for each of her children.

What a small price for a life laid down for the public!

There is a bill pending providing compulsory payment of a $2000 annuity to the widows of policemen and firemen killed in action. The amount might be more, but it is a good bill and deserves support. The annuity is the main part.

Let's not leave to charity what is manifestly a public duty. Let's really do something about it this time—before we again forget.

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

ONE feature about Americans is the sincerity with which we try to eliminate ourselves.

Everything we do is accomplished with community belligerence. When we stand up in a row-boat and start rocking we are trying to spoil the aim of the coast guard.

Our greatest game is football which is a small but fierce war in which no prisoners are taken. Our next greatest pastime is pedestrianism-on-the-hoof.

Grade crossings claim almost as many students as bootleg liquor. When we pay to see a prize fight we want to see both fighters automatically massacred by the same punch.

One man will sit on a flagpole for 50 days, while a young couple matriculates in a Marathon dance and makes a record for slow poison.

Last summer a Denver woman shot her husband in a bridge game when he tried to finesse a deuce. We once challenged a Vermont checker champion to a game and thought we were safe. Ten minutes later he let go with both barrels of a moose Howitzer. He was 80 years old, but way back in 1856 he had got a set of lead soldiers for Christmas.

We fought to take this territory away from the Indians and they have left their arrow marks on our questionnaires. We have merged amusement with retaliation and science with assessments. If we do happen to launch one good idea we immediately expand it to a chain system of a thousand bad ones.

We will soon stop eating grapefruit because we scorn to do things by halves. Our battle cry is whole hog or none, and we will kill every bird in the woods in order to get one single feather for our hat.

H. G. Wells Writes on "The Science of Life"

In Collaboration With Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells

SIDE to side, and by movements of hundreds of "tube-feet," gripping the ground by means of their suckers, the starfish crawls along.

Inside its body it has an elaborate system of pipes and reservoirs containing a watery fluid and opening to the exterior through a porous, sieve-like plate, the madreporite, that is placed near the anus; the tube-feet are stretched out by forcing water into them from this system and drawn in by allowing it to flow back.

This "water-vascular system" is quite unlike anything found elsewhere; it is one of the many unique and characteristic features of these echinoderms.

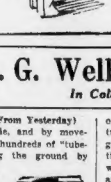
One of its five arms—it does not matter which—is a temporary head; it is curved upward so that the little scarlet eye on the tip (albeit very dimly) perceives coming dangers, and the two or three end pairs of tube-feet are extended in the water like the antennae of an insect. The other arms are subordinate: they are simply walking, and not sitting up and taking notice.

If we tap the front end of the leading arm, or if for any other reason it seems to the animal that the direction in which it is proceeding is not desirable, that arm ceases to act as a head and becomes passive; one of the other arms holds up its eye-spot and waves its tentacles like antennae, and the animal follows the new head in a new direction.



H. G. Wells

It will be noted that at any one time the many hundreds of tube-feet are all pulling together, some working in a direction parallel with the groove in which they sit, some, in other arms, working across their grooves at various appropriate angles.

The starfish feeds on animal prey—colonial sea-squirts or polyzoa or small worms in the case of Asterina, oysters, mussels, scallops and so on in the case of some larger forms, other starfishes in the case of the seven-armed Luidia. They have no masticatory apparatus.

A few starfishes take their victims whole into their bodies and there digest them; others hold them by means of their tube-feet and turn their own stomachs inside-out through their mouths on to the prey, digesting it outside the body.

Sometimes Asterina may be seen to browse slowly over colonies of sea-squirts by means of its everted stomach.

The starfish has no internal skeleton, but his integument is made hard and stiff by a network of bony plates and spines. Scattered over the surface of his body are little pincer-like structures, the "pedicellariae"—tiny groups of two or three-toothed jaws mounted on a muscular stalk.

By means of these gnashing pincers the starfish cleans his body and defends himself against his enemies; in one or two instances they have been seen to be used when attacking prey, and sometimes they secrete poison.

The echinoderm are an exclusively marine group. The sausage-shaped trepangs or bechede-mer are an important luxury food among eastern peoples, and there exists a large industry for collecting them from the reefs of California and the Eastern Archipelago.

And the spawn of certain sea-urchins is eaten in Mediterranean countries. The chief trouble caused by echinoderms is that some of the larger and more voracious starfishes wreak havoc on oyster beds.

There are five living classes. The starfishes we have already mentioned.

The second comprises the brittle-stars—surprisingly active animals with round, button-like discs and very thin, serpentine arms, by lashing movements of which they move along.

The third class, the sea-urchins, cake-urchins and sand-dollars, have no arms.

The last two types nourish themselves like earthworms by shoveling mud into their mouths and digesting out any nutritious matter that it may contain, while the prickly urchins are mainly browsers upon seaweed.

A sea-urchin is a hollow, bony ball, bristling with spines, tube-feet and pedicellariae. Below, on the side on which it crawls, is its mouth, provided with five sharp teeth; the teeth are moved by an elaborate engine of bones and muscles called "Aristotale's lantern."

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

SOMETHING ought to be done to make the world safe for elopements!

Every now and then we hear of some Movie Queen or some Follie Girl who has "eloped"—or is planning to elope, or threatening to elope.

"Elope" from WHOM? From where—and WHY?

That's the greatest problem of a romantic girl's life, these days. Not, how or with whom to elope—but to find somebody to elope FROM!

Of course, she COULD go down to the club or the office or the golf links, and drag Father home, and make him stay there long enough for the Boy Friend to bring around a ladder and stage a "runaway." But, somehow that seems to lack the flavor. There's no point to it!

Or she MIGHT keep mother home from Paris or Florida or the bridge club, or the shops or the beauty parlor, long enough to put over a back-door sneak at midnight, and a Gretna Green wedding.

But, it is doubtful if she could induce them to restrain their expressions of relief and pleasure sufficiently to play the Heavy Parent and give the elopement a little kick.

Father, instead of bolting the front door and threatening to shoot the impetuous young lover, would probably sneak upstairs and kindly open the window. And, at the last moment, Mother would call her back and ask her if she had enough motor-robes, or if she'd like Jenkins to make them up some turkey sandwiches, to eat on the way.

You see how hopeless it is—with these modern parents! You can't run away and get married if there's nobody to run AWAY from, except the butler.

The only person who does any heavy eloping these days is the married woman, who runs off with her chauffeur, or the soda-water clerk at the corner.

And even SHE, as likely as not, will receive a wire at the first station, reading, "Good luck, old Girl. And thanks awfully for taking that dear dash blankety-blank Pekingese with you. Where did you leave the aspirin?"

The only deserted husband of whom I have read recently, that seemed to be awfully cut-up at his wife's departure, was that California man, who discovered that the lover had helped himself to his (the husband's) best blue silk pajamas.

No! There's no ROMANCE in life for a woman these days—with nobody to restrain her, or oppose her or go around shooting off guns for her.

Might just as well stay at home and get some use of the car and the family charge account! Hmm!

What Chilly Planets!

Maybe Science Does Them Injustice

(Copyright, 1930)

PROBABLE ICY SCENERY ON THE PLANETS URANUS AND NEPTUNE

YOU know how our little earth travels through space, and we with it. In the center, the great sun, source of light and heat for us all, rolls on to a destination unknown and this earth and the other planets go around and around it, like little chickens walking around the mother hen as the hen goes across the field.

Chickens just hatched don't know where the hen is going, and we, just hatched, don't know where the sun is going, or whither it is taking us. We know that the sun has lasted many billions of years, and the earth many hundreds of millions of years, and we are not worried.

It may be in accordance with the text "In my Father's house there are many mansions" that we go from this planet to some other, perhaps to one of the planets now in our solar system, perhaps off beyond OUR solar system to another system, or even entirely away from our corner of the universe, to a heaven inconceivably far off.

We are obliged to speculate on the location of heaven since science now shows us that it cannot be in the clouds just over our heads, also that the earth will only last a few more million million years and could not provide an eternal home.

This picture is interesting because it shows two of the planets that accompany us in our journey around the sun and as modern science sees them.

You know how the planets are arranged, as regards the sun. Nearest comes Mercury, then Venus, then the Earth, then Mars, then a lot of little asteroids, too small to be called planets.

Then the giant Jupiter, biggest of all the planets. Then Saturn, next biggest, the one with the rings. Then Uranus and Neptune, the coldest planets.

All these planets are supposed to have been torn loose from the sun in a sort of "cigar-shaped filament," with smaller planets at each end of the "cigar," the giant Jupiter in the center and Saturn next to it.

Wherever we may go when we leave here let us hope we shall not go to either of the two "outside" planets, Uranus or Neptune. This picture shows what science thinks about things on the surfaces of those two planets, "permanently glaciated," ice piled up everywhere. This is a picture made by Scriven Bolton, F. R. A. A., for Illustrated London News.

If the scientists are right, which is not certain, THEY GIVE OUR LITTLE WORLD TOO MUCH CREDIT.

The Wisdom that created the universe, with its nebulae and with stars a million million times as big as our earth, rolling in space millions of "light years" from our corner of the universe, has probably NOT made us the only thinking creatures in all that great territory.

We take it for granted that there is no life, no consciousness in the beautiful gigantic suns that blaze in space.

We may be mistaken there.

Half a dozen maggots on the ground looking at a live, bounding, roaring lion might say to each other: "There is a terrible creature. There is no life or consciousness THERE, of course. But wait until that lion cools off, grows cold, and INHABITABLE. Then WE maggots shall take possession, and then that lion will be worth while. It will be an inhabited lion; we shall be the inhabitants, and enjoy ourselves."

One great spirit animates the roaring lion while he is alive. Many maggots inhabit him when he is dead. But the maggot inhabitants are not superior to the lion.

And the giant sun, like Aldebaran, or Betelgeuse, or our own magnificent sun, might be inhabited by one splendid dominating spirit, living, thriving and ruling in the inconceivable temperature of fifty million degrees centigrade.
